Board to Discuss Data Processing Idea for Schools

Members of the Board of Education Finance Committee of the Kingston City Schools, (Consolidated), will meet Wednesday, Dec. 13, at 7:30 p. m., to consider the advisability of acquiring IBM data processing equipment for the school system.

Dr. Earl F. Soper, superintendent of schools, broached the subject at Thursday night's meeting of the Board and David Kline, finance chairman set next Wednesday as the date for his committee to sit down and discuss the proposal with members of the school staff.

Efficiency Cited

Dr. Soper told Board members Thursday night of the efficiency and time saving qualities of the data processing equipment which includes a key puncher, sorter and accounting machine. He cited the various things for which the equipment could be used, such as payrolls, writing of checks, keeping accounts, compiling Social Security and Teacher Retirement plan benefits. He also said it could be used for report and permanent record cards for students, inventory of supplies, the school census and absence lists among other things. He said the machine processes from 50 up to 100 lines a minute.

Dr. Soper explained that, for instance, whereas now it takes two full working weeks to get out the teachers' pay checks,

Rocky to Map 1962 Strategy on Dec. 27

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller has begun preparing for what is expected to be an intensive drive for reelection—a campaign that may well affect his national standing.

Rockefeller, mentioned frequently as a potential candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1964, has scheduled a high-level meeting for Dec. 27 to map official strategy for his 1962 reelection bid.

The governor's chances of obtaining the GOP presidential nomination are expected to depend heavily on next year's gubernatorial election. The effect of his impending divorce remains, however, a political imponderable.

Among those who are expected to attend the meeting are U.S. Sens. Kenneth B. Keating and Jacob K. Javits, Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson, State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz, Republican legislative leaders, Republican state Chairman L. Judson Morhouse and George Hinman, GOP national committeeman from New York State.

Rockefeller next year probably will have as running mates on the same ticket Javits, Wilson, Lefkowitz and the legislators.

The governor has several other meetings scheduled on his December calendar.

He will meet Sunday in New York City with other members of the Civil Defense Commission of the Governor's Conference.

The governor is chairman of that committee and has advocated strongly a program of fallout shelters for the civilian population.

Dominican Agreement Reported

Opposition Says Strike Is Over

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—The official newspaper El Caribe said today agreement in principle has been reached between opposition and government representatives on a formula to solve the nation's political crisis.

No Details on Formula

The newspaper gave no details on the formula. It did not attribute the information to any specific individual. The report could not be immediately confirmed from either opposition or government sources.

At the same time, the opposition radio network, Voz del Tropic, announced that a general strike called to back opposition demands that President Juquin Balaguer step out of the government has been ended.

12-Hour Negotiations

The reports followed Friday night's 12-hour negotiating session between government and opposition representatives. After the session recessed, the National Civic Union, largest of the opposition groups, said it would continue negotiations today despite an ultimatum that it would withdraw from the talks unless a settlement was reached.

Warships Withdrawn

Meanwhile, the United States announced it has withdrawn a fleet of warships from the vicinity of the Dominican Republic. The ships appeared off the coast shortly after two brothers of slain dictator Rafael Trujillo returned to the country apparently to try to restore a rightist dictatorship. The Trujillos, Hector and Jose Arizmendi, were forced out of the country a few days later by an air force coup.

In Washington, U.S. government sources declined to discuss the significance of recalling the ships.

Opposition groups have insisted that Balaguer, a former front man for dictator Trujillo, and all other holdovers from the Trujillo era must get out of the government. A general strike called to back the demands entered its 12th day today.

July Release Possible

The Army hopes to release all the Guardsmen and Reservists from active service by next July, but no decision has been made on when to start the process.

For one thing, the Army feels they should undergo at least five months of training. Most of them have been in uniform less than two months.

President Kennedy said 10 days ago: "It is our hope to get these men out before their 12-months period." Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr Jr. followed this by saying, "We do intend to try to beat" the year limit, depending on the way the international situation develops.

Complaints May Help

Suggestions have arisen that a rash of complaints from some of the recalled Guardsmen and Reservists might prompt the Kennedy administration to consider their release, particularly since 1962 is a congressional election year.

One top official said there has been no suggestion from the White House or any other government quarter that "any military compromise should be made to ward off criticism."

A snow front moved menacingly eastward across the state today after dumping as much as two feet of snow in areas of Lakes Erie and Ontario.

As squalls receded in the Great Lakes area, the counties east and southeast of the snow belt braced for their share of snow threatened for Sunday. New York City and the southern sections of the state stood a chance of escaping with rain mixed with snow.

Generally fair skies were expected to become murky by late today. Periods of wet snow are forecast through Sunday in the western section, where some areas dug out from a crippling snowfall that disrupted air and road traffic and caused some schools to close.

Snow was heaviest in Chautau-

Credit Courageous Acts With Saving Many Hospital Lives

15 Persons Dead In Hartford Fire, Probe Underway

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Fire burst out of a ninth floor trash chute at Hartford Hospital Friday, flashed down a corridor with blowtorch fury and killed 15 persons.

More than 100 other persons were trapped in hospital rooms as the fire transformed once gleaming corridors into a mass of charred debris.

Six patients, five visitors and four hospital staff members were among the dead. Two of the visitors had been to see their ill husbands. There were 793 patients in the hospital at the time.

Manlius Woman Victim

Mrs. Henrietta Conover, 56, of Manlius, N. Y., was among the 15 persons killed in the Hartford Hospital fire Friday. She was a visitor at the hospital.

Cause Not Clear

An almost immediate investigation and hearing put witness after witness — some of them still disheveled and soot-marked — before fire officials in an effort to pinpoint the cause.

The cause was not clear. Perhaps a lighted cigarette, said one hospital official. Perhaps some kind of escaped gas, said another.

The formal investigation session lasted for six hours and was recessed until today.

Of the fire victims, 12 were women and 3 men. The four hospital staff members who perished were a doctor, a private nurse, a dietary aide and a housekeeping supervisor.

One doctor said flames raced along the ceiling. Another said a billow of flame dropped down from the ceiling "like a blowtorch."

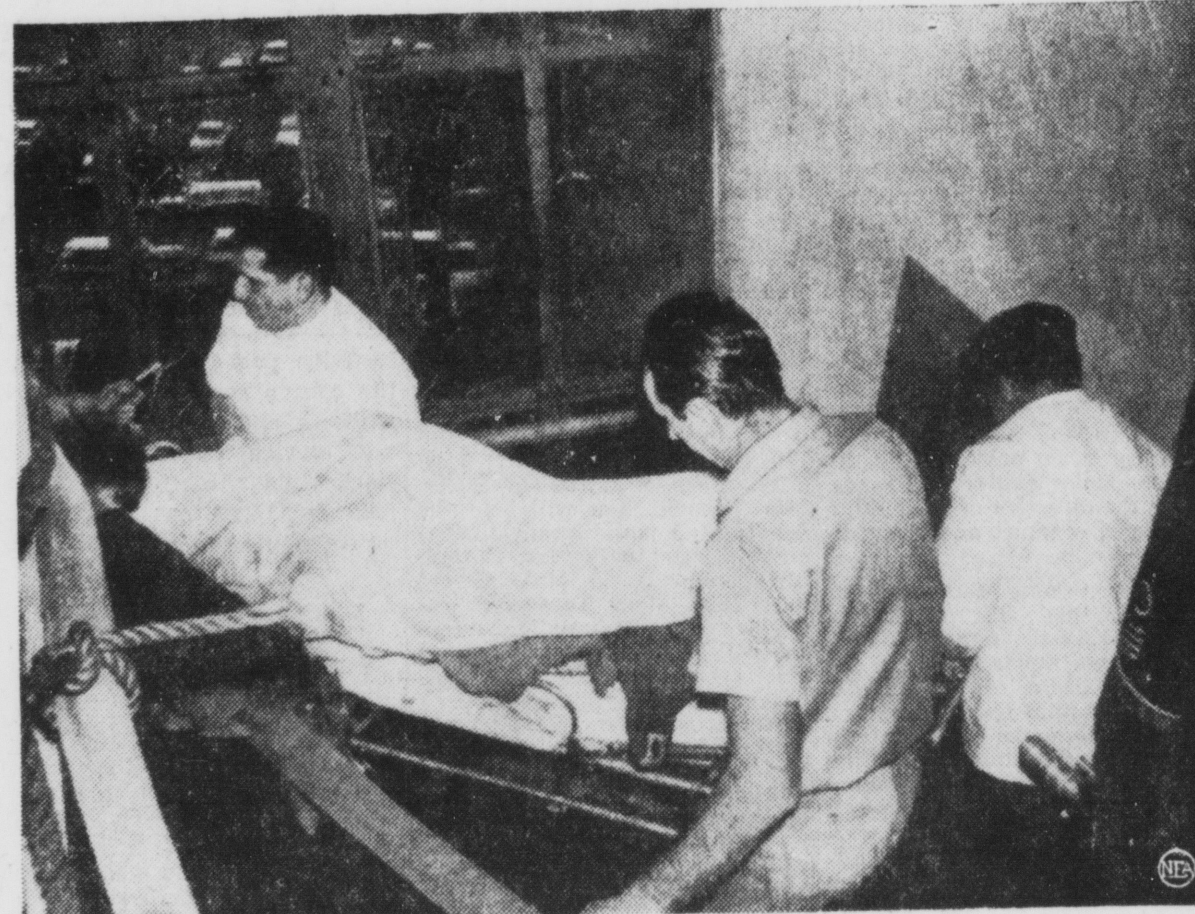

Thick smoke and a muffled explosion accompanied the blast of flame that spouted from the trash chute at the ninth floor.

Scream for Help

Patients screamed for help from their windows. Rescuers fought through smoke and fire as they carried helpless patients to safety down stairs or by the few elevators still working.

Nurses remained with their patients to prevent panic despite choking smoke and approaching flames. They ran through corridors, slamming doors shut as a

Pavlak, Ex-Freeman Writer, To Seek Greene Assembly Job

Under Sheriff Joseph M. Pavlak, 40, of Catskill, confirmed a report Friday that he would seek the Greene County Republican nomination for Assemblyman next year following an announcement that Assemblyman William E. Brady of Coxsackie would not seek reelection.

"I am definitely interested in securing the Republican nomination for Assemblyman" Under Sheriff Pavlak told a Freeman reporter. "I shall actively seek the Republican Party designation which becomes vacant with the retirement of Assemblyman Brady," Pavlak said.

Doctors Remove Spoon Gulped by Accused Slayer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Stomach surgery was performed today on a madman who swallowed a spoon handle while awaiting transfer to New York where he is accused in the slaying of his brother-in-law's family.

Mat (Mike) Ivanov, 37, a Yugoslav immigrant, underwent the operation at Jackson Memorial Hospital where he was moved after swallowing the 3½ inch spoon handle in his cell at Dade County Jail.

Swallowed Handle

Ivanov, lodged in the jail as a federal prisoner, was served a meal shortly after 5 p.m., Friday along with other prisoners and was given a spoon. Jail attendants in a corridor reported hearing later a scraping noise as if something was being sharpened and when they entered Ivanov's cell, they found he had broken off the spoon handle and swallowed it.

After other attempts to remove the spoon handle failed, Ivanov underwent stomach surgery, police said. Following the operation, he was placed in a detention

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev said today the Soviet Union had built 50- and 100-megaton bombs so that they would hang over the heads of Western powers like the sword of Damocles.

He told delegates to the Communist-dominated congress of the World Federation of Trade Unions that the Soviet Union had no plans to use such bombs "but we shall certainly use this weapon against the enemy if they unleash a new war."

"The 50- and 100-megaton bombs will always hang over their heads like the sword of Damocles," he said.

Tshombe's Army Due To Attack

Capital Quietest Since Outbreak

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP)—Torrential rains slowed the fighting between U.N. and Katanga forces today giving Elisabethville the quietest spell since the battle began on the outskirts of the capital five days ago.

At Leopoldville, the United Nations said U.N. Swedish jets had knocked out the powerful government-controlled Katanga radio Friday. The U.N. announcement said Swedish ground troops dispersed a large concentration of Katanga gendarmes around the Elisabethville transmitter.

Dispute U.N. Claim

Katangan sources disputed U.N. claims and said only a powerline was cut and the station could go back on the air after repairs.

Mortar fire was heard in the area of the U.N. headquarters here at dawn. Katanga army sources said they expect to launch an attack to try to clear the area.

A report to the U.N. command at Leopoldville said Indian troops fought off an attack through the bush around the Elisabethville airport Friday, supported by Indian Canberra jet aircraft. Two attacking companies of Katanga gendarmes were reported to have suffered heavy losses.

Says Tank Demolished

U.N. sources said the column of advancing gendarmes was led by a huge improvised tank, constructed by a private industrial firm in Katanga. Built upon the base of a bulldozer, the tank was covered with double armor plates filled with concrete.

The Indians claimed they attacked the tank with a recoilless rifle and demolished it with the first shot.

A U.N. armored car drove through the section of town around the U.N. headquarters here with a loudspeaker warning civilians not to shelter Katanga snipers in their homes or "action would be taken to destroy the snipers' nests."

Skirmishes flared on the outskirts of Elisabethville. But the U.N. forces made no effort to drive into the center of the city where the Katangans held two main military strongholds—President Moise Tshombe's palace and the Lido Hotel.

Brian Urquhart, U.N. political advisor, reported to his New York headquarters that Swedish, Irish and Indian troops were making good progress in cleaning up the outskirts of the capital and had eliminated all Katangan roadblocks.

Spaak Hits Action

Hospital to Air Scholl Property Purchase Monday

A proposal to purchase the building and land now occupied by Scholl's Market at Broadway and Foxhall Avenue as part of an expansion program by Kingston Hospital, will be discussed Monday at a meeting to be held at the hospital starting at 12:15 p. m.

Robert M. Schnitzer, hospital administrator, said today the Board of Directors has called a meeting which will be attended by a group of city residents to discuss the proposed purchase of the property and consider other expansion program proposals.

Schnitzer said the purchase of the Broadway-Foxhall Avenue property, which has a frontage on Broadway of approximately 60 feet, immediately adjoining the hospital, has been explored by the hospital directors for some time and has been discussed at two previous meetings.

The administrator said Monday's orientation meeting will be the last meeting prior to definite action on expansion proposals. He said that if the purchase of the property is consummated, no immediate action is anticipated for tearing down the structure.

Trinity Church Dedication Rite Slated Thursday

Dedication services will be held at Trinity Methodist Church, Wurts and Hunter Streets, Thursday 7:30 p. m. for the new narthex.

The narthex was given in memory of Mrs. Alva Staples who was a member of Trinity church for over 70 years. It consists of three rooms in the rear of the sanctuary, a stairway leading to the church school facilities on the first floor. The rooms are finished in oak paneling to match the interior of the sanctuary. Plate glass portions permit viewing of the stained glass windows considered by many to be the most beautiful in the Hudson Valley.

The contractor was the firm of J. H. Schomaker and Son of Kingston. Building committee was John Short, chairman; Mrs. Addison Pardee, George Lowe, Mrs. George Long and Charles Shultis. The construction is the first in the historic downtown church in this century.

Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke of the New York Area of the Methodist Church will officiate at the dedication with the Rev. George P. Werner, superintendent of the Kingston District, participating. All area clergy and congregations may attend.

Return to Christ In Christmas Is Seen This Season

NEW YORK (AP)—"It is my prediction that there will be more Christmas music in the churches, on the radio and on TV this Christmas than ever before," says Dr. Jesse M. Bader, general secretary of the World Convention of Churches of Christ (Disciples).

"Why? Because our world needs the Christ of Christmas now more than ever. Today America is called upon to make him central and not marginal."

Dr. Bader predicted further: "There will be more window displays with Christmas scenes and more carol singing in communities across our land. There will be a much greater exchange of appropriate religious Christmas cards."

On the latter point, the Greeting Card Association already is able to say that Dr. Bader is correct. This year three billion Christmas cards will go through the mail, the association says, and approximately 30 per cent will be religious in design and message. Ten years ago about 10 per cent were religious in theme. The increase has been steady throughout the decade.

The Madonna and Child is the most popular design for the religious cards, as it was last year and has been since 1949. This year Madonnas are depicted on 16.2 per cent of the religious cards. Manager scenes, which ranked second in 1960, are a somewhat closer second this year—15.5 per cent.

Pope John Makes Powerful Plea for Christian Unity

By FRANK BRUTTO

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII today made the most powerful plea of his reign for Christian unity in the modern world.

The Pope made his appeal in issuing an encyclical on Pope Leo I, the great fifth century pontiff. Appealing for the unity of all Christians, Pope John expressed the hope that the day bringing "the dawn of universal reconciliation" would come soon.

Leo, who became a saint of the Roman Catholic Church, stood up to Attila the Hun, dissuading him from attacking Rome.

But the great pontiff was especially noted for his fight for church unity at a time when the church faced heresy both in the East and the West, and the declining power of the Roman Empire faced the assaults of barbarian hordes.

Vatican sources said that the pontiff obviously intended his encyclical on Leo as a call to the world's Christian forces to band together against the threat of atheistic communism today.

The encyclical, from its opening words in Latin, is named "Aeterna dei Sapientia" — the eternal wisdom of God.

Its issuance in advance of the Roman Catholic Church's first ecumenical council in nearly 100 years emphasized Pope John's deep concern with Christian unity.

The Pope is expected to announce the opening date of the council soon, possibly in his Christmas message to the world.

Three Local Youths Enlist in U. S. Navy

Three young men from Ulster County enlisted in the Regular Navy on December 6.

They are: Thomas J. Barberich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Barberich of Rifton; Charles Galvin, son of Mrs. Anne Galvin of Kingston, and Ronald Dewey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard W. Dewey Sr. of Gardiner.

They were immediately transferred to the U. S. Naval Training Center at Great Lakes, Ill., where they will spend 10 weeks in recruit training. Upon completion of this training they will be granted 14 days recruit leave to return home and visit their parents.

Barberich and Galvin attended Kingston High School, while Dewey attended New Paltz Central School. They all enlisted as seaman recruits at the U. S. Navy Recruiting Station, Post Office Building, Kingston.

Pedestrian Hurt In Auto Mishap

A 38-year-old Kingston man was injured at 7 p. m. Friday when hit by an automobile as he was walking across Broadway at Garden Street.

A report of Patrolman Vincent Eckert said James Castle, of 100 McEntee Street, was treated by a physician for bruises of the right knee.

Supervisors Are To Meet Tuesday

A special meeting of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors will be held Tuesday at 8 p. m. at which time a date will be set for the public hearing on the proposed 1962 budget.

A regular meeting of the board will be held Thursday, Dec. 14, at which time in accordance with a prior resolution, trustees for the Community College will be named.

Saugerties Vols Alerted

All three Saugerties volunteer fire fighting units were alerted at 4:30 p. m. Friday and responded to a fire in the cellar of a residence at 64 Ulster Avenue owned by Donald Whitaker of Woodstock. Fire officials said the cause of the alarm was a paint bucket which had caught fire. No damage was reported.

Methodists Will Have Stewardship Program in Area

Representatives from Methodist churches in the Kingston District met in the St. James Methodist Church this week, for a Stewardship-of-all-of Life workshop.

Leading the presentation and discussion were Gordon Danielson, attorney and member of the General Board of Lay Activities, and the Rev. Alex Porteus, executive secretary of the boards of education and missions of the New York Conference of the Methodist Church.

Stewardship was defined as an out-going expression of life related to the use of one's time and abilities. During the month of January, each Thursday 7:30 p. m. in the St. James Methodist Church, the Rev. C. Pershing Hunter will teach the Sunday school teachers and members of the education commission and stewardship and finance commission, of the churches in the Kingston sub-district, how to make stewardship a way of life.

It was announced by the District Superintendent, the Rev. George P. Werner, that in the month of February ministers of the Kingston District would be preaching sermons on the theme of Stewardship of All of Life, and at the same time the stewardship emphasis would be brought into the Sunday school class rooms and youth groups.

Following the cottage meetings Feb. 28, when the church members meet in the homes to study the meaning of Christian Stewardship, March 4 will be observed as Affirmation Sunday, a day when personal commitment folders will be brought to the church for dedication. The conclusion was drawn from the training session this week, that Christian stewardship involves the whole of life and must be related to one's advantages, abilities, time and talents.

Pope John said that he saw "good reason for hope" in efforts being made towards Christian unity in many quarters.

Expressed by Others "The coming together in friendship of those who are children of the same Heavenly Father and coheirs of the same glorious kingdom will be the sign announcing the triumph of the Mystical Body of Christ," said the Pope.

This was a thought expressed also by Protestant leaders who have had unprecedented meetings with Pope John. The most recent was Bishop Arthur Lienhard, head of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States.

Following his meeting with Pope John on Nov. 15, the American bishop said that he hoped such talks would lead to greater Christian understanding.

"But the road to Christian unity," he added, "is sure to be a very long process."

Pope John's encyclical was also a fighting call to the church to face its modern problems. It recalled that Pope Leo, who reigned from 440 until 461, had later conferred upon him by Pope Benedict XIV the title of "Doctor of the Church."

Lefkowitz Avers Forest Protected, Bill Unnecessary

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The sponsor of the controversial proposal to restrict or ban motorized traffic in sections of the Forest Preserve says he has abandoned the plan as no longer necessary.

R. Watson Pomeroy, R-Dutchess, said Friday an opinion by State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz had established that the power to regulate traffic within the Adirondack and Catskill preserves rests with the conservation commissioner.

"This makes it unnecessary," Pomeroy said, "to pursue the same objective by means of legislation which has been under consideration."

Public hearings scheduled in Buffalo and Rochester, New York City and Albany have been cancelled, Pomeroy said.

Previous hearings have "left no doubt as to the strong support for protection of the wilderness character of the Forest Preserve," Pomeroy said.

Pomeroy said his committee would continue its interest in the preserve, which comprises 2.5 million acres. About 2.1 million acres of the preserve are in the Adirondacks and the remainder in the Catskills.

Pomeroy proposed originally that motor vehicles, motor boats and aircraft be restricted or barred from nearly 1 million acres, which he asked be designated as wilderness areas.

An alternate proposal outlined regulation by the conservation commissioner of traffic anywhere in the preserve.

Lefkowitz told Commissioner Harold Wilts Friday that "it lies within your power to make such rules as you deem reasonably necessary to carry out the protection accorded the Forest Preserve."

Arsenal Slates Speakers

Paul M. Netzer, technical advisor to the chief of the Watervliet Arsenal Research & Engineering Division, and Perry Serafin, P.E., ballistics analyst in the same unit, will be the speakers at the monthly meeting of the Arsenal Society of Engineers at 8 p. m. Wednesday in the Arsenal recreation hall. The speakers' topic, "Becoming A Professional Engineer — How the Government Can Help You," will include a discussion of a proposed plan designed to encourage Arsenal engineers to obtain a professional engineer's license, and the value of possessing such a license in federal service. A question and answer period will follow the discussion.

RECITAL AT WEST CAMP—J. Charles Brand, talented blind organist and composer of Kingston will present a Christmas recital Sunday 4 p. m. at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, West Camp. The public is invited. A free-will offering will be received. The presentation will be on the new Robert Rowland organ installed in the church last year at the time of the church's 250th anniversary.

Mission Gifts to Be Collected By First Presbyterian Church

The annual White Christmas of the First Presbyterian Church school will be held Sunday 5 p. m.

Mrs. Dolores Burns is the director of the special program with Mrs. Harold Shultis assisting. A play, A Rehearsal for Christmas will be presented by the students. At the close of the program, all guests may join in presenting their gifts along with students.

Gifts will go for the mission of the Rev. E. Rodriguez of the Bronx.

For further information about the program or the gifts, Mrs. Harford Shultis of 90 Manor Avenue may be contacted.

Hymnsing Set Sunday Night

The regular monthly hymnsing of the churches of Kingston will be held on Sunday 9 to 10 p. m. at the Free Methodist Church, 155 Tremper Avenue.

The host pastor will be the Rev. Theodore Swingle.

The song leader is George Ronk of the Nazarene Church.

A number of special numbers, offered by the local churches will be heard, in addition to congregational singing.

All are invited to attend. A number of churches are represented each month in this singing.

Bible Sunday Service

Bible Sunday will be observed at the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, 11 a. m. The pastor, the Rev. Willard D. Crunkilton will preach on The Holy Bible—God's Living Word to This Generation.

Another in the evening series on the "I Am's of Christ" will be delivered at 7 p. m. on "I Am the Eternal One."

OTHER CHALLENGES

A new American (or is it un-American?) psychosis is manifesting itself. Too many of us view nuclear world destruction as being ultimately inevitable.

Such destruction could come, of course. But if we let ourselves become obsessed with such a notion it would blind us to other challenges facing us, challenges not to our survival but to global survival of our heritage, democracy.

One of those challenges is the deterioration of our image before the down-trodden of the world. What a recent Yankee tourist heard in Mexico is indicative. He was talking to a group of migrant workers home from our last season's harvest fields. "You Yankees," one of them told him, "are just like our Mexicans. You have beeg ricos and mucho pobres. The ricos live like kings. The pobres starve."

We know that this is an exaggeration, that ours is in general a land where even those who are not rich have enough. The trouble is that others do not know this, partly because the Communists have given them a false picture.

Our only real yearning is for peace. We don't see why everyone else doesn't want peace above all else. Yet if the world's starving do not, perhaps it is because they have reached the point where there is something that shines brighter for them than peace. That something is an end to the extremes of abject poverty and great wealth.

The Reds have convinced many of them that communism abolishes both. Even as they breathe the air polluted by Khrushchev's 50-negaton horror they cling to that misguided belief. That is the fantasy we have to combat. We must win the misguided back. Our tools for doing that are truth, and proof that under our system men can be both free and prosperous.

THE CORRECT ANSWER

One of the great staples of Soviet argument is that Russia, having been widely devastated by the Nazis in World War II, lives today in mortal fear of a revived, vengeful Germany.

This argument has been effective propaganda in Europe, where it touches both the fears and the hates of those peoples who remember well their sufferings at Nazi hands. More than a few thoughtful Americans have accepted this Soviet contention as an honest one.

President Kennedy clearly is not among them. With directness and force, he laid bare the fraudulent base of these Soviet "fears" in the interview he granted to Aleksei Adzhubei, editor of the Soviet newspaper Izvestia.

The Russian asked the President to imagine he were a Soviet naval veteran who, having "won the war," now saw defeated Germany refusing to recognize boundaries fixed after the war, building up its armed forces, sending its chancellor to have "secret talks" with Kennedy.

"What would your attitude be?" he asked.

Answering him, Kennedy declared that:

The West Germany the Soviets profess to fear has just nine army divisions, a very small air force, almost no navy, no nuclear weapons or missiles in an age when they are the key to striking power.

The Germany divisions are under NATO's command, not that of the Bonn government. An American officer, not the German generals Russia talks about, is the NATO commander.

In West Germany it requires the units of the 15-member NATO organization together to balance roughly the purely Soviet divisions in East Germany.

The President four separate times said flatly that a West Germany thus equipped and controlled is "not a military threat" to Russia. Though he did not explicitly add it, he implied that the Germans likewise are no military menace to anybody else, including the Scandinavian lands Premier Khrushchev claims are endangered by German "militarism."

'These Days'

SOCIALIZED MEDICINE

At every convention of the American Medical Association, the question of socialized medicine arises, the doctors protesting that Congress is trying to pass legislation which will enslave the medical profession. President Leonard W. Larson of the American Medical Association on November 27 said:

"We are for a free profession, not an enslaved one. We are for the preservation of our constitutional republic; we are opposed to a welfare state. We are for the right of our citizens to spend their own dollars in their own way, not for Washington authoritarians to spend their money for them. Our philosophy is wholly positive."

The opposition is to the King-Anderson Bill which Dr. Larson describes as follows:

"The proponents of King-Anderson type legislation have cleverly promoted the false idea that earmarked payroll and employer taxes would be voluntary prepayments against the cost of health care benefits received subsequently in retirement. The fact is that the King bill levies a compulsory tax on young workers and their employers to pay for a federal program of health benefits for older people, millions of whom are self-reliant and solvent. The King-Anderson program does not provide insurance or prepayment of any type, but compels one segment of our population to underwrite a socialized program of health care for another, regardless of need."

Whereas socialized medicine, in any form, deprives the medical profession of a free wage for its services, it must be admitted that a sharp public opinion is expressing itself against disorderly and unethical conduct in this profession, whether such conduct is widespread or is limited to a few scoundrels.

The entire question of medical charges requires study by the medical profession and by Congress. For instance, it is very difficult to decide whether an operation is necessary or is a fraud to produce a large fee. The responsibility is with hospitals to a degree. That is, a decent, well-managed hospital will not tolerate improper practices.

This raises another question: the hospitals have limited beds and cannot accept all doctors who would care to serve. What is to become of the so-called unaffiliated doctor? The public does not quite understand this question but it is very important to a physician or a surgeon.

A young man gets out of a medical school and his immediate problem is to become an interne and in time a resident. This means that he cannot earn a living for a period but does have an apprentice's wage. The next step is to be admitted to the staff of an outstanding hospital. This has its numerical limitations and the young doctor who is unable to get on the staff of a hospital is "unaffiliated." If he gets a patient, he has to find an "affiliated" doctor, who may be a specialist, who will get his patient into a properly managed hospital or if he is in a large city he might make connections with a privately-owned hospital which may or may not be a properly managed institution. Some of the private hospitals are unfit for any purpose except perhaps as a nursing home. There ought to be some way of formally and legally designating the unsuitable hospitals.

The layman has no way of knowing. He wants to go into a hospital. He finds that every hospital is overcrowded and that he must accept a bed in a ward. He declines to accept a bed in a ward. His doctor sends him to a private hospital which may be owned by doctors or by real estate brokers. The private hospital may have a proper or an unsuitable discipline. The patient will not know it, but his doctor, physician or surgeon, has limited contacts with other physicians and surgeons and that the specialist will not come at the doctor's call. Some doctors will only work in their own hospital which will not accept the particular patient.

In a word, the subject grows increasingly complicated. The patient is fortunate who has an affiliated doctor who is able to get him into a disciplined hospital where unnecessary operations would lead to trouble, where split fees would not be tolerated (though I am not opposed to split fees if the patient is told about it). The general practitioner ought to receive a decent share of any case in which he does a very large part of the work.

The Mature Parent

Parents' Pride Can Sap Confidence of Children

MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

Our 10-year-old girl is a very talented pianist and recently was asked to perform on our local radio station. The day before the performance she had such a severe stomach upset that we had to cancel it. I am worried that this stage fright could ruin her musical career. Though she's had upsets previously before playing in recitals and school entertainments, she has always been able to appear.

ANSWER: It is a very young talent to be used for others' entertainment.

I don't wonder that your daughter gets upset before public performances. Just as a child will lose interest in a doll house whose furniture we are arranging for her, a child will lose interest in his musical talent if he is asked to share it with others too soon.

The original interest he took in producing delightful sounds for himself changes as he is required to produce them for others, turning from joy in himself into obligation to consider us and our pleasure.

That's when confusion begins. Fear of disappointing us, of failing to impress his audience begins to haunt him. At this point, our young musician can start resenting his talent and will express his resistance to the obligation to please us in stomach upsets and other symptoms of "stage fright" that make it impossible for us to demand what he doesn't want to give.

Your daughter's joy in her own gift needs time to grow sure and solid before she is asked to share it with public audiences. It is, in my opinion, a perilous business to make a big fuss over any child's achievement, whether it's a school "A," a tasty salad dressing or a well-played musical composition.

What blinds us to the danger is the child's apparent craving for our approval. We think he is seeking our flattery when, the fact is, he is seeking support for his own still uncertain confidence in his achievement.

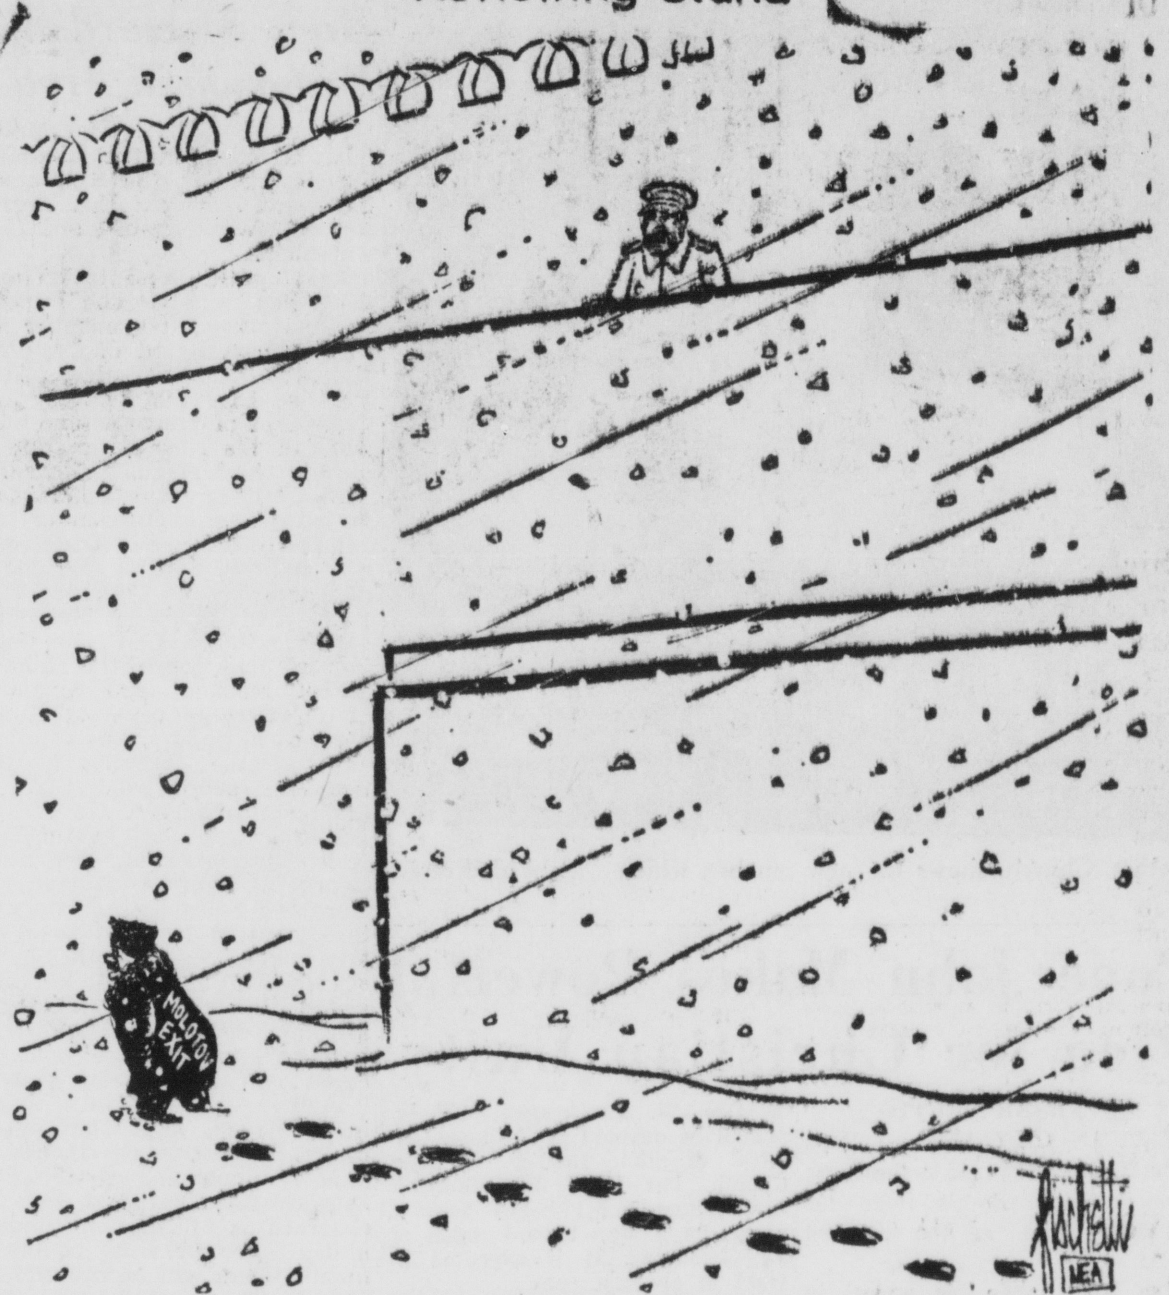

That is why, if our flattery becomes too enthusiastic, he will suddenly start looking anxious and upset. Instead of receiving support for his wobbly self-confidence, he senses that we are committing him to bigger and better achievements.

He knows that we have forgotten him to revel in our own pride. Then, like the youngster who walks away from the doll house we've taken over, he loses interest in his accomplishment. His feeling is "O.K. You play with my achievement. I don't want it any more."

There is a careful line to be drawn between appreciating a child's success and using it for our own gratification.

Reviewing Stand

Washington News

By PETER EDSON
Newspaper Enterprise
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—One of the biggest Washington bureaucratic power grabs ever proposed has just come to light through publication of an article by a mysterious "Mister Z" in the not-too-widely-circulated "Natural Resources Review," just issued by the University of New Mexico School of Law in Albuquerque.

WHAT IS PROPOSED is that all water and natural resources of the federal government except the Tennessee Valley Authority be merged into the Department of Interior to create a new "Department of Natural Resources."

This colossal amalgamation would take in 18 separate agencies which now have annual budgets totaling over $3 billion. It would include the 11 agencies now in Interior, Army Corps of Engineers, Agriculture, Forest Service, Soil Conservation Service, Agricultural Conservation Program, and Rural Electrification Administration with the water supply and stream pollution control programs of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

IDENTITY OF THE "MISTER Z" who makes this proposal is not being revealed by Jack L. Kroner, editor of the Review. But the 3,000-word text, published under the title of "The Case for a Department of Natural Resources," presents such detailed knowledge of government activities in this field that immediate suspicions of an inside job have been raised.

Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall has shied away from any suggestion of merger, according to his new public relations man, James N. Faber. The Secretary is presented as being happy in his co-operative efforts with Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman on water conservation.

But lesser officials in the department have known about this "Mister Z" article for some days. And Interior's Bureau of Reclamation got into a row with Army Corps of Engineers during the last session of Congress over allocation of funds for development of Alaska's water resources. This is the classic big rivalry among water agencies, but there are others.

EXCERPTS FROM the "Mister Z" article give the main arguments in a fight that has been a Washington disgrace for years: "United States public policy towards natural resources is developed and administered by a complex, confusing and conflicting array of agencies, offices and departments."

"Competition among agencies to 'get business' contributes to inefficient water resource development and waste of public funds. Water resource development (therefore) takes place as a result of 'log rolling' and 'look barrel' politics. 'The division of water agencies among the four departments of Agriculture, Defense, Interior and Health, Education and Welfare has reached proportions of a national crisis."

"Some order must be made out of the present chaos of resource policy. A centralized responsibility under a department of natural resources is a necessity. 'Because of the present concentration of resources activity in the Department of Interior, the easiest way to obtain a department of natural resources would be to transfer other resource agencies to Interior."

"THE MOST ADAMANT group blocking the way to reorganization is the National Rivers and Harbors Congress. (It is backed by the water development contractors who strongly support certain congressional relations of the Army engineers. The present crisis in foreign affairs provides a further reason for taking civil water programs from the Department of Defense.

"The reorganization would centralize all responsibility for development and management of natural resource programs (except TVA) in a Secretary of Natural Resources."

"Resources activities would be divided into six groups, each supervised by an assistant secretary. This grouping would be basically along resource lines: minerals, electric power, water, parks and wildlife, (public) lands and Indian affairs."

"An organization such as this one would not automatically solve all natural resource policy problems. It would, nevertheless, simplify authority and focus responsibility. The first and most vital step is to organize a Department of Natural Resources."

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The miracle about "Mr. Ed" is not so much that the horse can talk, but that the show can go from syndication to network success.

Television historians are unable to find another example of such an achievement. It is one of the unwritten laws of TV that shows go from network to syndication, never vice versa.

Syndication—selling programs to individual stations at different times, rather than in chunks of network time—has spawned such successes as "Highway Patrol," "Sea Hunt," and "Liberace." Now a talking horse has shown the syndicators that they can also aim for the big network time, if they so desire.

Regrettably, Mr. Ed was not present when I called at General Service Studio for an account of his success story.

But though he was not on call, Ed's presence was felt. His co-star, Alan Young, was playing a scene in which Ed was suspected of eating the neighbor's (Larry Keating, who used to live next door to Burns and Allen) apples and goldfish. This is the sort of plot that carries Mr. Ed along.

How does Young feel about sharing the billing with a horse? "I'm delighted," said the Canadian comic. "This is a show that the kids can enjoy, and I've found out how much control kids exercise over the TV set, my own included. But once we get the adults hooked on watching, they're just as faithful as the kids."

"I hope the series goes on and on," said Young. It may. At least CBS, which rescued it from a half-year in syndication, is mighty pleased by the Sunday-at-6:30 rating, reported to be the highest for that time slot over.

Architecture Influences

HONOLULU (AP)—Architecture is playing a leading role in Japan's social passage "from feudalism to industrialization," an American architect believes. Antonin Raymond, who first went to Japan in 1919 to assist the late Frank Lloyd Wright in designing Tokyo's Imperial Hotel, told a conference of architects in Honolulu: "Structures in Japan are huge today. The architects who design these buildings seem to be carried away by a vision of permanence, solidity, power and enormity of scale as an end in itself. They have opened the door for a number of social changes in Japan and have helped bring the country into the industrial age." Raymond has designed a number of buildings in Tokyo, including the U. S. Embassy, St. Luke's Hospital, Women's Christian College, St. Anselm's Church and Gunman Music Hall.

I stopped in for only a few minutes to visit Charlotte McGraw's Aircraft Gallery, Broadway, to see a Shaker exhibit. Ann Lee, the founder of the Shaker Society was born Feb. 1736 in Manchester, England. Aug. 6, 1774, she arrived with some of her followers in New York, from Liverpool, after a stormy 11-week passage. They bought a tract of land in what they then thought was a "wilderness" September, 1776, which is now Watervliet, N. Y. section. Much happened since then as we all know.

It took much for many people to come to this country over a strange ocean and start from nothing. Ann Lee had a hectic career, and was even in jail in Poughkeepsie. She was released after some five months through the aid of Gov. George Clinton. They were then fighting for their rights, and it seemed this imprisonment served to publicize the Shaker movement. I do not know much about the Shaker movement, but I take it they traveled up and down from Albany to New York and perhaps at times stopped here. In 1784 when Ann Lee died, they had 11 going communities.

Ann Lee at the age of 22 first joined the Quakers, so perhaps she was inspired by them, to form this industrious group, whose craft is being shown at Miss McGraw's gallery. One of their ideals seems to be, perfection. "Whether it was a chair, a case of medicinal herbs, or a basket of apples, no product could be sold unless it met a scrupulous standard of excellence."

If you can imagine a group of people, of intelligence, craftsmanlike, and using their best efforts at all times, trying to produce perfection way back in the 1700's. No doubt they aided in the growth of this new country. By 1794 they had good crops of wheat, oats, rye, barley, corn, flax and potatoes. Their livestock included oxen, cows, sheep, horses and pigs. Apple orchards were planted as well as other fruit trees. They had seed gardens, distinct from kitchen gardens, and it became the basis for one of their most lucrative industries. By the turn of the century, they began to cultivate important herbs for the pharmaceutical trade.

From their inventive talents they made from nothing something in this then wild country. They made brooms and brushes from corn. They built tanneries, grist and saw mills. They combined their mechanical skills and invented many labor-saving devices, such as the turbine water wheel and screw propeller, with perfection, always their keynote.

They believed everyone must work, but no one overwork, and they believe in a peaceful tempo of life and labor. They take turns helping each other. The exhibit at the gallery on Broadway shows many pen, ink, and water color sketches, made by it is said, WPA artists, copying with great care, in colors, Shaker craftsmanship. These fine original sketches of rugs, hats, chairs other furniture, down to the finest detail, shows the skill of the artists as well as the Shaker crafts.

I am now very much interested in what the WPA artists who did those sketches have achieved in the art field. They must be illustrators, engravers and such for they too were perfectionists in their own field. Miss McGraw should be congratulated in bringing this exhibit from the National Gallery of Washington, D. C.

Sometimes a part score doesn't do a bit of good. Particularly if you are up against someone like Dave Carter of St. Louis, who, in addition to owning around 4,000 master points, is one of our best rubber bridge players.

Dave looked at his tremendous freak hand and decided in view of his opponents' part score that the proper thing was to bid it as slowly as possible.

Therefore, Dave started proceedings with a pass. After West's opening diamond and East's one heart response, Dave produced another pass.

His next step was to try two spades. West passed and, after East went to three diamonds, Dave went on to three spades.

Now put yourself in West's position and remember that as West you don't get to see Dave's hand. Wouldn't you think that Dave was defending desperately? West did, and West doubled!

East thought of taking it out, but he also thought that Dave was desperate.

Double-dummy defense could hold Dave to eight tricks and set him. But West opened the nine of hearts. Dave won the trick with his ace and returned the suit. East took the trick and led the king of clubs, whereupon the roof fell on him. Dave ruffed the club, ruffed a heart, ruffed another club, ruffed his last heart, then conceded one diamond and the ace of trumps.

Family Tensions Is Topic In Mental Health Discussion

Three varied commentators sparked discussion at the first, of a series of three, meetings sponsored by the Ulster County Association for Mental Health, Wednesday evening, at George Washington School.

The general topic for the series is Social Factors in Mental Health. This first meeting considered "Family Tensions in Mental Health."

Nathaniel N. Wagner, psychologist of the Astor Home, Rhinebeck, was the principal speaker. Virginia Robinson, the psychological social worker of the Ulster County Mental Health Clinic followed, then, Professor Edward Hirabayashi of the Sociology Department at New Paltz State University College.

Works With Children

Dr. Wagner works mostly with children, thus, claims he sees the family situation through the eyes of a child psychologist. He feels that the general public wants to accept the idea that mental problems can be solved with medication—pills and doctors—but no responsible practitioner would ever accept such a theory.

It is true that heredity is a strong factor in mental health, but a project at McGill University proved that normal people could become very schizophrenic by being placed in a special environment. Many modern factors have seemingly created greater mental problems. Modern obstetrical and post-natal care have allowed many babies with damaged brains to survive which would not have in past decades.

Dr. Wagner feels many parents require perfection, honesty, generosity, and non-violent behavior from their children, while the parents, at the same time, tell untruths, are nervous, angered or upset. Many teenage problems stem, according to Dr. Wagner, from the sudden disillusionment over the virtue and value of the parents.

Dr. Wagner feels that many households fail to prepare their children for marital life. Honesty in thought and feelings between the parents is the first step. Counseling the children about their status in the outer world, concerning war, concerning the realities of living with another person for 24 hours each day must follow. One may be making the youngster unhappy, but such discipline and progress toward facing reality is a big step toward stability and happiness.

Each Lives 3 Lives

Mrs. Robison took the subject beyond the child-parent relationship. She suggests that each of us live three lives — childhood, marriage and parenthood, and grandparenthood. Each step is an emotional and mental growth of its own; each family is different from all others.

Tension is caused by interaction among people — a single person could be placed in various situations and fall into any category — stable, nervous and tense, or insane.

Understanding this interaction between humans, workers with problem people are trying to meet all members of the household. One of their prime purposes is to open up communications among the various members of the family, since this seems to be of greatest assistance.

As a sociologist, Prof. Hirabayashi, although agreeing in principle, took a rather different last analysis. Looking upon society today, he feels that the kinship of the historic family has been broken by industrialization and transportation. Having done a large study of adolescent groups, he feels that youngsters use the TV, movies, and magazines as their models, rather than their parents.

Children expect authority and proper behavior from their parents. As teenagers, they suddenly discover their adult idols have fallen. They are unable to face this reality. Parents should show affection as well as authority. Certain patterns of family activities help to unify the family group. If the group grows and acts together, the various problems that arise can be solved better because of the years of mutual understanding.

Answered Questions

Mrs. Bertha Connelly acted as moderator. After each had presented his ideas, discussion continued for about a half an hour, with questions from the floor, as well as discussion between the members of the panel.

The next meeting will be January 30 at 8 p. m., George Washington School, with Albert Cohen, superintendent of the Warwick Training School for Boys, as the speaker. "Community Tensions in Mental Health" will be the second topic.

OLEANDER'S CHRISTMAS EVE

Chief Is Subpoenaed For File on Deputy

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Police Chief Harold F. Kelly has been subpoenaed to present the personnel file of one of his deputy chiefs Monday to a grand jury reportedly probing alleged corruption among police and public officials.

Dist. Atty. Joseph A. Ryan says he has an affidavit which shows that Deputy Chief Bernard Nelson leased 70 rooms at the Winchester Hotel in 1958 and 1959. Nicholas Rowe, 54, who managed the hotel in 1958, is under indictment on a charge of receiving money to buy police protection for gambling and prostitution operations.

Work Program Is Eyed to Prune Pa. Relief Rolls

HARRISBURG (AP)—Republicans have asked the state to start a work program for individuals on relief.

"It would be a good way to find out what able-bodied persons on public assistance are willing to do a day's work for their relief grants at prevailing wages," said State GOP Chairman George I. Bloom, in a statement.

"If the experience statewide is anything like it has turned out to be in York County, there will be a wholesale pruning of the relief rolls with savings to taxpayers of millions of dollars."

Bloom said published reports indicated that of 65 persons offered work in York County, only a total of 21 reported the first three days. The project was in the Gofford Pinchot State Park.

More Work Due For Plant Where Pay Cut Voted

GENEVA, N.Y. (AP)—Workers at the Geneva machine shop of the American Can Co., who took a pay cut last week so the shop could remain open, have been told they will get more work now because the company is closing its Cincinnati plant.

American Can Friday announced that it will shut down the Cincinnati plant March 1 because of high production costs. Work will be divided between the company's two remaining machine shops, in Geneva and in San Francisco.

The Geneva workers took a 25-cent hourly pay cut and the San Francisco workers a 12-cent hourly pay cut when the plants were faced with a shutdown.

Meanwhile, 225 workers at the Geneva Forge Division of Ekco Products Co., are slated to vote Monday on a company pay cut proposal—an alternative to the scheduled Feb. 18 closing of that plant.

Terms of the proposal have not been revealed.

This Finger Lakes city of 18,000 has had unemployment problems since the closing of nearby Sampson Air Force Base in 1956.

Offer Is Made For Elmira Plant

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP)—Grinnell Corp. of Providence, R.I., national plumbing and heating manufacturer, has offered to buy the 84-year-old Kennedy Valve Manufacturing Co., of Elmira, it was announced Friday.

The proposed price was not disclosed. Approval of holders of at least 80 per cent of the Kennedy stock is required by Jan. 10.

The Kennedy plant employs 500 workers in the manufacture of plumbing and heating valves, and valves and hydrants for fire protection systems.

Charles F. Kennedy, president of the firm and grandson of the founder, said its acquisition would give his company greater sales and expansion capital. He said no management changes at Kennedy were planned.

Grinnell makes automatic fire protection equipment, prefabricated piping, valves and humidification, as well as plumbing and heating equipment. It had net earnings of $7.8 million in 1960.

Boy, 7, Killed While on Trip To See Santa

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—Seven-year-old Frederick Downer was on his way to a store to visit Santa Claus when he was struck by an automobile. He died Friday night in a hospital.

The accident occurred Thursday night in Massena and the boy was transferred to a hospital here.

He was the son of Mrs. Eunice Downer of Massena.

Pigs Have Wanderlust

GUILDERLAND, N.Y. (AP)—These little piggies, who someday will go to market, aren't staying home.

In fact, says town attorney Frank Williams, porkers at one of two pig farms in this Albany suburb have been running at large in town. They're even invading household lawns, he says.

Williams was asked to draw an ordinance that would keep the hogs hog-tied.

Named to School Council

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Rockefeller today appointed William D. Stalder, of Canton, to the Council of the State University Agricultural and Technical Institute at Canton. Stalder will fill the vacancy for a term ending July 1, 1964, created by the resignation of Mrs. Emily A. Persell of Loudonville. The post is unsalaried.

Lights for Road Safety

HARRISBURG (AP)—Traffic Safety Commissioner O. D. Shipley has asked Pennsylvanians to drive with their car lights on in daylight hours during the holidays as a token of support for highway safety.

Shipley said the campaign would be during the period from Dec. 22 to Dec. 25 and from Dec. 29 to Jan. 1, inclusive.

Dr. Cockroft Dies

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP)—Dr. Grace Amelia Cockroft, who retired recently after 45 years on the faculty of Skidmore College, died in a hospital Friday. She was 67. She was the author of "The Public Life of George Chalmers," published in 1939.

Rigby Discusses Legal Steps in Dispute on Code

Legal steps taken by Kingston fuel oil dealers in their dispute with plumbers over building code provisions are dealt with in an article by Harry Rigby Jr., vice-president of the Kingston Coal Company published in a recent issue of the New York State Petroleum Talk, a paper of the petroleum trade.

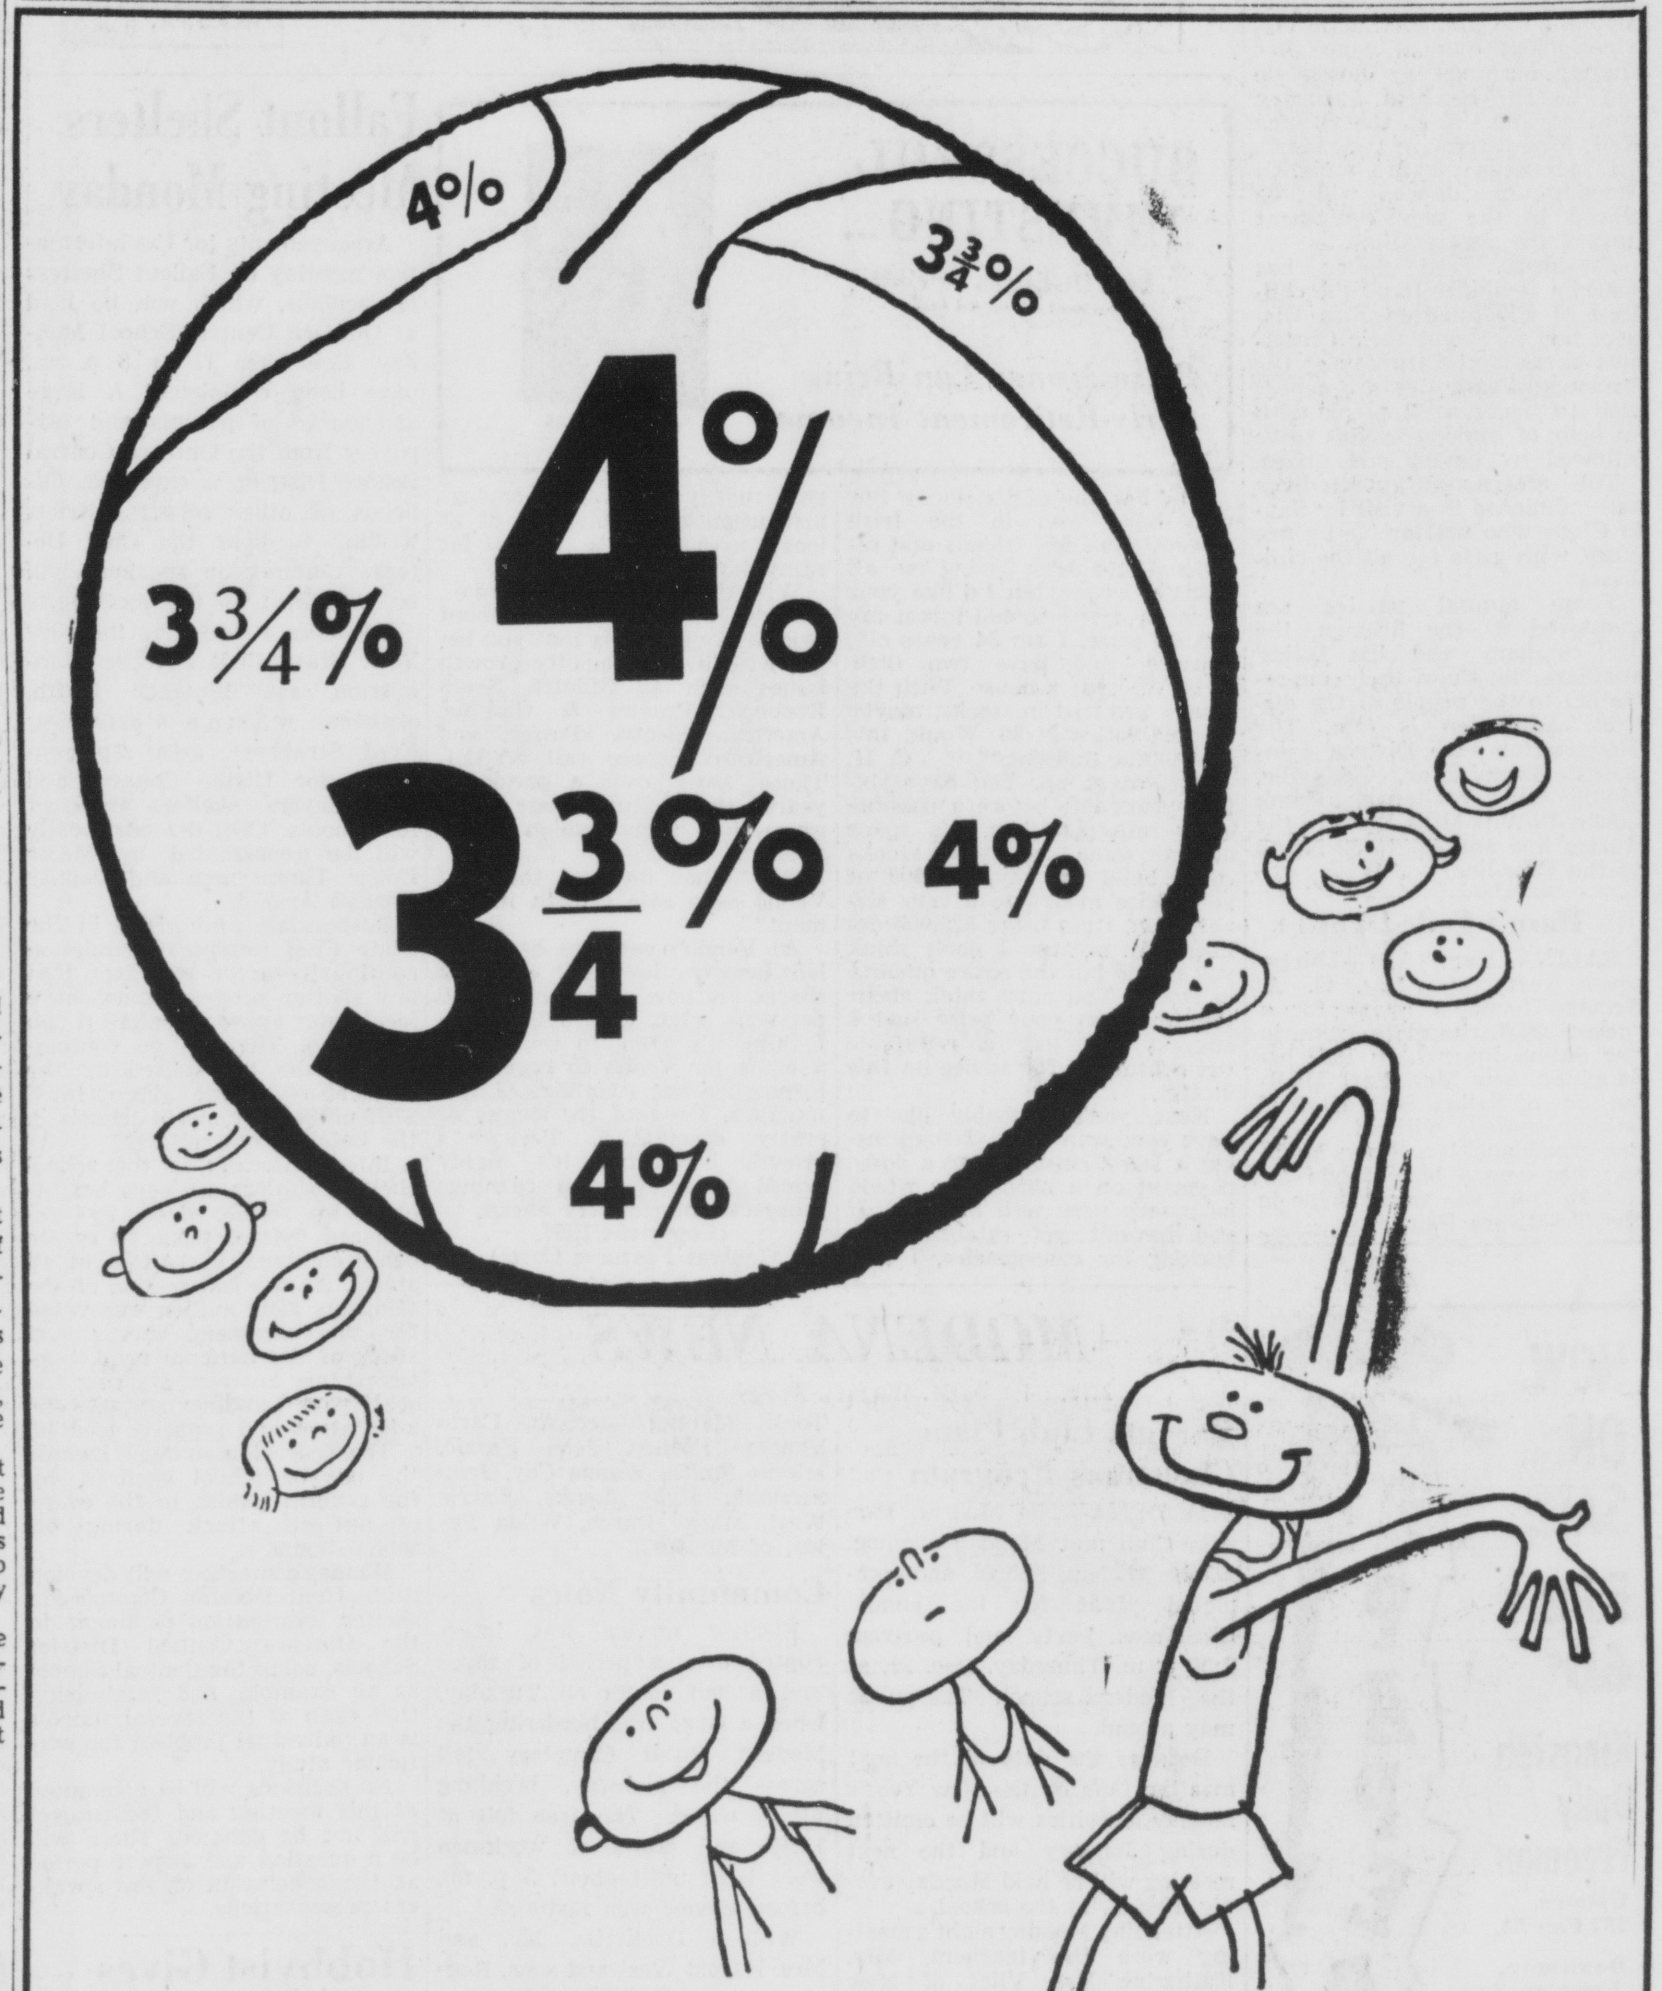

Disputes earlier in the year over provisions of the code led to a bid by the oil men for a court injunction, and a temporary restraining order to prevent implementing amendments involved, was reported some weeks ago.

The article notes that some time ago every fuel dealer in the Kingston area had received a series of "administrative amendments" to the state building code which had been locally adopted. It held that two sections "discriminated against fuel oil dealers, in the conduct of their heating, installation and service business."

One of the amendments cited holds it unlawful for any one to enter the business of plumbing except a licensed plumber, and another says that none but a registered licensed master plumber "shall install the primary city water supply to water heaters and domestic water heating. This includes automatic, instantaneous or tanktype heaters regardless of the type of fuel used to operate such heaters."

After mentioning that "it was understood" that dealers could make installations "under certain conditions," the article said the dealers, "having exhausted every specific means of reaching equitable agreement (to the point of submitting revised amendments designed to prevent the touching of any water disposal line, the only conceivable, though remote way the public health could be jeopardized) filed suit in the Supreme Court of the State of New York." They asked for the injunction "until the case can be settled on its merits."

Bloomington Vols List Square Dance, Other Activities

Final plans were announced by Bloomington Fire Co., Inc. for the third in a series of round and square dances to be held tonight at the firehouse in Bloomington starting at 9 p. m. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Music and calls will be provided by Floyd Barringer and his band and festivities will continue through 1 a. m. Refreshments will be available.

Charles Peterson heads the committee, aided by Herbert Faure, Joseph Hafner, Leslie Evory and John Markle. Howard Slover of the Bloomington fire house will be in charge of traffic.

These monthly dances are co-sponsored by Bloomington and Active Hose Co. of Rosendale and alternate between the Bloomington and Rosendale districts. Next month's dance has already been set by Rosendale and it will be held Saturday evening, Jan. 27 at the Grange Hall, Main Street in the village. All proceeds from tonight's Bloomington dance will be placed in the new equipment fund of the organization.

President Fred Sauer has issued a reminder to all the children of Bloomington Fire District not to forget their Christmas party next Saturday at the firehouse. Festivities are scheduled to begin at 2 p. m. with an hour of comedy movies to be followed by games and prizes.

The afternoon's proceedings will culminate in a visit by Santa Claus who will arrive by fire truck with gifts for all the children.

These annual parties are sponsored by the firemen, the fire company and the ladies' auxiliary to show their appreciation to the people of the district. Admission is free. The Bloomington Fire District comprises Bloomington, Eddyville, Maple Hill, Whiteport, Creek Locks, DeWitt-Mills Road to the Hurley line and Route 32 North to the City line.

Hasn't Failed Yet

SALINA, Kan. (AP)—Thirty-seven years ago Mrs. O. A. Grinage found a recipe for a "never fail" chocolate cake in the Salina Journal. In 1942 her daughter, now Mrs. Earl Madison Jr., of Salina, won a school baking contest with it. Now her granddaughter, Susan Madison, has won a blue ribbon for a cake from the same recipe in the Tri-Rivers Fair.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

Prize Money Can Bring Early-Retirement Income

Q "I'm one of the lucky few who have won in the Irish Sweepstakes. My friends and relations have been giving me all kinds of advice, but I'd like your ideas on how I should invest my $45,000 prize. I am 34 years old, married, and have two little girls. We rent a house. With the money invested in stocks, maybe I could retire at 50. Would this be wishful thinking?" C. H.

A Not at all. You have sixteen years left before a possible early retirement. In this space of time, some well chosen stocks could build up, say, $25,000 of your prize money to a very sizeable sum. I am using $25,000 deliberately because I don't think you should put the entire amount in stocks. You must think about the taxes on your prize and I suggest you ask a reputable tax consultant for advice on this matter.

Next, you'd probably like to have your own home. I think using a few thousands for a down payment on a nice house would be money very well invested. If you haven't yet established a backlog for emergencies, I suggest that you put in a savings institution the equivalent of at least a half-year's wages for rainy-day use.

With these needs taken care of, we can confidently talk about stocks. My advice is that you begin with five top-quality growth issues such as Gillette, Sears, Roebuck, Procter & Gamble, American Electric Power, and American Tobacco (all NYSE).

These issues, over a period of years, should turn your prize money into a fine cushion for retirement.

Q "What do you think of Vendo as a safe growth investment?" S. K.

A Vendo's earnings have fallen heavily this year and the shares are now selling nearly 40 per cent below their 1961 highs. I think it's going to take quite a while for Vendo to regain its former market standing. At this juncture, I regard the shares as pretty speculative. There's growth here, but it's highly priced in relation to earnings prospects immediately ahead.

Parents Club Plans Christmas Program

MODENA—The Modena Parents Club met Monday evening, at the Modena School, and completed plans for the annual Christmas party and program 7:30 p. m. Thursday, Dec. 21, at the Modena school. The public may attend.

Because the date of the next meeting falls on the New Year's holiday activities will be omitted during January and the next meeting will be held Monday evening, Feb. 5, at the school.

Attending Monday night's meeting were the teachers, Mrs. Katherine Van Vleet of New Paltz, Mrs. Shirley Fowler of Modena; also the Meses, Joyce DePew, Gertrude Dimsey, Edith Savignano, Alvina Kasper, Gladys

Community Notes

Electric service was interrupted over a period of three and a half hours on Tuesday, when a large tree bordering the Modena Rural Cemetery fell across the highway, breaking utility wires. The tree fell at 11:15, and crews of workmen were busy until about 3 p. m. before service was restored.

William Doolittle, Mr. and Mrs. Harold West and sons, Roger and Ronald, attended the wedding of Miss Shirley Atkins of Clintondale, and William Dina of Newburgh, at the Methodist Church in New Paltz Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mentonnis and family of New York, visited Mr. and Mrs. Tony Mouzithras here, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Cole, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Varner, were recent holiday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eldred Smith and daughter Valerie.

The Fred Bernard family visited Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Carey at Pleasant Valley, also Mrs. May Coy at East Park, Sunday.

Mrs. Ira Hyatt accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Freson Atkins and Miss Irene Sickler of Clintondale, to Suffern recently, where they visited Mrs. Elsie Leight, a former resident of Modena.

Harold Ray of Modena who is president of the New York State Volunteer Ambulance and First Aid Association, was guest speaker at the dedication of the New Windsor Ambulance Corps ceremonies held at Vails Gate Sunday, Mr. Ray's father, the late Rev. Frank E. Ray, was former pastor of the Modena and Clintondale Methodist Church.

New Window Design

Sash weights have been made obsolete by advances in modern window design. Most stock double-hung windows of ponderous pine now are equipped with compact balances that make the windows look better and operate more easily.

Keep Blade Sharp

Have the blade of your power saw checked and sharpened regularly by a sharpening expert. Dull blades cut power by as much as 50 per cent and burn the work by friction heat. In fact, burn marks or smoke are sure signs of a dangerously dull blade.

Add a Touch

Fallout Shelters Meeting Monday

Arrangements for the information meeting on Fallout Shelters for schools, which will be held at Ontario Central School Monday, December 11 at 8 p. m., have been completed. A large attendance of parents and taxpayers from the Ontario Central School District is expected. Officials of other school districts wishing to hear the Civil Defense Commission speakers will be welcomed at the meeting.

Speakers assigned by the New York State Civil Defense Commission are Florence Louth, chairman women's activities; Fred Strabbert, area representative for Ulster County, and John Savers, shelters architect for schools. Civil defense locally will be represented by Major Edgar Timmerman and Deputy Charles Arnold.

Responsible authorities in the State Civil Defense Commission continually accent the fact that any shelter program must have local voter approval before it can be begun. There is no compulsion in the bill passed by the Legislature which appropriated $107 million for aid to schools in the building of shelters.

Interest locally in the school shelters subject has been heightened in recent days by announced federal plans to create other community shelters in all states. At the last session of the Congress $207 million was voted for the necessary survey and study of the national need. Survey teams are now starting the search for buildings suitable for adaptation and properly located.

The federal plan may include the use of school shelters, by the general public, in the event of nuclear attack during off school hours.

Monday's meeting will develop State Civil Defense Commission shelter information pertinent to the Ontario Central District Schools, using the Central School as an example, and recognizing that each of the several schools is an individual problem for particular study.

No decisions will be attempted at this meeting and the subject will not be debated. There will be a question and answer period at the conclusion of the speakers' presentations.

Hobbyist Gives Tender Care To Her Violets

AP Newsfeatures—A gift African violet given to Mrs. H. Price Stephenson of Angolo, N. Y., 25 years ago started a hobby that has grown to 600 plants of 100 varieties.

Stephenson's enthusiasm included addition of extra windows in two upstairs rooms of her home to provide light for the plants.

Mrs. Stephenson keeps several young plants under fluorescent lights until they reach the size at which she would like them to blossom. Then she puts them in sunlight.

Twice a week, Mrs. Stephenson waters the plants. Four times a year she sterilizes the plant shelves and window sills with insecticides. She uses sterilized soil (she steams it) when replanting violets.

Her choice violet is a white one.

To point up her precautions, Mrs. Stephenson relates that in 1956, some African violets she bought while touring Ohio were diseased and affected about 100 of her plants. "I had to throw them out and bathe the others in 110-degree water to save them," she related.

Determines Valance

When cutting wood for a valance, remember that the size should be governed by the shape of the window and the weight of the material. A short wide window needs a narrow valance; a tall, deeper and wider valance. Use lightweight wood or plywood to avoid undue strain on the window frame or wall where the cornice is hung.

Allow for Waste

Are you allowing at least 6 per cent for waste when ordering wood for construction work? It's a good idea to do so, advise power tool experts. A power saw "kerf"—the width of its cut—is 3-16 inch. The more cutting you do, the more 3-16 inch waste results. The 6 per cent also covers waste ends and scrap and allows for some of your work habits in doing the job.

Veterans' Rights, Benefits Listed

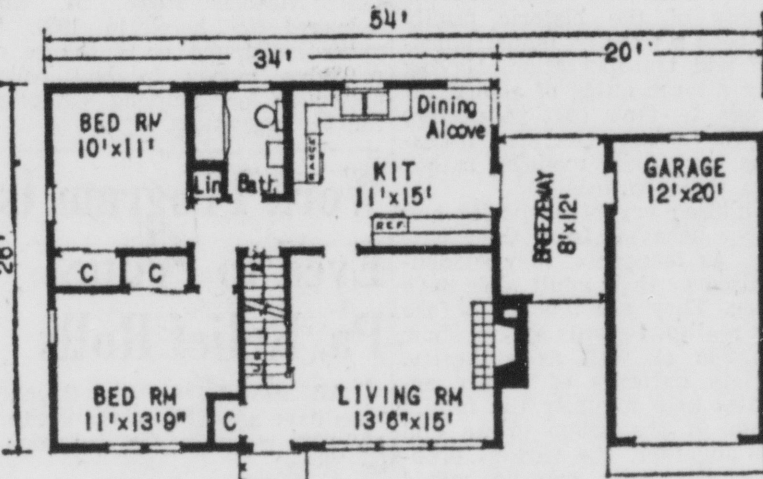

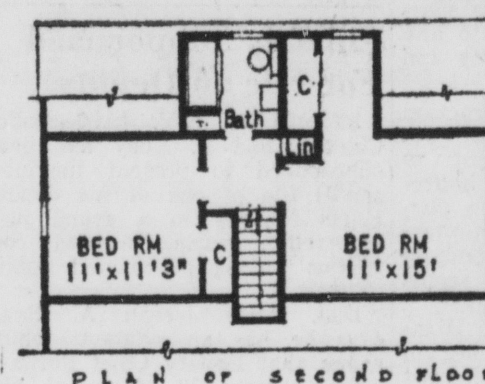

By Charles L. Culver, NYS Veteran Counselor, NYS Division of Veterans Affairs and John B. Tyler, director, Ulster County Veterans Service Agency, 32 Main Street, Kingston, New York.

Civil Service — Applications will be accepted up to Jan. 2, 1962 under New York State Civil Service for the position of Bank Examiner Aide I and for Case Worker and Junior Case Worker with various welfare departments. The competitive examination date for these titles is Feb. 3, 1962. The Case Worker title offers opportunities for college seniors and college graduates. There are 200 openings involved.

Education — Dependency and indemnity compensation may not be paid on the basis that a child is attending school if benefits are being paid to or for a child under the War Orphans Educational Assistance Act of 1956. In short, these two benefits may not be paid at the same time to a child on the basis of school attendance. A choice may be made, however, as to which of the two benefits a child will receive, for in some instances it may be to the advantage of a child who wins a New York State Regents College Scholarship to accept the DIC benefit. The amount of the NYS Regents College Scholarship plus the DIC benefit may be greater than the benefits paid under the War Orphans Educational Assistance Act. Under the current law, a NYS Regents College Scholarship may not be paid to a child receiving benefits under the War Orphans Educational Assistance Act.

New Laws — Two amendments to the NYS Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act were enacted during the recent special session of the NYS Legislature. One raises the amount of rental to $125 per month before dependency of servicemen are to be evicted. The former monthly rate was $80. Now the law reads that dependents are not to be evicted from their dwelling if rental is $125 per month or less except upon leave of court. The Legislature also raised to $10,000 the face value amount of life insurance to be protected against lapse or forfeiture of the insured who entered military or naval service. Formerly the maximum protection was $5,000. Now the law provides that servicemen with certain types of life insurance which are in effect at the time they entered active military or naval service are protected up to a face value of $10,000 against lapse or forfeiture during the period of such service or within a year after the end of such service. Incidentally, the New York State Division of Veterans' Affairs has published a brochure titled "New York State Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act," which contains in summary form the rights of servicemen under this law and which may be obtained free of charge from any NYS Division of Veterans' Affairs counseling office or Veterans' Service Agency.

Questions about the rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen or their dependents may be submitted for individual attention to Charles L. Culver, NYS Veteran Counselor, NYS Division of Veterans' Affairs, or John B. Tyler, director, Ulster County Veterans' Service Agency at 32 Main Street, Kingston, N. Y. with branch offices in Saugerties, Highland, Ellenville and Kerhonkson.

Handsome, Modern Home Has 4 Bedrooms, 2 Baths

By JACK McLENEY

If you're one of the many persons who wants a modern home — nothing extreme — I think you'll take to the new Associated Architects house plan, "The Follett."

It draws its basic appeal from the tried-and-true Cape Cod design, which has been brought up to date with such features as a roof overhang to shade the living room; a picture window; breezeway, and garage.

Inside, the layout is completely modern, too, and incidentally, economical. For example, you enter through the living room, rather than through an expensive foyer and hall, yet the much-desired coat closet is retained. The kitchen is designed to accommodate dining quarters (with a handsome corner window).

There is considerable space upstairs. Two bedrooms and a bath, as a matter of fact, can be put upstairs, as the accompanying floor plan shows. By having the upstairs and downstairs baths over one another, you will save a good bit on the cost of plumbing installation. And just one point more: The house stands by itself, if you wish to build breezeway and garage at some later date. Like the greatest number of two-story houses, "The Follett," is planned with basement only.

In all, this plan calls for four bedrooms with wardrobes or oversize closets. You'll find the sliding closet doors will let you do more with the wall space in these rooms. The central location of the baths is a convenience. Both have "custom" tub enclosures for more luxurious appearance. A total of three linen closets is another of the features that have been included for easier living.

Let me give you a little list of these features: Fireplace with handsome outside chimney; an attractive open stairway leading to the second floor; a big window over the kitchen sink; basement the full size of the house; sheltered passage from garage to the house proper; and so on.

You can see the entire list in the working drawings, and convince yourself. These drawings, by the way, will also enable you to obtain firm estimates of cost of building, and they may be used during actual construction.

The plans are inexpensive, and with your order (please use the accompanying coupon) you get two extras at no added cost: A complete list of building materials needed. And—if you prefer brick veneer or concrete block to the wood siding shown in the artist's sketch—the same

New Poured Roof Of State's Fallout Shelter Caves In

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A wet section of the 1½-foot thick concrete roof of the state government fallout shelter being constructed on the city's outskirts fell in Friday.

As the freshly poured section began to sag, about 20 workmen scrambled to safety.

The Public Works Department said damage did not appear to be extensive.

The two-story underground structure is to serve as an emergency seat of government in the event of an enemy attack.

U.S. to Launch Most Advanced Submarine Today

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP)—The second of America's most advanced submarines, USS Tinosa, is being launched today, bow first because of her unusual hull shape.

Because the 4,300-ton ship goes into water bow first, the sponsor, Mrs. Samuel S. Stratton of Schenectady, N.Y., will smash the traditional christening bottle of champagne across the submarine's stern.

Mrs. Stratton is the wife of U.S. Rep. Stratton, D-N.Y.

Special buoyancy tanks have been attached temporarily outside the bow for the launching. The Navy said the tanks made it possible to advance work on the ship farther than is customary in launching of an empty hull. The ship is the second of her class, and like the USS Thresher, may be considered one of the world's fastest submarines, capable of diving deeper and running quieter at high speed than any other type.

dale the son of the late Frank M. and Mina Burger Slater, he attended Rosendale and New Paltz schools and was employed at the DeLaval Separator Co., Poughkeepsie, the last 18 years. He was one time commander of the Highland American Legion post and prior to working at the DeLaval plant he was riding master at Lake Mohonk and Lake Minnewaska. He was past master of Ardona Lodge F&AM, Highland and a Republican committeeman many years. He also judged at many horse shows. He was a veteran of World War I. He is survived by his wife Lena Hacksteiner Slater; a son, First Lieut. Frank Slater, stationed at Fort Allen, Puerto Rico; a sister, Mrs. Florence DuBois, Kingston; an aunt, Annie Auchmoedy, and a cousin, Louis Auchmoedy, both of Rosendale. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. from the Sutton Funeral Home, Woodside Place, Highland, with the Rev. William Wooley, officiating. Burial will be in Rosendale Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday and Monday evenings.

Mrs. Hannah F. Swarthout

Mrs. Hannah F. Swarthout of 60 Brewster Street died early today following a lengthy illness. She was born at Rosendale, a daughter of the late Edward and Bridget Duffy Carroll. She had lived in Kingston for many years. She was a member of St. Mary's Church and the Rosary Society of that church. Her husband, the late Herbert J. Swarthout Sr., died in 1948. She was the mother of Herbert J. Swarthout Jr., who died in 1959. Surviving are two grandchildren, Miss Jean Marie Swarthout and Herbert J. Swarthout, both of Kingston, and two nephews, Eugene Henches, of New York City, and Joseph Clark of Fairlawn, N. J. Funeral will be held from the Jensen & Deegan Funeral Home, 15 Downs Street, Tuesday at 9 a. m. thence to St. Mary's Church where at 9:30 a. m. a high Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of her soul. Burial will be in St. Peter's Cemetery, Rosendale. Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday and Monday from 2 to 4 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m.

Clifford Anderson

Clifford Anderson, 80, of 15 Harrison Avenue, died today. A resident of Kingston for more than 40 years, he was born in Shandaken, son of the late Marcellus and Emma Connelly Anderson. He was widely known throughout Kingston and Ulster County, having been associated with the automobile business many years. He was employed as a salesman by the Stuyvesant Garage for 25 years. Later he became associated with his sister, the late Mrs. Daisy Merritt, as a real estate broker. He was a great lover of horses and was a well known horseman, being associated with several local horsemen's associations. For many years he participated in parades and was known for his horsemanship. He was a member of the First Baptist Church, Kingston Lodge 10, F. & A. M. Besides his wife, Elizabeth M. Anderson, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Maude E. Corregan, of this city; a grandson, Robert A. Corregan, Pittsburgh, Pa., and three great-grandchildren. Friends may call at the W. N. Cut Off Student Group's Funds; Ignored Meetings

CORTLAND, N.Y. (AP)—The operating funds of a student organization at the State University College of Education here have been cut off because its representatives did not attend meetings of the student governing body.

A $46,000 budget of the men's athletic association was suspended by the executive council of the House of Delegates after that group failed to attend four consecutive meetings.

"We'd like to be known as more than just a college piggy bank," Carol Bailey, president of the 80-member House of Delegates said Friday.

All students pay fees into a fund appropriated by the house to various campus groups. The house can drop member groups after representatives miss three meetings a semester.

Miss Bailey said, however, that the house might rescind the action because the "prestige of the college is involved."

Charles Schmeltz Dies at El Centro U. S. Missile Base

Staff Sgt. Charles F. Schmeltz, 34 of Cotterkill, died Friday at El Centro, Calif., following a heart seizure.

He was a 15-year veteran of service with the Air Force. He was attached to U.S. Naval Missile Center at El Centro and was assigned to Edwards Air Force Base. S/Sgt. Schmeltz had served 14 months in Korean during the Korean Conflict. During World War II, he served in Okinawa and Japan. He also served in Saudi Arabia for a year.

S/Sgt. Schmeltz was an electrician's mechanic. Born in College Point, L. I. on December 30, 1927, he was a son of Frank and Rose Beck Schmeltz. His wife is the former Caroline Countryman of High Falls.

Other survivors are two sons, Charles and David; two daughters, Patricia and Barbara, all at home; two brothers, George of Van Etten, N. Y. and Richard Schmeltz of Lynn, Mass.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by George J. Moylan Funeral Home, Main Street, Rosendale.

Developing Death Ray for Space

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—A death ray weapon for use in outer space is being developed at the Martin Co., rocket plant here, a company scientist said Friday.

Dr. Carl L. Kober, advance systems director, said the weapon would be ready for testing in 1963 and would have these characteristics:

It would produce a beam hotter than 100,000 degrees Fahrenheit that would evaporate anything it was focused on.

It would use nuclear power and a principle similar to "a burning glass, through which sunlight is concentrated on an object."

It would be about the size of a large searchlight, weigh 30,000 pounds and be uneconomical for use on earth.

Its range on earth would be less than a mile, but in outer space it would reach 50 to 200 miles.

Dr. Kober foresaw its use by the Air Force "to police and govern space near the earth."

Air Force officials in Washington had no comment.

Refuses to Resign

BOSTON (AP)—Massachusetts Gov. John A. Volpe has demanded the resignation of Boston Police Commissioner Leo J. Sullivan, and received a flat refusal in reply.

The governor asked Sullivan, both orally and in writing, to quit, and both times Sullivan said no, it was disclosed Friday night.

Deaths

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—The Most Rev. Francis Patrick Kough, 70, archbishop of the oldest Roman Catholic diocese in the United States, died Friday of effects of a stroke. He was born in New Britain, Conn., ordained a priest in 1916 and named archbishop of Baltimore in 1947. He was known unofficially as "archbishop of the poor" for his charity work.

Pearson-Gravitz Wedding Is Announced; Couple Plan to Reside in New York City

MR. AND MRS. DAVID H. GRAVITZ

Miss Donna C. Pearson, of New York City, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Pearson of Stone Ridge, exchanged nuptial vows with David H. Gravitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Gravitz of New York City on Sunday, Dec. 3 at 1 p. m. in a double ring ceremony held at the Governor Clinton Hotel here in Kingston. Officiating was Judge Roscoe Elsworth of Kingston.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white satin gown and headpiece of orange blossoms to which was gathered a silk veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis.

Miss Adrian Pearson of Stone Ridge, the bride's sister, served as maid of honor in a light blue satin dress. She carried stephanotis with pink roses and pink carnations.

Patricia Pilus, the bride's niece, served as flower girl in a dress of deep pink velvet with white lace.

Best man was Walter Cohan of New York City. Robert W. Pilus Jr., the bride's nephew was the ringbearer.

A reception was given immediately after the wedding ceremony.

Mrs. Gravitz was graduated from State University, College of Education at Albany in 1961. She is employed by George B. Buck, consulting actuary, New York City. Her husband received his BBA degree from University of Cincinnati and is employed by the same firm as his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Gravitz will reside in New York City when they return from a wedding trip to Jamaica, B. W. I.

Former Area Minister Writes Lenten Booklet

The Rev. Herbert W. Hahn, a retired minister of the New York Annual Conference of the Methodist Church, has written a booklet, The Marks of A Christian, which has been accepted for publication by Tidings, in Nashville, Tenn. It will be out in time for the Lenten season.

Tidings is fast becoming a national agency for the distribution of evangelistic literature, on an inter-denominational basis. The Marks of A Christian is a companion piece to another booklet by the same author, Basic Beliefs of the Christian Faith, which was published a few years ago.

The Rev. Mr. Hahn has been in the active ministry for almost 30 years. He served two churches on the Kingston District, the South Bethlehem Methodist Church, 1944-1947, and the First Methodist Church of Ravena.

UNICEF Funds Not Going to Congo Says Spokesman

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)

The U.N. Children's Fund reported today that contributions from its Halloween trick-or-treat drive are coming in at a rate well ahead of last year despite charges that UNICEF funds are being used for the U.N. Congo operation.

So far $1,106,000 has been received from the Halloween collections by youngsters in several thousand American communities for UNICEF's health and welfare programs. UNICEF officials said that no trick-or-treat contributions have been diverted to the Congo.

A spokesman for the U.S. Committee for UNICEF, which runs the trick-or-treat program, said the amount is 12 per cent higher than received at this time last year. He said that if the money continues coming in at this rate trick-or-treat donations for 1961 should approach $2 million, or $250,000 more than last year's total.

UNICEF officials believe the charges on diverting contributions to the Congo operation stem from misunderstandings of a loan made to the U.N. Congo operation from the U.S. Treasury out of government donations earmarked for UNICEF. This money has no connection with the private donations through the trick-or-treat program.

Coburn Scholarship

STRATFORD, Ont. (AP)—A Shakespearean scholarship is being set up in memory of Charles Coburn by the Festival Theatre here and the Avondale Playhouse, of Indianapolis, Ind. The veteran actor died last summer shortly after an engagement at Avondale. The announcement of the award cites Coburn's "exceptional influence on classic drama and unparalleled devotion to the theater."

Two apprentices at Avondale will be chosen each season for a two-week study course at the Shakespeare festival here.

Schuyler Schonger and the Misses Gertrude Birmingham and Mary Campbell.

Mrs. Leo Kilcoyne, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the slate of officers for 1962. They were unanimously elected to serve the Auxiliary for the coming year. Re-elected as president, Mrs. William Cranstion; first vice president, Mrs. Collins Troy; second vice president, Mrs. John Sanglyn Jr.; treasurer, Mrs. Ignazio Bosco; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Joseph Kearney; recording secretary, Mrs. Robert Stenson; executive board members, the Mmes. Donald Droulette, Alex Schoen and Edward J. Costello. Mrs. Guy Valeo and Mrs. Francis Tucker, co-chairmen of the Christmas tea which was given after the meeting named the members of their committee who provided the Christmas setting in the auditorium for the event. They were assisted by Mrs. Robert Motrie, Mrs. Edward Flick, Mrs. Allen Baker, Mrs. William Krum and Mrs. James Sweeney.

Presiding at the tea tables were the Mmes. John Olivet, Frank Simpson, George Beichert, Andrew Daly, Joseph Kearney, Collins Troy, John McCordle, and Edward Costello.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Sweeney and her committee, the Mmes. John O'Connor, Edward Flick, George Heppner, Charles King, Edwin Bolz, Andrew Daly, Alex Schoen, John Conway, Joseph Faivey, Carroll Prince, Jane Clancy.

The student nurses' choir entertained with Christmas carols accompanied at the piano by Miss Carol Bridi.

One of the highlights of the meeting was another payment of $1500 towards the auxiliary pledge of $30,000 towards the Nurses' School and Residence.

Sister Berenice Speaks

Following is the text of the speech given before the Auxiliary by Sister Berenice, hospital administrator:

"The reading of the outstanding reports that you have just heard from the past year's many noted activities recalls another remarkable period of social events planned and directed by the auxiliary members for the benefit of the Benedictine Hospital."

"Our capable and enthusiastic president Mrs. William J. Cranston, and her efficient officers and committee chairmen, as well as each and every member of the auxiliary, are to be congratulated today, for another year of outstanding achievements."

"The monthly meetings were well attended and a great many new members were received, a total of 58, which is a splendid showing."

"Instructive and well planned programs were always enjoyed as well as a descriptive outline of each month's activities by Mrs. Cranston."

"Considerable time was also devoted by our president and members of the auxiliary in attending various auxiliary meetings in other hospitals. This experience has benefited both the individual members and our auxiliary."

"The various activities beginning with the Christmas decorating of the hospital and continuing through to the Annual Tea have all been perfectly arranged and conducted with great success by the president, various chairmen and members of the auxiliary."

"The highlight of the year's activities was the planning and completion of the beautiful gift shop in our lobby. Since its erection it has been admired by the public and fairly well patronized. Now that the beautiful feast of Christmas is approaching it will no doubt be a convenient place to secure an assortment of beautiful Christmas gifts."

"The Baby Photo service was renewed in January and is a great source of joy for the parents of the many new arrivals in our maternity department. The final decision of securing the RV Cablevision has met a great need and is enjoyed by the patients. It not only entertains but helps considerably in lessening the tensions both before and after operations. It also relieves worry and excitement during the post operative care."

"We realize that the last three projects mentioned would require an added number of voluntary auxiliary members. The response was magnanimous, they were secured and with the entire auxiliary are responding wholeheartedly."

"The Gift Cart continues to be the favorite auxiliary project among the patients. Its functioning too, requires definite care and considerable desk work. As a result of the auxiliary's many activities during the past year they were able to pay $2,500 on their previous pledge of $30,000 toward the New Nurses School and Residence."

"The service of the Junior Auxiliary Group directed by Miss F. Stock is worthy of great praise. Service pins are to be awarded to several of the girls today. The Sisters of the Benedictine Hospital highly commend Mrs. William J. Cranston, her officers, chairmen and each member of the auxiliary for their generous contribution of time, energy and means each year for the hospital. We rejoice in the re-election of Mrs. Cranston for our president for the year 1962. The splendid response and fine service of our constantly growing auxiliary is most encouraging, with its continued interests we need not hesitate when the time comes to plan for the further development and expansion of our hospital."

"Ladies Auxiliary Members: May God bless you and your families, not only at Christmas but every day of the New Year."

Bolz Makes Address

An address was also given by Edwin Bolz, assistant hospital administrator. Its text is as follows:

"I bring greetings to you from the patients and staff of the Benedictine Hospital."

"These greetings would not be complete without a word of thanks for the Women's Auxiliary interest and projects for the patients of the Benedictine Hospital. We at the hospital have long been aware of the dynamic patient therapy performed by your Sales Cart, Flower and Mail distribution projects. These are projects which render that 'something extra' for the patient's comfort that cannot be easily forgotten. It is our hope that you continue to support these projects with increased interest and zeal."

"You are also to be congratulated on your newest ventures for the hospital. The Baby Photo, TV and Gift Shop projects are indeed another indication of your dedication to the Benedictine Hospital and its patients. These services, along with the Desk and Sales Cart completely furnish the patients and their families with the 'something extra' needed in today's hospitalization."

"As the scope and activities of the Women's Auxiliary has and will expand, so has the hospital. This past year our new Post-Operative Recovery Room was opened. Within the next three months the hospital will completely centralize its patient food service, thus allowing the hospital to expand its bed capacity by nine beds by converting the present floor pantries to patient use."

"At present we are modernizing patient room equipment in the North Wing areas as well as the physical building itself. In 1962 we are looking forward to expanding our Emergency Room service."

The year 1962 will also see the start of the formal planning for the complete renovation and rebuilding of the Center Wing to better accommodate our future community health needs."

It is evident then that the Hospital and Women's Auxiliary are working toward one goal—that is the betterment of patient care for our area. We at the Benedictine Hospital are indeed proud to have you on our team."

I know I speak for the patients and staff of the Benedictine Hospital when I wish you a very Merry Christmas and a Happy and Blessed New Year."

'Dark Horse'

Racing gave political parlance the term "dark horse." In England, generations ago, there was a sneaky practice of dyeing the mane of a well-known horse black and entering him in a race under a false name. It thus became customary to apply the term "dark horse" to any unknown horse that won a big race.

Rattler May Not Rattle

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Contrary to popular belief, the eastern Diamondback rattlesnake, largest and most poisonous viper native to North America, doesn't always sound a warning before he strikes. Another belief—that he has to be coiled to strike—also is not true. The rattler usually buzzes the horny rattles at the end of his tail before striking, but he sometimes neglects to do so. And he can launch his incredibly fast lunge from any position.

POLLY'S QUIZ

By POLLY CRAMER

Keep Traditional Motif In Christmas Decorations

Decorating for the Christmas season has become nearly as important as year-around decorating. But far too many holiday decorations have gone far afield in past years. Some are all flamboyant color and glitter and have little about them to reflect the Christmas spirit.

Be wary of large investments in exotic decoration and don't attempt "high style" decorations unless yours is a high style house.

Some decorations will always reflect the holiday spirit: holly wreaths, red satin bows, pine cones and pine trees. One designer of unusually beautiful decorations uses much gold with deep green velvet ribbons and greens for a rich effect.

Remember Christmas decorations should look like Christmas and be compatible with the style and colors of the room in which they are used.

Dear Polly: Our home will be Early American and I plan to paint the hall and living-dining room walls driftwood white. With a soft beige wall-to-wall carpet, what shall I use for draperies and furniture? Would a deacon's bench be pretty in the hall? Should we paint the doors and windows or leave them natural?—S. J.

Dear S. J.: A deacon's bench is a nice choice for a hall. To emphasize the Early American feeling in your home, paint the woodwork (including doors and windows) a grayed olive-green.

This will be most effective with off-white walls.

Draperies and the slip cover for a wing chair could be made of a documentary print in blue, olive, beige or golden brown on a white ground. Cover the sofa with an olive-green linen or linenlike weave.

A pair of easy chairs could repeat the pale beige of the carpet color in a self-toned stripe of the plaid.

Dear Polly: The bathroom in our new home has pale pink walls, white ceiling, pink fixtures, gray ceramic tile on lower walls and floor. Birch built-in vanity has a white top flecked with gold. What color rug and towels should I get?—Mrs. A. L.

Dear Mrs. A. L.: That birch cabinet must stick out like sore thumb. Gray paint would have been my choice for it, particularly in a small room.

The shops are full of towels that add interest and could combine the room colors in a delightful pattern. One of the new pouff rugs, in pink, would be pretty on the floor.

Dear Reader: A heavy volume of mail doesn't permit Mrs. Cramer to answer her letters and post cards individually. But she will comment in her column on decorating problems of general interest. She cannot undertake to return floor plans or fabric swatches which are enclosed with letters.

ASK THE DESIGNER by gaile Dugas

Dear Gaile: Would you please tell me what kind of dress to wear at an afternoon wedding reception, 1 to 5 p. m.? Should it be fancy, basic or what? Should I wear a hat? If so, what size hat and bag? Also, please tell me how to dress for a banquet at 6:30 p. m. Should I wear a hat? And should it be bulky jewelry or a fine necklace? Also the proper way to dress for a church supper to be held at 6 p. m. Also the use of gloves for such affairs. — Mrs. J. M.

Dear Mrs. J. M.: Fashion advice on your first question comes from Sylvia Kaplan of Nat Kaplan. Mrs. Kaplan does beautiful, soft clothes of the kind eminently suitable for just such a wedding reception. She says: "I like the costume look for a wedding reception. A dress with jacket is exactly right. The trim should be confined to the top part of the dress and may be embroidery which will show up prettily if you put the jacket over your shoulders. But it should not be overly fussy. Keep the hat small and light; it might be done in ribbon and trimmed with a cloud of veiling. Match your bag to your dress and keep it small. It should be just large enough to hold the essentials."

Now, as to your other questions. The little black crepe dress, which may be worn with a small hat, is always "in" for dinner wear. Your choice of jewelry depends much on your own personal taste but it should be in keeping with the dress. Some dresses call for large, stunning pieces; others do not. Short white kid gloves and a small black bag.

For the church supper, why not a brown crepe worn with garnet or garnet-colored jewelry? The combination is both beautiful and unusual. White kid gloves again.

Dear Gaile: I wish you would give me some help on the kind of hat I should wear. My face is long and rather angular and I have difficulty in finding hats that look well. I do try to keep my hair styled and currently am wearing it back, with fullness at the crown and the flip at either side. Any help you can give me will be appreciated. — E. K.

Dear E. K.: Expert advice on this one comes from Vincent

Harmik of Nolly. This New York designer says:

"The asymmetric line does much to minimize those angular lines. Draping or any soft trim placed to one side of the face is invariably flattering. Deep, eye-shading brims lend an air of enchantment. Saucer brims or Bretons are especially becoming since they give both lift and width to the face. But be sure to avoid high or pointed crowns, stiff brims worn severely at eye level, and back-sliding hats such as Flemish or Rembrandt berets."

Please send your fashion problems to Gaile Dugas in care of this paper. While she cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

FATHER AND STEPMOTHER GIVE WEDDING

Q: My mother is not living. About two years ago my father remarried. This marriage has never seemed to cause any complications until this moment of my planning for my wedding. Suddenly my mother's people feel that the invitations should not include my stepmother's name. I thought if your own mother was not living it was all right. Please give me your opinion.

A: Your mother's family are quite wrong. In fact, it would be very cruel to your stepmother to omit her name. The wording would be "his daughter" instead of "their daughter."

Golden Anniversary "Shower of Cards" Q: My mother and father-in-law will soon celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary. However, as both are in poor health it would be nice if all their friends remembered them on this day by sending greeting cards, which I am sure will place them very much. In other words, have a "shower of cards." Is such an idea possible, and if so, how can I go about suggesting it?

A: Your idea is excellent and the best way to suggest it, would be to telephone your plan to their friends whom you know best, and ask them to spread the idea to others.

Sharing Restaurant Table With Stranger

Q: When lunching in a crowded restaurant where you are forced to share a table with a complete stranger, is it necessary to start a conversation, and also when leaving to say goodbye or just get up and leave? This is always a very awkward situation to me and I would appreciate any advice you may give me.

A: As a rule you say nothing. If you do happen to enter into a conversation, you would naturally say "good-bye" as you get up to leave.

High School Cagers Defeat Liberty Central, 51-47

Saugerties Scores, 71-26; Rondout Wallops Onteora

Late Burst Earns Maroon Players DUSO Victory

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Scoring 13 straight points in the closing moments of the third period and the first few seconds of the fourth stanza, Kingston High opened defense of its DUSO title with a 51-47 cliffhanger over Liberty before more than 1,000 last night at the Kate Walton Field House.

Though the scoreboard showed the locals had captured their opener, they were far from impressive. Poor ball handling, inconsistent shooting and some general all-around lapses, combined with the tenacity of the visitors kept the score close throughout.

Liberty had a 36-32 margin with 3:30 remaining in the third quarter when the Maroon first started its scoring binge. Paul Natale, a standout in his first varsity game, started the rally with a layup. John Falvey canned a free throw to slice the margin to a point, 36-35.

Natale put KHS ahead for good with a score from underneath. Then Falvey connected from the corner, center John Duffner tapped in a rebound and Ronnie Thomas, another first-year varsity performer, hit from the short range to give the locals a 43-36 edge at the end of the period.

Natale began the final session with a basket, making it 13 straight points for Kingston. Center Marv Miller ended the famine by caging a foul for the Indians, putting the margin at eight points, 45-37.

Maintain Lead
Coach John Gilligan's charges managed to hold the lead the rest of the way, but the Indians came close. A basket by Jeff Smith cut it to a point, 48-47, with 1:30 remaining. Liberty didn't score in those final seconds while the locals iced the decision as Mike Ferraro made a free throw and Falvey converted a pair of them.

Ferraro led the Kingston scoring with 17 points, but he had a poor game. His passing wasn't up to par. Duffner added 11 markers, most of them coming from underneath. Natale chipped in with 10 points and had good poise. He was the best player for the winners.

Billy Blume, Charley Bruns and Smith were all in double figures for the hustling Indians, who combined a good defense with a lot of speed. They ran all night.

CAGE JOTTINGS Mike DeBrosky, custodian of the Kate Walton Field House for many seasons, is a patient at Veterans Hospital in Albany, where he's recovering from major surgery. Those who want to send a card can mail it to Room 515.

The "football" legs of the Kingston team were still in evidence. There's reason to believe the potential is there but it's going to take a lot of hard work for the Maroon players to start clicking.

Jack Lewis, who played part of the second period and didn't do anything noteworthy, quit the KHS team after the game. He expected to see a lot of action and was perturbed at the turn of events.

It seems just a waste of space to have folding chairs under both baskets when there is a lot of comfortable space in the bleachers.

Those sitting behind the end lines are going to catch a player sitting on their laps more than once, after a hard drive from the other end of the court.

Natale, Duffner Top Shooters In Win Over Liberty

Paul Natale and John Duffner were the leading shooters for Kingston High school in the 51-47 win over Liberty last night.

Natale made five baskets in only six attempts for an 83% average. Duffner took seven shots and made five of them for a 71% mark. The others didn't do as well. Mike Ferraro was 7-20 for 35%.

Falvey 1-6 for 17% and Ronnie Thomas 3-13 for 23%.

Duffner was the rebound leader with 17. Natale had 14, Falvey 13 and Thomas got a pair. Ferraro was credited with four assists and Falvey with three.

Middletown Nips Monties, 60-59

Three football stars turned their talents to the hardwood and led Middletown to a 60-59 DUSO League victory over Monticello last night at the winner's court.

Ronnie Smith, Billy Kindberg, and Bill Gray were in double figures for the Middies. Ty Harden was the best for Monticello.

The clubs were tied, 30-30, at halftime but the home side was slightly ahead most of the second half.

Coaches Select DUSO All-Star Grid Team

Sports writers and coaches in the DUSO League see almost eye-to-eye on the All-DUSO football teams. The writers made known their selections last week. The coaches have just made known their first and second team and they are almost identical.

The only exceptions are that Bill Kindberg of Middletown was awarded a quarterback spot and Bob Ruckdeschel of Newburgh made the first team at end. Kindberg replaces Leroy Johnson of Port Jervis while Ruckdeschel takes the place of Gibby Romaine of the same club.

The writers pick four backs, regardless of position. The coaches select a quarterback and tabbed Kindberg as the best.

Coaches were not permitted to vote for their boys when making their selections.

Sawyers Defeat Cardinal Farley In DCSL Debut

Reserves saw most of the action last night at the Saugerties High court as the point-happy Sawyers romped over Cardinal Farley Military Academy, 71-26, in a DCSL contest.

The visitors were in contention for a half, trailing only 29-18 at the intermission. However, they were whitewashed in the third period and managed only eight points in the final quarter.

Al Hrdlicka was high for Bud Smith's quintet with 17 points and Andy Jacobs added 12. Reserves played most of the second half and all of them dented the scoring column.

The Sawyer jayvees nipped the visitors, 33-30, in the jayvee contest.

Saugerties will play at Beacon next Thursday in an afternoon circuit contest. The Bulldogs go to a win over Wappingers Falls.

Ray Robinson Kayos Greaves

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Triumphant in his latest comeback effort with a knockout of Wilf Greaves, Sugar Ray Robinson hopes for a similar outcome in a rematch with Denny Moyer in New York on Jan. 6 — and then a chance at winning his sixth middleweight boxing title.

Robinson, who won a split decision over Greaves last Sept. 25, knocked down the Canadian middleweight champion in the eighth round Friday night for a nine-count and then put him away at the 43-second mark.

The 40-year-old Robinson earned a close decision over Moyer in their first bout. He asked for a rematch, though, because he'd "like to feel it's a decisive win."

That also was his reason for requesting a rematch with Greaves.

Robinson's manager, George Ganford, credited Greaves with spurring the 22-year fight veteran to his 14th victory in 155 fights.

"Greaves made him fight," Robinson said after the bout. "Robinson couldn't loaf. He had to fight or get out of the ring."

Folley Is Rated Month's Top Boxer

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — The National Boxing Association has voted heavyweight Zora Folley the boxer-of-the-month for an upset victory which may rank as the ring's biggest of the year.

Folley, of Chandler, Ariz., knocked out British titlist Henry Cooper in the second round last Tuesday night — and right out a possible shot at champion Floyd Patterson.

Runnerup for the monthly award announced Friday by Tony Petronella, chairman of the NBA's rating committee, was featherweight champion Davey Moore of Springfield, Ohio. Moore made a successful title defense against Kazuo Takayama of Japan in Tokyo three weeks ago.

In the heavyweight picture, Folley moved up from eighth to fifth among the challengers while Cooper fell from fourth to eighth.

Fullmer, Paret In Middleweight Title Clash

By BOB MYERS
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Confusion in the middleweight boxing division may become even more muddled tonight when the title claimant, Gene Fullmer of Utah, and welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba collide in a 15-round match.

At stake in the nationally televised attraction—ABC 10 p.m., EST—is 30-year-old Fullmer's National Boxing Association version of the world championship.

Fullmer figured to weigh just under the 160-pound limit and Paret, ambitious king of the 147-pounders, about 155.

The 24-year-old Cuban seeks to become the first fighter to win and hold two titles simultaneously since Henry Armstrong ruled three divisions — featherweight, lightweight and welterweight — two decades ago.

England's Terry Downes is recognized as the world middleweight champion in Europe, New York and Massachusetts.

Fullmer, a veteran of 58 battles and knockout winner in 22, is a 31 favorite in this, the seventh defense of the crown he won from Carmen Basilio in 1959.

Paret, who often fights in flurries in contrast to Gene's crowding, two-fisted clouting offense, has had 47 matches. He has lost 10 and stopped nine opponents. His welterweight title is not at issue.

Giants, Eagles to Collide In Top NFL Contest Sunday

By ROBERT MOORE

Associated Press Sports Writer
The New York Giants, smarting from defeat, and the Philadelphia Eagles, fresh from two of their finest performances, square off Sunday in Philadelphia with the victor grabbing a one-game lead in the National Football League's Eastern Conference.

This will be the second meeting of the Giants and the defending champions. New York won the first clash 38-21 four weeks ago, but the Giants face a more potent Eagle offense in this return match.

Sonny Jurgensen, the Eagles' pass master and responsible for far more than half of their total yardage, was hampered by a sore foot in the Nov. 12 encounter which saw the Giants strike for two quick touchdowns and break ahead 14-0. The Eagles never recovered.

Jurgensen, however, has fully recovered from the sore foot. The former Duke ace has tossed seven touchdown passes in Philadelphia's last two games.

The two teams will enter the game with identical 9-3 records.

Play the Bears

The Cleveland Browns, only other club with a chance of winning the Eastern crown, visit the Bears in Chicago and must beat the Bruins to remain in the running. Cleveland is 8-4, trailing the deadlocked Giants and Eagles by one game. Chicago is 6-6.

It's already over except the shouting in the Western Conference. The Green Bay Packers wrapped up the title last Sunday by spanking the Giants 20-17 and can use Sunday's game at San Francisco (6-5-1) and their Dec. 17 tilt at Los Angeles to warm up for the NFL championship showdown at Green Bay Dec. 31. The Packers are 10-2.

With championship matters out of the way, interest in the West shifts to the runner-up team which will get a trip to Miami Jan. 6 to meet the East runner-up in the Runnerup Bowl. The Detroit Lions now in second place with a 7-4-1 record, are host to Minnesota (3-9) Sunday. Third place Baltimore faced the Rams in Los Angeles today.

Other games Sunday send Dallas (4-7-1) to St. Louis (5-7) and Pittsburgh (5-7) to Washington (10-1-1).

What Performances

Wilt Gets 78 Points, Baylor 63 in Same Tilt

By JIM WALTERS
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain definitely was unhappy. He slouched his huge 7-foot-plus frame onto a tiny stool in a corner of the Philadelphia Warriors dressing room, a picture of dejection, seemingly too tired to move an inch.

He had just scored 78 points for a new National Basketball Association record.

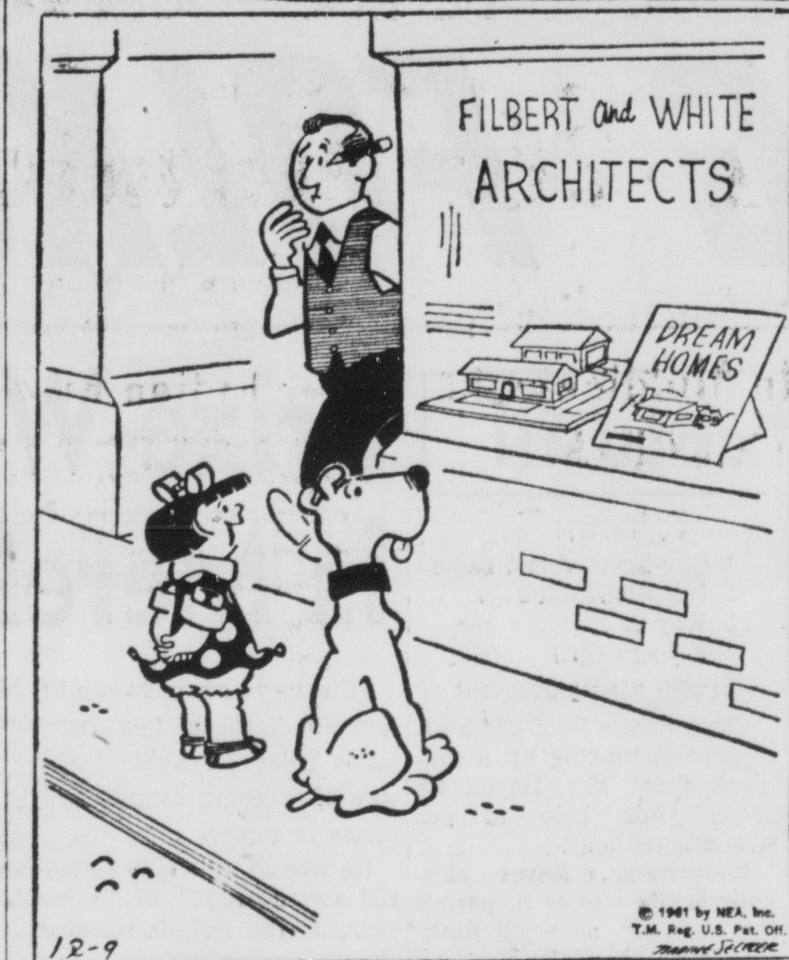

"As far as I'm concerned," said Wilt, "it's just 78 points down the drain. We lost the game."

Lost it the Warriors did, 151-147 in three overtimes Friday night, but through no fault of the slender-looking man they call "The Stilt." He had 31 field goals, 16 free throws, grabbed 43 of the Warriors' 98 rebounds and played every minute—giving him 24 consecutive games without a moment of rest during play.

124 Died During '29 Hospital Fire

NEW YORK (AP)—The hospital blaze that claimed 15 lives Friday in Hartford recalled these other major fires in American hospitals:

1929—124 persons perished when fire swept through a hospital in Cleveland, Ohio, on May 15.

1949—74 lives were lost April 5 in a fire at St. Anthony's Hospital, Effingham, Ill.

1957—72 persons were killed in a blaze Feb. 17 at the Katie Jane Nursing Home, Warrenton, Mo.

School Medical Policy Approved To Cut Liability

The Board of Education of the Kingston City Schools (Consolidated), has approved a policy on immediate medical coverage for students, aimed at cutting its liability insurance costs, which now are at 98 per cent debit.

The Board's insurance carrier recommended a greater conformity to the liability of parents in respect to payment of liability claims for accidents in the school district. It also urged a review of present administrative procedures of incurring expenses during the emergency period for immediate medical coverage, usually considered to be up to 24 hours. These recommendations received board approval at the December session Thursday night.

Authorizes First Aid
The Board authorized the staff to provide first aid and other precautionary care to all children injured while under supervision of school authorities, including notification of parents, transportation, when required, X-rays and referral to family physician or emergency consideration by hospital authorities. The Board also approved a policy authorizing the insurance carrier to pay only those liability claims which would in the option of the carrier, have a basis in school district liability and are, in effect, the responsibility of the school.

The Board of Education also approved a policy under which claims incurred by the school for ambulance service or other transportation in emergencies will be recommended for payment by the insurance carrier. Expenses incurred by the school for X-ray treatment as a precaution to school liability and in the best interest of the injured child will be paid as recommended by the insurance carrier.

The Board said the school staff is encouraged to advise parents, doctors and hospitals that the Board feels professional services to the injured child are the basic responsibility of the family. The insurance carrier under this new policy is authorized to pay only such claims which seem to be in the best interest of the Board, concerning liability.

Warwick Woman Killed
WARWICK, N.Y. (AP)—Mrs. Emily E. Barrett, 68, of Warwick was killed Friday night when struck by a car at the corner of Main St. and Wheeler Ave.

Police Chief Warren McFarland said Mrs. Barrett stepped off the curb into the path of a car driven by Douglas Slockower, 18, of Warwick.

The death was ruled accidental.

To Explode Peace Bomb
By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer
CARLSBAD, N.M. (AP)—American scientists plan to explode Sunday the first nuclear "bomb" designed for purely peaceful purposes.

The underground blast was set for 10 a.m. with witnesses from at least 10 foreign countries. Most are newsmen, but one official observer already on hand is Dr. Francois Perrin of France's Atomic Energy Agency.

Britons Moving To Crush Acts On U.S. Bases
LONDON (AP)—The British mobilized forces today against antinuclear demonstrators threatening to storm U.S. air force bases.

A tight security zone was set up around the bases with posters warning: "Official Secrets Act. Prohibited entry. Penalty of two years imprisonment."

In an attempt to break the back of the march organized by Earl Bertrand Russell's antinuclear Committee of 100, police seized five leading members of the group Friday.

They were charged in court with inciting persons to violate the Official Secrets Act by entering a U.S. air base. The case was continued until Dec. 14. Released on bail of $500 each, all five said they intended to go through with their demonstration at Wethersfield and Brize Norton—in Essex and Oxfordshire.

The intention of the demonstrators at Wethersfield is "to ground all aircraft" by sitting under them and by sitting down in maximum security areas where bombs and fuel are stored.

Demonstrations were also planned in the big cities of Bristol, Cardiff, York and Manchester as well as at U.S.A.F. headquarters at Ruislip in Middlesex.

Dismiss Charges In Turkey Case On Lake Hill Men

Charges of allegedly receiving stolen property brought against Thomas O'Brien and Louis Snider, both of Lake Hill, were dismissed Friday night by Woodstock Justice of Peace Rudolf C. Baumgarten at a preliminary hearing conducted in the Woodstock Firehouse.

O'Brien and Snider had been named by Edward Day of Woodstock as the alleged receivers of frozen turkeys which police said he had admitted taking from a food locker on the property of the Woodstock Dairy, for whom Day worked. The turkeys were the property of Woodstock Packing Co. Day is presently being held in Ulster County jail awaiting grand jury action on a charge of burglary, third degree, in connection with the turkey theft.

O'Brien and Snider were represented by Attorney John J. Schick of Kingston, while Assistant District Attorney Frank Vogt represented the prosecution.

Three witnesses were called for the prosecution: Day, Harry Cable and Nathan Parnett, proprietor of Woodstock Packing Co.

When Day, who was asked by Assistant District Attorney Vogt if O'Brien had been told by him that the turkeys had been stolen, replied in the negative. Attorney Schick asked the charges be dismissed and Justice Baumgarten concurred.

After cross examination of Snider, Attorney Schick asked that the charges against him also be dismissed since the only evidence against him was an alleged confession signed by Snider. He pointed out that under New York State law a self confession was not sufficient for conviction. It must have corroborating evidence. Following a brief recess, Justice Baumgarten dismissed the case.

Snider previously had been given a 30-day sentence and fined $50 on the charge. This also was dismissed.

Hearing Is Deferred

A 55-year-old Kingston man today received an adjournment until Tuesday at 9 a. m. for hearing in City Court on a charge of unlawful intrusion.

John Joseph Wilson, 55, of 24 Henry Street, was arrested Friday by Detective William Slover. Wilson is accused of entering the Sterling Studio, 20 Franklin Street through an unlocked door and sweeping items from a show case to the floor, damaging the merchandise according to police.

The top of the glass case also was damaged, authorities said. In lieu of $100 bail Wilson was confined in the County jail, police said.

Arsenal Jobs Open

Watervliet Arsenal is accepting applications for jobs as machine tool operators with starting salaries of $2.19 (W-6) and $2.40 (W-8) per hour. Applicants for the grades must have had experience or training or combination of both in the operation of one or more of these machines: engine lathes, milling machines, shapers, planers, boring mills, grinders, or other metal working machines of this type. Further details and application forms may be obtained at any main post office, or from the Executive Secretary, Board of U.S. Civil Service Examiners, Watervliet Arsenal, Watervliet.

OFFICE CAT

Trade Mark Reg. By Junius

A man insisted to his psychiatrist that he had swallowed a horse. None of the doctor's persuasive tactics could convince him to change his mind. In desperation, the psychiatrist agreed to "operate." The idea was simply to put the patient under and bring a horse into the operating room. When the patient came to, the doctor pointed to the horse and said:

Doctor—Well, that won't worry you any more.

Man—That's not the one I swallowed. That's a bay. My horse was white.

The Weather

SATURDAY, DEC. 9, 1961
Sun rises at 7:11 a. m.; sun sets at 4:24 p. m., E.S.T.
Weather: Mostly sunny.
The lowest temperature recorded on the Freeman thermometer during the night was 26 degrees. The highest figure recorded up to noon today was 34 degrees.

Weather Forecast
Lower Hudson Valley: Mostly sunny with seasonal temperatures today. High in the upper 20s and 30s. Fair with increasing cloudiness spreading eastward tonight. Not quite as cold. Low mostly in 20s. Sunday, increasing and thickening cloudiness and moderately cold with snow developing during the day. Chance of mixed rain and snow in the Lower Hudson Valley. High in 20s to low 30s. Winds variable and under 15 today, becoming easterly to southeasterly tonight and increasing southeasterly 10-20 Sunday, except northeasterly in St. Lawrence Valley tonight and Sunday.

Western New York: Mostly fair early today, except for a few brief snow flurries in some counties close to the Great Lakes. Temperature rising to near 32. Clouding up this afternoon followed by periods of wet snow tonight and Sunday. Low to night 25-30. Light, variable winds 5-10, becoming southeasterly 10-20 by tonight.

Weather Bulletin

The Associated Press in a late advisory shortly before Freeman press time said the Upper and Lower Hudson Valley can expect increasing cloudiness this afternoon with snow beginning late tonight or early Sunday and likely continuing into Sunday night. Light snow was forecast for the Mohawk Valley and Western Catskills.

Jersey Woman Is Hurt in Friday Collision on 209

A Bergenfield, N. J., woman was hospitalized with chest and leg injuries as the result of a collision between her car and a tractor-trailer on Route 209 in Spring Glen Friday night. State police of the Ellenville barracks reported that an automobile operated by Mona Morrison, 27, of Bergenfield, heading north on Route 209 at 9:30 p. m. failed to negotiate a right curve and ran into the left front door of a tractor-trailer operated by Raymond Mylet, 39, of Hazelton, Pa. The big vehicle jackknifed and went off the left side of the highway. The Morrison car spun around in the center of the highway, but remained on the road. She was taken to Veterans Memorial Hospital in Ellenville suffering from injuries to her chest and lacerations of both legs. Her condition today was reported as good.

Snow Front Is

qua, Cattaraugus, Wyoming, Allegany, southern Erie, Onondaga, Oneida, Oswego, Jefferson and Lewis counties. While some cities in the area escaped with only a trace of snow, Rome fought 11 inches, Syracuse 8 and Utica and Olean 5. Harvest hit was the Ellipticville area of Cattaraugus County, in the southwest, where 24 inches or more fell. The Weather Bureau predicted temperatures to be generally in the 20s and low 30s for most of the state Sunday.

Heavy Snow Piles Up Across Plains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Heavy snow swirled out of the Rockies across the Plains into Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri today, piling up to depths of 5 to 6 inches. Snow warnings were posted as far south as Ponca City, Okla., and east to St. Louis. The storm hit Wyoming, Montana, Colorado, Nebraska and the Dakotas Friday. A band of sleet and freezing rain stretched from southeastern Kansas across Arkansas and Illinois into central Kentucky, making driving hazardous in spots. Rain and drizzle soaked areas in the southern Plains and South Atlantic coast states. Heaviest rainfall reported was 1.03 inches at Harrison, Ark. Light snow was reported during the night along the North Atlantic coast, north and east of a Great Lakes area criped Friday by accumulations of up to two feet. A mass of Canadian air pushed as far south as New Mexico, dropping temperatures sharply during the night in Montana and North Dakota. Havre, Mont., reported 18 below. Temperatures were below freezing over a good portion of the nation during the night. Readings shortly after midnight ranged from 32 at Seattle to the 50s in California, stayed in the 30s and 40s across much of the South, and ranged as high as the 70s in southern Florida and Texas.

Port Ewen Man Celebrates 25th Year With A & P

Lorin W. Beehler of River Road, Port Ewen, recently celebrated his 25th anniversary with A & P Food Stores and joined more than 1,600 New England Division employees in the company's 25-year club. Beehler, who is store manager of the A & P located on Main Street, Poughkeepsie, joined the company on December 7, 1936. He served as acting manager of the Sauerberties store and North Front Street store in Kingston. He also was assistant manager of the Prince Street A & P in Kingston. On his 25th anniversary he received a cash award from the company and congratulatory messages from Lawrence M. Cazavoux, divisional president and T. D. Hamilton, vice-president in charge of operations throughout this area.

months extended tour of duty in Japan and China. He was one of three brothers who served in the United States Marine Corps during World War 2. While his brothers served in the U. S. Army, Joseph selected the Marine Corps after one brother serving in the Air Force, was reported missing in action. After his discharge from service he entered the employ of The Kingston Freeman and shortly thereafter he became managing editor of The Catskill Daily Mail where he remained for six years until named Greene County undersheriff by Sheriff Bailey. He succeeded the late Clarence Palmer as undersheriff. Pavlak attended the Cementon public schools and also studied at St. Francis Seminary, Lowell, Mass., and for three years studied philosophy and related subjects at St. Anthony's Seminary in Catskill. At the time he joined the Marine Corps he had completed two years of theology in Illinois and interrupted his studies in order to serve his country. He presently resides at 44 Grandview Avenue, Catskill, with his wife and daughter.

avoid having nuclear bombs fall on our heads. "Do you want us to create conditions in which they would throw bombs at us and also clean the air for them?" he said. "We would be slobbering idiots if we did not carry out the nuclear tests. This is the only correct line and the one we have chosen." When Khrushchev concluded there was stormy applause and the delegates gathered from all over the world stood up and joined him in singing the Internationale. Khrushchev laughed at President Kennedy's proposal for an internationally controlled corridor to West Berlin. "Strange people!" he said. "They still think of the Soviet Union as it used to be. They do not realize we have changed our shorts for long pants."

Business Week in Review

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — President Kennedy appealed to business and labor during the week for support of what he called a "bold and new" foreign trade policy. He spread his proposal for broad-tariff cutting powers before the National Association of Manufacturers in New York City and the AFL-CIO convention in Miami, Fla.

Not Much Enthusiasm
Neither of these groups in the past has expressed much enthusiasm for lower tariffs. Kennedy based his pleas for support on the argument that improved international trade will be a means of providing prosperity and more jobs.

The President seeks congressional authority to bargain in tariff reductions with Western Europe in broad categories instead of item by item. Most members of both organizations apparently were waiting for the President's program to be spelled out upon submission to Congress in January before committing themselves definitely to his desires. Kennedy took the occasion of his appearance before the AFL-CIO to announce that the unemployment rate declined in November for the first time in a year. The rate dropped to 6.1 per cent of the work force from 6.8.

Job Total Is Record
The total employment of 67,349,000 in November was a record for the month. Volume of trading on the New York Stock Exchange was 21,010,850 shares compared with 22,283,470 the preceding week. Bond sales totaled $3,899,000 in value during the week compared with $3,590,000 the previous week. An encouraging development.

Rains Slow

eral U Thant to justify its legal basis and aim. At U.N. headquarters in New York Thant said the U.N. task force was acting in self-defense. He charged the wealthy Belgian-run Union Miniere Co., which mines and processes much of Katanga's copper and cobalt, had furnished bombs and armored cars used against the U.N. troops. At Leopoldville, the Congo central government said it would seek outside help to end the Katanga secession if the United Nations fails to restore the province to the legal Congolese government.

Bombs for Defense Only
In London, Britain announced it would supply 24 half-ton bombs to the U.N. force in Katanga but only on the condition they be used strictly for defensive purposes. This was taken to include operations against planes and air strips maintained by the air arm of President Tshombe's forces, but not ground troops. At Washington, Secretary of State Dean Rusk strongly supported the U.N. operation saying the United Nations is not trying to conquer Katanga but to secure the U.N. position against Katanga harassment.

Congolese Hall Kennedy
Increasing incidents involving bystanders caught in the middle of the fighting around Elisabethville led Tshombe to charge Friday that "cowardly and decadent" Americans were bombing churches, hospitals and schools and killing women and children. He attributed the deaths of seven civilians to American bombs. No American aircraft have been engaged in combat missions. At Leopoldville, however, some 200 Congolese students shouted "vive Kennedy" in a pro-American demonstration after they had showered bricks at the British, French and Portuguese embassies.

New Haven Road Given Additional Federal Subsidy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has agreed to guarantee another money transfusion for the financially ailing New Haven Railroad. But the Interstate Commerce Commission, in approving the $7.5-million loan guarantee Friday, said any future requests must be accompanied by proof that attempts are being made to cut operating losses. Trustees for the bankrupt line said in New York they "hope for a further cash improvement soon." The trustees said the loan, although half of what they originally requested, "should provide operating funds for at least six months." The ICC decision brings to $55.6 million the amount of loans which the federal government has guaranteed since 1958. Of that amount, New Haven defaulted on $14.7 million, which the government had to make good. The line has been in financial deep water since 1956.

J., (9:30 a.m.) a meeting of the Delaware River Basin. On Thursday, he will be in Albany to meet with Republican legislative leaders to discuss plans for the 1962 legislative session. Press Secretary Robert McManus said the governor will spend most of the latter half of December in Albany.

for the economy as a whole was the tremendous surge of new car buying. Sales of 584,960 U.S.-made passenger cars in November were the highest ever for the month, exceeding the 530,000 sold in that month of 1955 and 1960. General Motors, Ford and American Motors set records for the month.

Total November production of 646,015 cars was second only to November 1955, the year in which sales set an all-time record. Production continued to boom during the week with output estimated at 160,000, compared with 154,967 the previous week and 133,433 a year ago. Spurred by increasing demand from automakers and other users, steel production last week posted its biggest gain in two months.

Sales Good Sign
Another good sign was the Commerce Department report that combined record sales were registered by manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers in October. The $63-billion total was 2 per cent ahead of September.

Forecasts of record production, income and profits in 1962 came out of a Washington conference sponsored by the United States Chamber of Commerce. Forty-four electric utilities serving 14 Eastern states filed trouble damage suits alleging 21 months of heavy electrical equipment fixed prices on purchases totaling more than $750 million. Defendants included General Electric Co., Westinghouse Electric Corp. and Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co.

cell at the hospital with two detectives on guard. Brings Along Warrant Assistant Nassau County (N.Y.) Dist. Atty. William Cahn arrived during the night. Two county detectives and a court reporter accompanied him.

Cahn said he brought with him a warrant charging Ivanov with murder in the first degree. He said the Nassau grand jury had not met to consider indictment of Ivanov. The jury goes into session Tuesday, Cahn said. The FBI identified Ivanov as the man wanted in Mineola, N.Y., for the Nov. 25 bayonet massacre of five persons. The victims were Peter Gregov, 23, his wife, 35, and their three sons; Peter Jr., 17, Ronald, 15, and Michael, 11. Even the family poodle was stabbed to death with 17 wounds. A French bayonet found nearby was described as the murder weapon.

Ivanov was picked up by immigration authorities Dec. 5 on charges of illegal entry into the United States. He was found posing as a Cuban refugee in a rowboat near Marathon in the Florida keys. A fingerprint check by the FBI disclosed his identity. Records showed that Ivanov and his wife and four children lived with the Gregovs when they arrived in the United States from Trieste on the Yugoslavian border. Later, Ivanov and his wife had domestic difficulties and she and Gregov had Ivanov committed to a mental institution. Authorities at the mental institution described Ivanov as dangerous, but a victim of chronic mental illness with symptoms of paranoid delusion. Ivanov fled the hospital Nov. 15 while working on a laundry delivery detail. Dr. Francis O'Neill, the hospital director, did not report his escape to the police because he believed him harmless.

Solon Loses Part of Leg

STEPHENS CITY, Va. (AP) — Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., suffered the loss of part of his left leg in a freak automobile accident Friday. Doctors at Winchester Memorial Hospital amputated the leg at the knee after it was nearly severed in the accident. Police said Ullman was driving on Virginia 277 when he attempted to cross a rattling door. The wind jerked open the door, which opens from the front of his small foreign car. The car swerved into a ditch and Ullman was thrown out.

safety measure until they were forced to seek refuge in rooms.

Thought Fire Proof
Rescuers evacuated all patients from the eighth floor up in the $10-million, 13-story hospital that was built 13 years ago and was regarded as almost fireproof. Firemen tried to reach trapped patients on the ninth floor with extension ladders. But most of the ladders went only as high as the eighth floor. Some patients were carried to safety while plasma bottles still were attached to their arms. One of the hospital staff members, 32-year-old Dr. Norman Hedenstad, perished in the flames as he tried to close a door at the end of a corridor to prevent the spread of the fire.

Andrew Agogliati, 53, of Framingham, Mass., one of four patients in a ninth floor room, heard a shout: "Get the patients out!"

Tried Not to Panic
He got out of bed—"Although I'm not supposed to"—and saw flames and smoke. Visitors in the room used blankets and sheets to seal cracks around the door to keep smoke out. "We all opened the windows and the smoke went out," he said. "So we just stayed there and tried not to panic."

Lois Daly was one of the nurses who closed doors and windows in patients' rooms. She eventually was forced into a room with 10 others, including nurses, patients, visitors and employees. "By the time we closed the door," she said, "the room was filled with smoke. We had to open windows in order to get some air because it was just black in there. We put wet towels over our nose and mouth so we could filter the smoke and breathe. For a brief moment I thought this was curtains."

The hospital's executive director, T. Stewart Hamilton, said that "only time will reveal the many deeds of courageous actions on the part of patients and personnel." The fire brought personal tragedy to Deputy State Fire Marshal Carroll E. Shaw as he directed the removal of bodies during the fire. The first body to be identified was that of his niece, 14-year-old Diane Pape.

The hospital's executive engineer, Stewart A. Sprague, raised the possibility that a combustible gas may have escaped and then ignited.

He said his theory was purely speculation, however, and that he did not know of any such gas kept on the ninth floor. But his theory, he said, would explain why the flames spread so quickly along the ceilings. The only established fact, said Hartford Fire Chief Thomas Lee, was that the blaze started in the trash chute between the first and third floors.

Asked whether a cigarette might have started the fire, Lee said: "We think in terms of something like that."

Alarms One Hour Later
Lee said his department received the first alarm at 2:39 p.m. Witnesses at the hearing told of fire in the chute as early as 1:30 p.m.

"The fire was certainly fought by hospital personnel before an alarm was turned in," Lee said. "The question is, how long?" The hospital discharged about 200 patients, including 100 women who recently gave birth. Other hospitals offered room to patients who might have been displaced by the fire. But Hamilton said all remaining patients have been transferred to other nursing units within Hartford Hospital.

The fire closed down eight units containing 216 beds, but the hospital expected many would be back in use within a few days. There was no estimate of monetary damage to the hospital, a gleaming white building just a few blocks from the state capitol.

Board to Discuss with the data processing equipment the same chore could be accomplished in just two days.

Use Increases
He pointed to the increasing use of such equipment by the State Education Department and added that the Board of Cooperative Services in New Paltz also has such a machine. The Ontario Central School report cards are now processed by the Co-operative Services machine. Members of the finance committee who will study the proposal include Chairman Kline, Mrs. Vincent G. Connelly and Andrew T. Gilday.

Assault Case Deferred

A 21-year-old laborer today received an adjournment until Monday at 9 a. m. for hearing in City Court on a third-degree assault charge. Moez Johnson, 208 Broadway, was continued in bail of $25 pending disposition of the charge filed against him by Joseph Bowman, 54 East Strand, who accused the defendant of punching him in an apartment at 73 Hasbrouck Avenue, causing an injury which was treated at Kingston Hospital.

FBI Chief Gets Criss Award for Safety Service

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, has been named recipient of the $10,000 Mutual of Omaha Criss Award. Dr. Charles W. Mayo, Mayo Clinic, chairman of the award's board of judges, made the presentation in Washington, D. C., Thursday night. About 200 gathered at the presentation dinner at the Mayflower Hotel to honor Hoover.

Hoover received the award for "his outstanding contribution to the personal security and safety of the American public," said Dr. Mayo. Hoover has been director of the FBI since 1924 and has been associated with the Justice Department since 1917. Dr. Mayo pointed out in making the presentation, "He has served through war and peace and in many different administrations and is, perhaps the highest ranking public official with such a long tenure of service. His work has been symbolic of the American way of life. He has upheld the principles on which this country was founded," said Dr. Mayo.

The award, consisting of $10,000 tax free and a gold medal, was presented by Dr. Mayo. The award was established in 1950 by V. J. Skutt, chairman of the board and president of Mutual of Omaha, in honor of the founder of the Company, Dr. C. C. Criss. It is presented for outstanding contributions in the field of health and/or safety. Past recipients include Dr. Jonas Salk, for his work with polio vaccine; Dr. Howard Rusk, world leader in rehabilitation; the late Dr. Thomas Dooley, jungle doctor of Laos; W. Earl Hall, safety crusader and editor and Dr. Philip Hench and Edward Kendall, for their work with cortisone.

Worker Is Hurt By Falling Limb

A 39-year-old Pennsylvania construction worker was injured at about 8:30 a. m. Friday when hit by the large limb of a tree he was removing off Freetown Road, Town of Plattekill.

Highland State Police Sgt. Robert Smith and Trooper Larry Grogan said Franklin Dippie, of 266 South Courtlandt Street, East Stroudsburg, Pa., was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, and treated for a dislocated right ankle and lacerations of the right leg. Trooper Grogan said Dippie was working with other men employed by the Burnett Tree Service, East Stroudsburg, Pa., clearing trees along Freetown Highway, Town of Plattekill, when a large limb fell and hit him.

Holstein Group Accepts Plattekill Youth as Member

Eugene DuBois Jr. of Plattekill has been accepted as a junior member of The Holstein-Friesian Association of America, Brattleboro, Vt. He qualified for the certificate of merit and junior membership pin through successful dairy project work with registered Holstein cattle. Junior membership entitles 4-H members and Vo-Ag students to all of the privileges of the national Holstein organization with the exception of voting. Under the plan, junior members register and transfer their animals at members' rates and receive regular reports of breed and Association progress. More than 31,600 young Holstein breeders have participated in the program since its inauguration in 1923.

Rabbit Hunter Is Wounded Friday, Pellets Ricochet

A 66-year-old New Windsor man was wounded at about 8:30 a. m. Friday in a hunting accident near Plattekill, according to Highland troopers. Trooper Larry Grogan, who investigated with Sgt. Robert Smith said Attelio Gandolfini, of Cross Street, New Windsor, was shot while hunting rabbits with John Rustico, 62, of 78 Church Street, Highland Falls. According to Grogan, Gandolfini was standing on a stonewall driving rabbits when Rustico fired his shotgun and pellets hit Gandolfini's legs and abdomen. Gandolfini was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, and admitted after treatment. Others in the hunting party were identified as Joseph Bologna, Route 9W, Cornwall and Gregorio Galletti, the Bronx.

Page Satisfactory

The condition of Wade Page, 28, of Mt. Marion, seriously injured in an auto accident on Glenierie Hill on the Glasco Turnpike, last Saturday, is reported as satisfactory today at Albany Medical Center. Page was pinned beneath his car for several hours after it went over an embankment on Glenierie Hill and according to state police received multiple bruises and abrasions and leg injuries. He was taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's ambulance following his discovery by a passing motorist and was transferred to Albany Medical Center Wednesday.

Fear 33 Dead As Ship Sinks

MANILA (AP)—A Panamanian freighter sank in a storm in the South China Sea Friday night and it was feared 33 on board may have perished. The 1,722-ton freighter Combined One, en route to Hong Kong from Singapore with a cargo of logs, apparently went down just west of Ladd Reef, in the Spratly Island group about 650 miles southwest of Manila. The U.S. Navy said five survivors had been rescued and two bodies recovered. "No additional survivors have been sighted," said a spokesman at Sangley Point Naval Base. The U.S. 7th Fleet landing ship, Epping Forest, reported rough seas and 35-knot winds were hampering rescue operations. A fleet of 13 merchant ships in addition to the Epping Forest are scouring the choppy waters for survivors.

Pentagon Lacks Set Plan for Releases

WASHINGTON (AP)—Army Reservists and National Guardsmen can be returned to civilian life as soon as regular units are created to take their places, Pentagon officials said today.

The officials made clear the Board to Discuss Data Processing Idea for Schools

Members of the Board of Education Finance Committee of the Kingston City Schools, (Consolidated), will meet Wednesday, Dec. 13, at 7:30 p. m. to consider the advisability of acquiring IBM data processing equipment for the school system.

Dr. Earl F. Soper, superintendent of schools, broached the subject at Thursday night's meeting of the Board and David Kline, finance chairman set next Wednesday as the date for his committee to sit down and discuss the proposal with members of the school staff.

Efficiency Cited
Dr. Soper told Board members Thursday night of the efficiency and time saving qualities of the data processing equipment which includes a key puncher, sorter and accounting machine. He cited the various things for which the equipment could be used, such as payroll, compiling Social Security and Teacher Retirement plan benefits. He also said it could be used for report and permanent record cards for students, inventory of supplies, the school census and absence lists among other things. He said the machine processes from 50 up to 100 lines a minute.

Dr. Soper explained that, for instance, whereas now it takes two full working weeks to get out the teachers' pay checks,

Pentagon did not have a firm schedule for releasing the 119,500 Guardsmen and Reservists mustered into the Army last October.

To Need Five Months
Next month, training centers will start producing the first substantial manpower reinforcements for the Army resulting from the increased draft calls that began in August. The Army figures it takes a minimum of five months to train a new man to carry a full load as a soldier.

The increased flow of trained draftees does not mean called-up Reservists and Guardsmen can be released at the same time, officials stressed.

They said there are other key factors such as the rate of enlistments and, perhaps most important, the world situation.

"The Berlin crisis hasn't changed enough to warrant sending the Guardsmen and Reservists home," one official said.

July Release Possible
The Army hopes to release all the Guardsmen and Reservists from active service by next July, but no decision has been made on when to start the process.

For one thing, the Army feels they should undergo at least five months of training. Most of them have been in uniform less than two months.

President Kennedy said 10 days ago: "It is our hope to get these men out before their 12-month period." Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr Jr. followed this by saying, "We do intend to try to beat the year limit, depending on the way the international situation develops."

Complaints May Help
Suggestions have arisen that a rash of complaints from some of the recalled Guardsmen and Reservists might prompt the Kennedy administration to consider hurrying their release, particularly since 1962 is a congressional election year.

One top official said there has been no suggestion from the White House or any other government quarter that "any military compromise should be made to ward off criticism."

Rocky to Map 1962 Strategy on Dec. 27

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Gov. Rockefeller has begun preparing for what is expected to be an intensive drive for reelection—a campaign that may well affect his national standing.

Rockefeller, mentioned frequently as a potential candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1964, has scheduled a high-level meeting for Dec. 27 to map official strategy for his 1962 reelection bid.

The governor's chances of obtaining the GOP presidential nomination are expected to depend heavily on next year's gubernatorial election. The affect of his impending divorce remains, however, a political imponderable.

Among those who are expected to attend the meeting are U.S. Sens. Kenneth B. Keating and Jacob K. Javits, Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson, State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz, Republican legislative leaders, Republican state Chairman L. Judson Morhouse and George Hinman, GOP national committeeman from New York State.

Rockefeller, next year probably will have as running mates on the same ticket Javits, Wilson, Lefkowitz and the legislators.

The governor has several other meetings scheduled on his December calendar.

He will meet Sunday in New York City with other members of the Civil Defense Commission of the Governor's Conference.

The governor is chairman of that committee and has advocated strongly a program of fallout shelters for the civilian population.

Dominican Agreement Reported

Opposition Says Strike Is Over

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—The official newspaper El Caribe said today agreement in principle has been reached between opposition and government representatives on a formula to solve the nation's political crisis.

No Details on Formula
The newspaper gave no details on the formula. It did not attribute the information to any specific individual. The report could not be immediately confirmed from either opposition or government sources.

At the same time, the opposition radio network, Voz del Tropico, announced that a general strike called to back opposition demands that President Juquin Balaguer step out of the government has been ended.

12-Hour Negotiations
The reports followed Friday night's 12-hour negotiating session between government and opposition representatives. After the session recessed, the National Civic Union, largest of the opposition groups, said it would continue negotiations today despite an ultimatum that it would withdraw from the talks unless a settlement was reached.

Warships Withdrawn
Meanwhile, the United States announced it has withdrawn a fleet of warships from the vicinity of the Dominican Republic. The ships appeared off the coast shortly after two brothers of slain dictator Rafael Trujillo returned to the country apparently to try to restore a rightist dictatorship. The Trujillos, Hector and Jose Arizmendi, were forced out of the country a few days later by an air force coup.

In Washington, U.S. government sources declined to discuss the significance of recalling the ships.

Opposition groups have insisted that Balaguer, a former front man for dictator Trujillo, and all other holdovers from the Trujillo era must get out of the government. A general strike called to back the demands entered its 12th day today.

Snow Front Is Moving Eastward, Upstate Digs Out

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A snow front moved menacingly eastward across the state today after dumping as much as two feet of snow in areas of Lakes Erie and Ontario.

As squalls receded in the Great Lakes area, the counties east and southeast of the snow belt braced for their share of snow threatened for Sunday, New York City and the southern sections of the state stood a chance of escaping with rain mixed with snow.

Generally fair skies were expected to become murky by late today. Periods of wet snow are forecast through Sunday in the western section, where some areas dug out from a crippling snowfall that disrupted air and road traffic and caused some schools to close.

Snow was heaviest in Chautauque, N. Y., as workers tried to get to their

15 Persons Dead In Hartford Fire, Probe Underway

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Fire burst out of a ninth floor trash chute at Hartford Hospital Friday, flashed down a corridor with blowtorch fury and killed 15 persons.

More than 100 other persons were trapped in hospital rooms as the fire transformed once gleaming corridors into a mass of charred debris.

Six patients, five visitors and four hospital staff members were among the dead. Two of the visitors had been to see their ill husbands. There were 793 patients in the hospital at the time.

Manlius Woman Victim
Mrs. Henrietta Conover, 56, of Manlius, N. Y., was among the 15 persons killed in the Hartford hospital fire Friday. She was a visitor at the hospital.

Cause Not Clear
An almost immediate investigation and hearing put witness after witness — some of them still disheveled and soot-marked — before fire officials in an effort to pinpoint the cause.

The cause was not clear. Perhaps a lighted cigarette, said one hospital official. Perhaps some kind of escaped gas, said another.

The formal interrogation session lasted for six hours and was recessed until today.

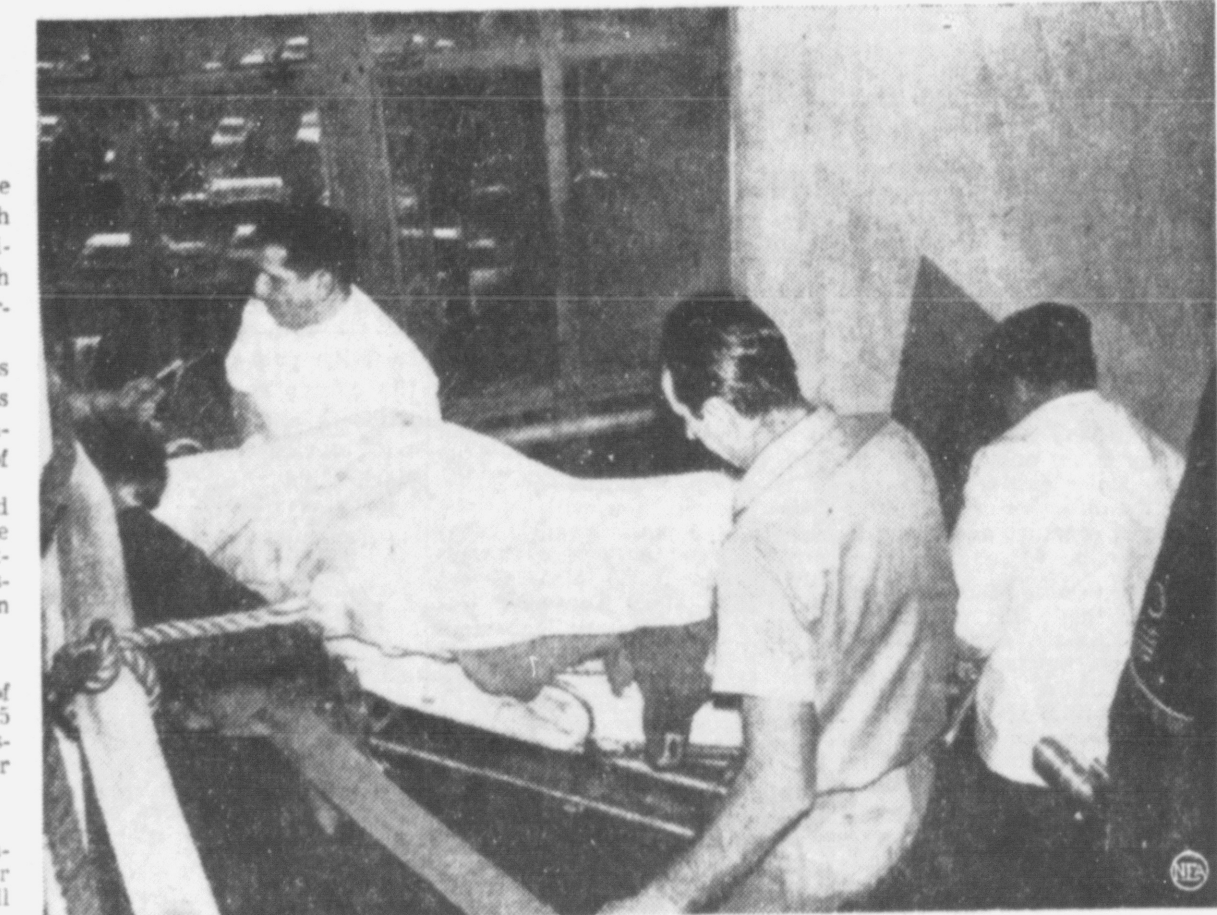

Of the fire victims, 12 were women and 3 men. The four hospital staff members who perished were a doctor, a private nurse, a dietary aide and a housekeeping supervisor.

One doctor said flames raced along the ceiling. Another said a billow of flame dropped down from the ceiling "like a blowtorch."

Thick smoke and a muffled explosion accompanied the blast of flame that spouted from the trash chute at the ninth floor.

Scream for Help
Patients screamed for help from their windows. Rescuers fought through smoke and fire as they carried helpless patients to safety down stairs or by the few elevators still working.

Nurses remained with their patients to prevent panic despite choking smoke and approaching flames. They ran through corridors, slamming doors shut as a

Fidel Nears Break With Latin Nations

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro lashed out today with a bitter attack on Panama and Colombia and challenged them to sever diplomatic ties with his Cuban regime.

The Cuban prime minister, in a midnight television speech, also assailed President Kennedy's scheduled trip next week to Venezuela and Colombia, charging it is aimed at defending the U.S. "repressive policy against workers."

On 'Silver Platter'
Castro told a cheering audience of graduating school teachers he was issuing the invitation to his two Latin-American neighbors "on a silver platter" to accommodate the wishes of the U.S. State Department.

Castro called Panama "another government of traitors and accomplices of the Yankee imperialists."

"Let them break relations with us, these unfaithful ones like Panama and Colombia," Castro said.

Colombia this week called for a foreign ministers' meeting to discuss the problem Cuba poses for the hemisphere. Panama recently relayed to Cuba a diplomatic note from Guatemala in which that nation threatened to permit establishment of a Cuban government in exile unless ex-President Jacobo Arbenz was expelled from his exile in Cuba.

11 Have Ended Ties
Eleven nations of the western hemisphere already have broken with Cuba.

Castro also denounced President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela as a "miserable traitor" and said Kennedy's visit would "shore up the traitor." Betancourt was a strong supporter of Castro at the outset of his Cuban invasion.

Nik Flexes Muscles In Excited Speech

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev said today the Soviet Union had built 50- and 100-megaton bombs so that they would hang over the heads of Western powers like the sword of Damocles.

He told delegates to the Communist-dominated congress of the World Federation of Trade Unions that the Soviet Union had no plans to use such bombs "but we shall certainly use this weapon against the enemy if they unleash a new war."

"The 50- and 100-megaton bombs will always hang over their heads like the sword of Damocles," he said.

The Russian premier drew his allusion from ancient Greek history. Damocles was rebuked and forced to sit at a royal banquet with a sword suspended over his head by a hair.

Speaking excitedly from the platform in the Kremlin's red and gray Hall of Congresses, he said that there was not a point on the globe that could not be reached by Soviet rockets and he thought that was a strong deterrent against aggressive forces.

Khrushchev expressed dismay that not everybody in the world appreciated the "correctness" of the Soviet Union's decision to resume nuclear testing in the air.

He said that many honest people had expressed concern about the health danger.

But, he claimed, "The socialist countries have to think first, not about fallout shelters but how to

Capital Quietest Since Outbreak

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP)—Torrential rains slowed the fighting between U.N. and Katanga forces today giving Elisabethville the quietest spell since the battle began on the outskirts of the capital five days ago.

At Leopoldville, the United Nations said U.N. Swedish jets had knocked out the powerful government-controlled Katanga radio Friday. The U.N. announcement said Swedish ground troops dispersed a large concentration of Katanga gendarmes around the Elisabethville transmitter.

Dispute U.N. Claim
Katangan sources disputed U.N. claims and said only a powerline was cut and the station could go back on the air after repairs.

A mortar fire was heard in the area of the U.N. headquarters here at dawn. Katanga army sources said they expect to launch an attack to try to clear the area.

A report to the U.N. command at Leopoldville said Indian troops fought off an attack through the bush around the Elisabethville airport Friday, supported by Indian Canberra jet aircraft. Two attacking companies of Katanga gendarmes were reported to have suffered heavy losses.

Says Tank Demolished
U.N. sources said the column of advancing gendarmes was led by a huge improvised tank, constructed by a private industrial firm in Katanga. Built upon the base of a bulldozer, the tank was covered with double armor plates filled with concrete.

The Indians claimed they attacked the tank with a recoilless rifle and demolished it with the first shot.

A U.N. armored car drove through the section of town around the U.N. headquarters here with a loudspeaker warning civilians not to shelter Katanga snipers in their homes or "action would be taken to destroy the snipers' nests."

Skirmishes flared on the outskirts of Elisabethville. But the U.N. forces made no effort to drive into the center of the city where the Katangans held two main military strongholds—President Moise Tshombe's palace and the Lido Hotel.

Brian Urquhart, U.N. political advisor, reported to his New York headquarters that Swedish, Irish and Indian troops were making good progress in cleaning up the outskirts of the capital and had eliminated all Katangan roadblocks.

Spaak Hits Action

Hospital to Air Scholl Property Purchase Monday

A proposal to purchase the building and land now occupied by Scholl's Market at Broadway and Foxhall Avenue as part of an expansion program by Kingston Hospital, will be discussed Monday at a meeting to be held at the hospital starting at 12:15 p. m.

Robert M. Schnitzer, hospital administrator, said today the Board of Directors has called a meeting which will be attended by a group of city residents to discuss the proposed purchase of the property and consider other expansion program proposals.

Schnitzer said the purchase of the Broadway-Foxhall Avenue property, which has a frontage on Broadway of approximately 60 feet, immediately adjoining the hospital, has been explored by the hospital directors for some time and has been discussed at two previous meetings.

The administrator said Monday's orientation meeting will be the last meeting prior to definite action on expansion proposals. He said that if the purchase of the property is consummated, no immediate action is anticipated for tearing down the structure.

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

"And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem . . . To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child."

They passed knarled olive trees, heard the bray of donkeys and the whirr-r-r of bird wings, as they ascended the rocky slopes, seeded with wild flowers that would beautify the hillsides, as the Love of the Son would beautify the hearts of men.

Trinity Church Dedication Rite Slated Thursday

Dedication services will be held at Trinity Methodist Church, Wurts and Hunter Streets, Thursday 7:30 p. m. for the new narthex.

The narthex was given in memory of Mrs. Alva Staples who was a member of Trinity church for over 70 years. It consists of three rooms in the rear of the sanctuary, a stairway leading to the church school facilities on the first floor. The rooms are finished in oak paneling to match the interior of the sanctuary. Plate glass portions permit viewing of the stained glass windows considered by many to be the most beautiful in the Hudson Valley.

The contractor was the firm of J. H. Schenck and Son of Kingston. Building committee was John Short, chairman; Mrs. Addison Paruse, George Lowe, Mrs. George Long and Charles Shultz. The construction is the first in the historic downtown church in this century.

Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke of the New York Area of the Methodist Church will officiate at the dedication with the Rev. George P. Werner, superintendent of the Kingston District, participating. All area clergy and congregations may attend.

Return to Christ In Christmas Is Seen This Season

NEW YORK (AP)—"It is my prediction that there will be more Christmas music in the churches, on the radio and on TV this Christmas than ever before," says Dr. Jesse M. Bader, general secretary of the World Convention of Churches of Christ (Disciples).

"Why? Because our world needs the Christ of Christmas now more than ever. Today America is called upon to make him central and not marginal."

Dr. Bader predicted further: "There will be more window displays with Christmas scenes and more carol singing in communities across our land. There will be a much greater exchange of appropriate religious Christmas cards."

On the latter point, the Greeting Card Association already is able to say that Dr. Bader is correct. This year three billion Christmas cards will go through the mail, the association says, and approximately 30 per cent will be religious in design and message. Ten years ago about 10 per cent were religious in theme. The increase has been steady throughout the decade.

The Madonna and Child is the most popular design for the religious cards, as it was last year and has been since 1949. This year Madonnas are depicted on 16.2 per cent of the religious cards. Man-gre scenes, which ranked second in 1960, are a somewhat closer second this year—15.5 per cent.

Pope John Makes Powerful Plea for Christian Unity

By FRANK BRUTTO
VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII today made the most powerful plea of his reign for Christian unity in the modern world.

The Pope made his appeal in issuing an encyclical on Pope Leo I, the great fifth century pontiff. Appealing for the unity of all Christians, Pope John expressed the hope that, the day bringing "the dawn of universal reconciliation" would come soon.

Leo, who became a saint of the Roman Catholic Church, stood up to Attila the Hun, dissuading him from attacking Rome.

But the great pontiff was especially noted for his fight for church unity at a time when the church faced heresy both in the East and the West, and the declining power of the Roman Empire faced the assaults of barbarian hordes.

Vatican sources said that the pontiff obviously intended his encyclical on Leo as a call to the world's Christian forces to band together against the threat of atheistic communism today.

The encyclical, from its opening words in Latin, is named "Aeterna Dei Sapientia" — the eternal wisdom of God.

Its issuance in advance of the Roman Catholic Church's first ecumenical council in nearly 100 years emphasized Pope John's deep concern with Christian unity, a subject upon which he has frequently touched in the three years of his reign.

The Pope is expected to announce the opening date of the council soon, possibly in his Christmas message to the world.

Three Local Youths Enlist in U. S. Navy

Three young men from Ulster County enlisted in the Regular Navy on December 6.

They are: Thomas J. Barberich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Barberich of Rifton; Charles Galvin, son of Mrs. Anne Galvin of Kingston, and Ronald Dewyea, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard W. Dewyea Sr., of Gardiner.

They were immediately transferred to the U. S. Naval Training Center at Great Lakes, Ill., where they will spend 10 weeks in recruit training. Upon completion of this training they will be granted 14 days recruit leave to return home and visit their parents.

Barberich and Galvin attended Kingston High School, while Dewyea attended New Paltz Central School. They all enlisted as seaman recruits at the U. S. Navy Recruiting Station, Post Office Building, Kingston.

Pedestrian Hurt In Auto Mishap

A 38-year-old Kingston man was injured at 7 p. m. Friday when hit by an automobile as he was walking across Broadway at Garden Street.

A report of Patrolman Vincent Eckert said James Castle, of 600 McEntee Street, was treated by a physician for bruises of the right knee.

Supervisors Are To Meet Tuesday

A special meeting of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors will be held Tuesday at 8 p. m. at which time a date will be set for the public hearing on the proposed 1962 budget.

A regular meeting of the board will be held Thursday, Dec. 14, at which time in accordance with a prior resolution, trustees for the Community College will be named.

Saugerties Vols Alerted

All three Saugerties volunteer fire fighting units were alerted at 4:30 p. m. Friday and responded to a fire in the cellar of a residence at 64 Ulster Avenue owned by Donald Whitaker of Woodstock. Fire officials said the cause of the alarm was a paint bucket which had caught fire. No damage was reported.

on Dec. 21. The council will be primarily devoted to internal affairs of the Roman Catholic Church, but Pope John himself has indicated his hopes that it would be a step toward union of all Christians. It is expected to start in about a year.

Pope John's encyclical made it clear that the Roman Catholic Church still looks upon Christian unity as the eventual coming together of all Christians, and also others, into one church, under the authority of the Roman Pope.

Pope John said that he saw "good reason for hope" in efforts being made towards Christian unity in many quarters.

Expressed by Others

"The coming together in friendship of those who are children of the same Heavenly Father and coheirs of the same glorious kingdom will be the sign announcing the triumph of the Mystical Body of Christ," said the Pope.

This was a thought expressed also by Protestant leaders who have had unprecedented meetings with Pope John. The most recent was Bishop Arthur Lienhard, head of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States.

Following his meeting with Pope John on Nov. 15, the American bishop said that he hoped such talks would lead to greater Christian understanding.

"But the road to Christian unity," he added, "is sure to be a very long process."

Pope John's encyclical was also a fighting call to the church to face its modern problems. It recalled that Pope Leo, who reigned from 440 until 461, had later conferred upon him by Pope Benedict XIV the title of "Doctor of the Church."

Lefkowitz Avers Forest Protected, Bill Unnecessary

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The sponsor of the controversial proposal to restrict or ban motorized traffic in sections of the Forest Preserve says he has abandoned the plan as no longer necessary.

R. Watson Pomeroy, R-Dutchess, said Friday an opinion by State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz had established that the power to regulate traffic within the Adirondack and Catskill preserves rests with the conservation commissioner.

"This makes it unnecessary," Pomeroy said, "to pursue the same objective by means of legislation which has been under consideration."

Public hearings scheduled in Buffalo and Rochester, New York City and Albany have been cancelled, Pomeroy said.

Previous hearings have "left no doubt as to the strong support for protection of the wilderness character of the Forest Preserve."

Pomeroy said his committee would continue its interest in the preserve, which comprises 2.5 million acres. About 2.1 million acres of the preserve are in the Adirondacks and the remainder in the Catskills.

Pomeroy proposed originally that motor vehicles, motor boats and aircraft be restricted or barred from nearly 1 million acres, which he asked be designated as wilderness areas.

An alternate proposal outlined regulation by the conservation commissioner of traffic anywhere in the preserve.

Lefkowitz told Commissioner Harold Wilm Friday that "it lies within your power to make such rules as you deem reasonably necessary to carry out the protection accorded the Forest Preserve."

Arsenal Slates Speakers

Paul M. Netzer, technical advisor to the chief of the Watervliet Arsenal Research & Engineering Division, and Perry Serafin, P.E., ballistics analyst in the same unit, will be the speakers at the monthly meeting of the Arsenal Society of Engineers at 8 p. m. Wednesday in the Arsenal recreation hall. The speakers' topic, "Becoming A Professional Engineer — How the Government Can Help You," will include a discussion of a proposed plan designed to encourage Arsenal engineers to obtain a professional engineer's license, and the value of possessing such a license in federal service. A question and answer period will follow the discussion.

Methodists Will Have Stewardship Program in Area

Representatives from Methodist churches in the Kingston District met in the St. James Methodist Church this week, for a Stewardship-of-all-of Life workshop.

Leading the presentation and discussion were Gordon Danielson, attorney and member of the General Board of Lay Activities, and the Rev. Alex Porteus, executive secretary of the boards of education and missions of the New York Conference of the Methodist Church.

Stewardship was defined as an out-going expression of life related to the use of one's time and abilities. During the month of January, each Thursday 7:30 p. m. in the St. James Methodist Church, the Rev. C. Pershing Hunter will teach the Sunday school teachers and members of the education commission and stewardship and finance commission, of the churches in the Kingston subdistrict, how to make stewardship a way of life.

It was announced by the District Superintendent, the Rev. George P. Werner, that in the month of February ministers of the Kingston District would be preaching sermons on the theme of Stewardship of All of Life, and at the same time the stewardship emphasis would be brought into the Sunday school class rooms and youth groups.

Following the cottage meetings Feb. 28, when the church members meet in the homes to study the meaning of Christian Stewardship, March 4 will be observed as Affirmation Sunday, a day when personal commitment folders will be brought to the church for dedication. The conclusion was drawn from the training session this week, that Christian stewardship involves the whole of life and must be related to one's advantages, abilities, time and talents.

OTHER CHALLENGES

A new American (or is it un-American?) psychosis is manifesting itself. Too many of us view nuclear world destruction as being ultimately inevitable.

Such destruction could come, of course. But if we let ourselves become obsessed with such a notion it would blind us to other challenges facing us, challenges not to our survival but to global survival of our heritage, democracy.

One of those challenges is the deterioration of our image before the down-trodden of the world. What a recent Yankee tourist heard in Mexico is indicative. He was talking to a group of migrant workers home from our last season's harvest fields. "You Yankees," one of them told him, "are just like our Mexicans. You have been ricos and mucho pobres. The ricos live like kings. The pobres starve."

We know that this is an exaggeration, that ours is in general a land where even those who are not rich have enough. The trouble is that others do not know this, partly because the Communists have given them a false picture.

Our only real yearning is for peace. We don't see why everyone else doesn't want peace above all else. Yet if the world's starving do not, perhaps it is because they have reached the point where there is something that shines brighter for them than peace. That something is an end to the extremes of abject poverty and great wealth.

The Reds have convinced many of them that communism abolishes both. Even as they breathe the air polluted by Khrushchev's 50-megaton horror they cling to that misguided belief. That is the fantasy we have to combat. We must win the misguided back. Our tools for doing that are truth, and proof that under our system men can be both free and prosperous.

THE CORRECT ANSWER.

One of the great staples of Soviet argument is that Russia, having been widely devastated by the Nazis in World War II, lives today in mortal fear of a revived, vengeful Germany.

This argument has been effective propaganda in Europe, where it touches both the fears and the hates of those peoples who remember well their sufferings at Nazi hands. More than a few thoughtful Americans have accepted this Soviet contention as an honest one.

President Kennedy clearly is not among them. With directness and force, he laid bare the fraudulent base of these Soviet "fears" in the interview he granted to Aleksei Adzhubei, editor of the Soviet newspaper Izvestia.

The Russian asked the President to imagine he were a Soviet naval veteran who, having "won the war," now saw defeated Germany refusing to recognize boundaries fixed after the war, building up its armed forces, sending its chancellor to have "secret talks" with Kennedy.

"What would your attitude be?" he asked.

Answering him, Kennedy declared that: The West Germany the Soviets profess to fear has just nine army divisions, a very small air force, almost no navy, no nuclear weapons or missiles in an age when they are the key to striking power.

The Germany divisions are under NATO's command, not that of the Bonn government. An American officer, not the German generals Russia talks about, is the NATO commander.

In West Germany it requires the units of the 15-member NATO organization together to balance roughly the purely Soviet divisions in East Germany.

The President four separate times said flatly that a West Germany thus equipped and controlled is "not a military threat" to Russia. Though he did not explicitly add it, he implied that the Germans likewise are no military menace to anybody else, including the Scandinavian lands Premier Khrushchev claims are endangered by German "militarism."

'These Days'

SOCIALIZED MEDICINE

At every convention of the American Medical Association, the question of socialized medicine arises, the doctors protesting that Congress is trying to pass legislation which will enslave the medical profession. President Leonard W. Larson of the American Medical Association on November 27 said:

"We are for a free profession, not an enslaved one. We are for the preservation of our constitutional republic; we are opposed to a welfare state. We are for the right of our citizens to spend their own dollars in their own way, not for Washington authorities to spend their money for them. Our philosophy is wholly positive."

The opposition is to the King-Anderson Bill which Dr. Larson describes as follows: "The proponents of King-Anderson type legislation have cleverly promoted the false idea that earmarked payroll and employer taxes would be voluntary prepayments against the cost of health care benefits received subsequently in retirement. The fact is that the King Bill levies a compulsory tax on young workers and their employers to pay for a federal program of health benefits for older people, millions of whom are self-reliant and solvent. The King-Anderson program does not provide insurance or prepayment of any type, but compels one segment of our population to underwrite a socialized program of health care for another, regardless of need."

Whereas socialized medicine, in any form, deprives the medical profession of a free wage for its services, it must be admitted that a sharp public opinion is expressing itself against disorderly and unethical conduct in this profession, whether such conduct is widespread or is limited to a few scoundrels.

The entire question of medical charges requires study by the medical profession and by Congress. For instance, it is very difficult to decide whether an operation is necessary or is a fraud to produce a large fee. The responsibility is with hospitals to a degree. That is, a decent, well-managed hospital will not tolerate improper practices.

This raises another question: the hospitals have limited beds and cannot accept all doctors who would care to serve. What is to become of the so-called unaffiliated doctor? The public does not quite understand this question but it is very important to a physician or a surgeon.

A young man gets out of a medical school and his immediate problem is to become an interne and in time a resident. This means that he cannot earn a living for a period but does have an apprentice's wage. The next step is to be admitted to the staff of an outstanding hospital. This has its numerical limitations and the young doctor who is unable to get on the staff of a hospital is "unaffiliated." If he gets a patient, he has to find an "affiliated" doctor, who may be a specialist, who will get his patient into a properly managed hospital or if he is in a large city he might make connections with a privately-owned hospital which may or may not be properly managed institution. Some of the private hospitals are unfit for any purpose except perhaps as a nursing home. There ought to be some way of formally and legally designating the unsuitable hospitals.

The layman has no way of knowing. He wants to go into a hospital. He finds that every hospital is overcrowded and that he must accept a bed in a ward. He declines to accept a bed in a ward. His doctor sends him to a private hospital which may be owned by doctors or by real estate brokers. The private hospital may have a proper or an unsuitable discipline. The patient will not know it, but his doctor, physician or surgeon, has limited contacts with other physicians and surgeons and that the specialist will not come at the doctor's call. Some doctors will only work in their own hospital which will not accept the particular patient.

In a word, the subject grows increasingly complicated. The patient is fortunate who has an affiliated doctor who is able to get him into a disciplined hospital where unnecessary operations would lead to trouble, where split fees would not be tolerated (although I am not opposed to split fees if the patient is told about it). The general practitioner ought to receive a decent share of any case in which he does a very large part of the work. (Copyright 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The Mature Parent

Parents' Pride Can Sap Confidence of Children

MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:
Our 10-year-old girl is a very talented pianist and recently was asked to perform on our local radio station. The day before the performance she had such a severe stomach upset that we had to cancel it. I am worried that this stage fright could ruin her musical career. Though she's had ups and downs previously before playing in recitals and school entertainments, she has always been able to appear.

ANSWER: It is a very young talent to be used for others' entertainment.
I don't wonder that your daughter gets upset before public performances. Just as a child will lose interest in a doll house whose furniture we are arranging for her, a child will lose interest in his musical talent if he is asked to share it with others too soon.

The original interest he took in producing delightful sounds for himself changes as he's required to produce them for others, turning from joy in himself into obligation to consider us and our pleasure.

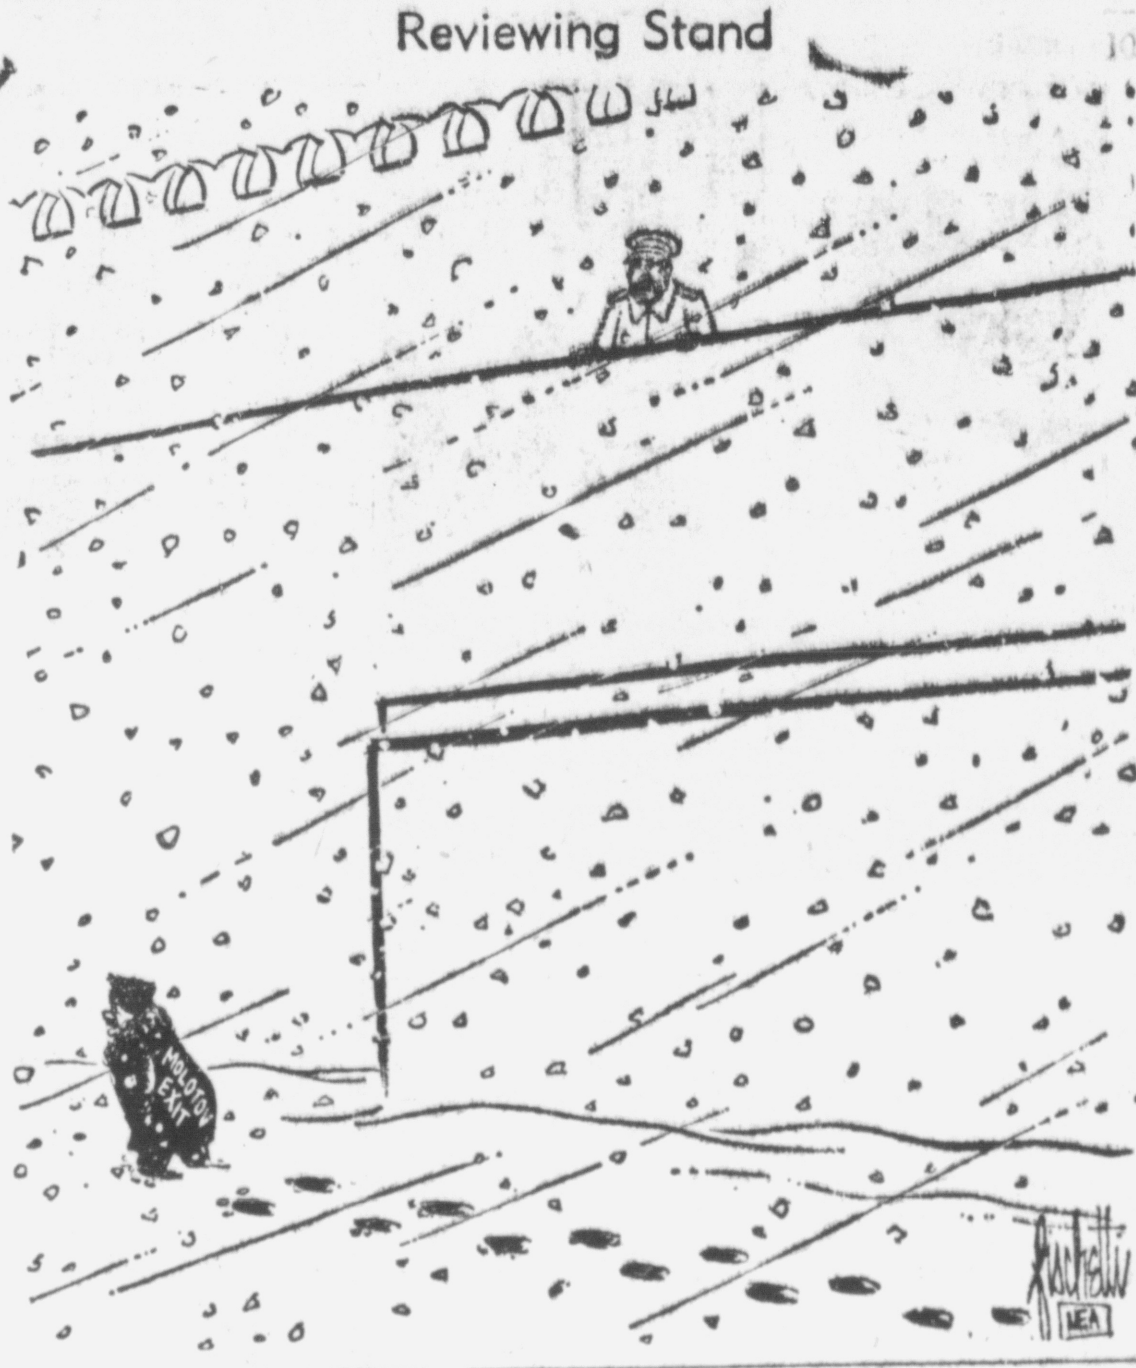

That's when confusion begins. Fear of disappointing us, of failing to impress his audience begins to haunt him. At this point, our young musician can start resenting his talent and will express his resistance to the obligation to please us in stomach upsets and other symptoms of "stage fright" that make it impossible for us to demand what he doesn't want to give.

Your daughter's joy in her own gift needs time to grow sure and solid before she is asked to share it with public audiences. It is, in my opinion, a perilous business to make a big fuss over any child's achievement, whether it's a school "A" or a tasty salad dressing or a well-played musical composition.

What blinds us to the danger is the child's apparent craving for our approval. We think he is seeking our flattery when the fact is, he is seeking support for his own still uncertain confidence in his achievement.

That is why, if our flattery becomes too enthusiastic, he will suddenly start looking anxious and upset. Instead of receiving support for his wobbly self-confidence, he senses that we are committing him to bigger and better achievements. He knows that we have forgotten him to revel in our own pride. Then like the youngster who walks away from the doll house we've taken over, he loses interest in his accomplishment. His feeling is "O.K. You play with my achievement. I don't want it any more."

There is a careful line to be drawn between appreciating a child's success and using it for our own gratification. (All rights reserved, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Washington News

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — One of the biggest Washington bureaucratic power grabs ever proposed has just come to light through publication of an article by a mysterious "Mister Z" in the not-too-widely-circulated "Natural Resources Review," just issued by the University of New Mexico School of Law in Albuquerque.

WHAT IS PROPOSED is that all water and natural resources of the federal government except the Tennessee Valley Authority be merged into the Department of Interior to create a new "Department of Natural Resources."

This colossal amalgamation would take in 18 separate agencies which now have annual budgets totaling over $3 billion. It would include the 11 agencies now in Interior, Army Corps of Engineers, Agriculture, Forest Service, Soil Conservation Service, Agricultural Conservation Program, and Rural Electrification Administration with the water supply and stream pollution control programs of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

IDENTITY OF THE "MISTER Z" who makes this proposal is not being revealed by Jack L. Kroner, editor of the Review. But the 3,000-word text, published under the title "The Case for a Department of Natural Resources," presents such detailed knowledge of government activities in this field that immediate suspicions of an inside job have been raised.

Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall has shied away from any suggestion of merger, according to his new public relations man, James N. Faber.

The Secretary is presented as being happy in his co-operative efforts with Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman on water conservation.

But lesser officials in the department have known about this "Mister Z" article for some days. And Interior's Bureau of Reclamation got into a row with Army Corps of Engineers during the last session of Congress over allocation of funds for development of Alaska's water resources. This is the classic big rivalry among water agencies, but there are others.

EXCERPTS FROM THE "MISTER Z" article give the main argument in a fight that has been a Washington disgrace for years.

"United States public policy towards natural resources is developed and administered by a complex, confusing and conflicting array of agencies, offices and departments. Competition among agencies to 'get business' contributes to inefficient water resource development and waste of public funds. Water resource development (therefore) takes place as a result of 'log rolling' and 'pork barrel' politics."

"The division of water agencies among the four departments of Agriculture, Defense, Interior and Health, Education and Welfare has reached proportions of a national crisis."

"Some order must be made out of the present chaos of resource policy. A centralized responsibility under a department of natural resources is a necessity."

"Because of the present concentration of resources activity in the Department of Interior, the easiest way to obtain a department of natural resources would be to transfer other resource agencies to Interior."

"THE MOST ADAMANT group blocking the way to reorganization is the National Rivers and Harbors Commission."

Regrettably, Mr. Ed was not present when I called at General Service Studio for an account of his success story.

But though he was not on call, Ed's presence was felt. His co-star, Alan Young, was playing a scene in which Ed was suspected of eating the neighbor's (Larry Keating, who used to live next door to Burns and Allen) apples and goldfish. This is the sort of plot that carries Mr. Ed along.

How does Young feel about sharing the billing with a horse? "I'm delighted," said the Canadian comic. "This is a show that the kids can enjoy, and I've found out how much control kids exercise over the TV set, my own included. But once we get the adults hooked on watching, they're just as faithful as the kids."

"I hope the series goes on and on," said Young.

It may, at least CBS, which rescued it from a half-year in syndication, is mighty pleased by the Sunday-at-6:30 rating, reported to be the highest for that time slot over.

Congress. (It is backed by the water development contractors who strongly support certain congressional relations of the Army engineers. The present crisis in foreign affairs provides a further reason for taking civil water programs from the Department of Defense.

"The reorganization would centralize all responsibility for development and management of natural resource programs (except TVA) in a Secretary of Natural Resources."

"Resources activities would be divided into six groups, each supervised by an assistant secretary. This grouping would be basically along resource lines: minerals, electric power, water, parks and wildlife, (public) lands and Indian affairs."

"An organization such as this one would not automatically solve all natural resource policy problems. It would, nevertheless, simplify authority and focus responsibility. The first and most vital step is to organize a Department of Natural Resources."

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The miracle about "Mr. Ed" is not so much that the horse can talk, but that the show can go from syndication to network success.

Television historians are unable to find another example of such an achievement. It is one of the unwritten laws of TV that shows go from network to syndication, never vice versa.

Syndication—selling programs to individual stations at different time slots, rather than in chunks of network time—has spawned such successes as "Highway Patrol," "Sea Hunt," and "Liberace." Now a talking horse has shown the syndicators that they can also make the big network time, if they so desire.

Regrettably, Mr. Ed was not present when I called at General Service Studio for an account of his success story.

Architecture Influences

HONOLULU (AP)—Architecture is playing a leading role in Japan's social progress, from "feudalism to industrialization," an American architect believes. Antonin Raymond, who first went to Japan in 1919 to assist the late Frank Lloyd Wright in designing Tokyo's Imperial Hotel, told a conference of architects in Honolulu: "Structures in Japan are huge today. The architects who design these buildings seem to be carried away by a vision of permanence, solidity, power and enormity of scale as an end in itself. They have opened the door for a number of social changes in Japan and have helped bring the country into the industrial age." Raymond has designed a number of buildings in Tokyo, including the U. S. Embassy, St. Luke's Hospital, Women's Christian College, St. Anselm's Church and Gunman Music Hall.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

I stopped in for only a few minutes to visit Charlotte McGraw's Artercraft Gallery, Broadway, to see a Shaker exhibit. Ann Lee, the founder of the Shaker Society was born Feb. 1736 in Manchester, England. Aug. 6, 1774, she arrived with some of her followers in New York, from Liverpool, after a stormy 11-week passage. They bought a tract of land in what they then thought was a "wilderness" September, 1776, which is now Watervliet, N. Y. section. Much happened since then as we all know.

It took much for many people to come to this country over a strange ocean and start from nothing. Ann Lee had a hectic career and was even in jail in Poughkeepsie. She was released after some five months through the aid of Gov. George Clinton. They were then fighting for their rights. And it seemed this imprisonment served to publicize the Shaker movement. I do not know much about the Shaker movement, but I take it they traveled up and down from Albany to New York and perhaps at times stopped here. In 1784 when Ann Lee died, they had 11 going communities.

Ann Lee at the age of 22 first joined the Quakers so perhaps she was inspired by them, to form this industrious group, whose craft is being shown at Miss McGraw's gallery. One of their ideals seems to be perfection. "Whether it was a chair, a case of medicinal herbs, or a basket of apples, no product could be sold unless it met a scrupulous standard of excellence."

If you can imagine a group of people, of intelligence, craftsmanship, and using their best efforts at all times, trying to produce perfection way back in the 1700's. No doubt they aided in the growth of this new country. By 1794 they had good crops of wheat, oats, rye, barley, corn, flax and potatoes. Their livestock included oxen, cows, sheep, horses and pigs. Apple orchards were planted as well as other fruit trees. They had seed gardens, distinct from kitchen gardens, and it became the basis for one of their most lucrative industry. By the turn of the century, they began to cultivate important herbs for the pharmaceutical trade.

From their inventive talents they made from nothing something in this then wild country. They made brooms and brushes from corn. They built tanneries, grist and saw mills. They combined their mechanical skills and invented many labor-saving devices, such as the turbine water wheel and screw propeller, with perfection, always their keynote.

They believed everyone must work, but no one overwork, and they believe in a peaceful tempo, turning helping each other. The exhibit at the gallery on Broadway shows many pen, ink, and water color sketches, made by it is said, WPA artists, copying with great care, in colors, Shaker craftsmanship. These fine original sketches of rugs, hats, chairs, other furniture, down to the finest detail, shows the skill of the artists as well as the Shaker crafts.

I am now very much interested in what the WPA artists who did those sketches have achieved in the art field. They must be illustrators, engravers and such for they too were perfectionists in their own field. Miss McGraw should be congratulated in bringing this exhibit from the National Gallery of Washington, D. C.

Bloomington Vols List Square Dance, Other Activities

Final plans were announced by Bloomington Fire Co., Inc. for the third in a series of round and square dances to be held tonight at the firehouse in Bloomington starting at 9 p. m. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Music and calls will be provided by Floyd Barringer and his band and festivities will continue through 1 a. m. Refreshments will be available.

Charles Peterson heads the committee, aided by Herbert Faure, Joseph Hafner, Leslie Evers and John Markle. Howard Slover of the Bloomington fire house will be in charge of traffic.

These monthly dances are co-sponsored by Bloomington and Active Hose Co. of Rosendale and alternate between the Bloomington and Rosendale districts. Next month's dance has already been set by Rosendale and it will be held Saturday evening, Jan. 27 at the Grange Hall, Main Street in the village. All proceeds from tonight's Bloomington dance will be placed in the new equipment fund of the organization.

President Fred Sauer has issued a reminder to all the children of Bloomington Fire District not to forget their Christmas party next Saturday at the firehouse. Festivities are scheduled to begin at 2 p. m. with an hour of comedy movies to be followed by games and prizes.

The afternoon's proceedings will culminate in a visit by Santa Claus who will arrive by fire truck with gifts for all the children.

These annual parties are sponsored by the firemen, the fire company and the ladies' auxiliary to show their appreciation to the people of the district. Admission is free. The Bloomington Fire District comprises Bloomington, Eddyville, Maple Hill, Whiteport, Creek Locks, DeWitt-Mills Road to the Hurley line and Route 32 North to the City line.

SALINA, Kan. (AP)—Thirty-seven years ago Mrs. O. A. Grinage found a recipe for a "never fail" chocolate cake in the Salina Journal. In 1942 her daughter, now Mrs. Earl Madison Jr., of Salina, won a school baking contest with it. Now her granddaughter, Susan Madison, has won a blue ribbon for a cake from the same recipe in the Tri-Rivers Fair.

Prize Money Can Bring Early-Retirement Income

Q) "I'm one of the lucky few who have won in the Irish Sweepstakes. My friends and relations have been giving me all kinds of advice, but I'd like your ideas on how I should invest my $45,000 prize. I am 34 years old, married, and have two little girls. We rent a house. With the money invested in stocks, maybe I could retire at 50. Would this be wishful thinking?"

C. H. A) Not at all. You have sixteen years left before a possible early retirement. In this space of time, some well chosen stocks could build up, say, $25,000 of your prize money to a very sizeable sum. I am using $25,000 deliberately because I don't think you should put the entire amount in stocks. You must think about the taxes on your prize and I suggest you ask a reputable tax consultant for advice on this matter.

Next, you'd probably like to have your own home. I think using a few thousands for a down payment on a nice house would be money very well invested. If you haven't yet established a backlog for emergencies, I suggest that you put in a savings institution the equivalent of at least a half-year's wages for rainy-day use.

With these needs taken care of, we can confidently talk about stocks. My advice is that you begin with five top-quality growth issues such as Gillette, Sears, Roebuck, Procter & Gamble, American Electric Power, and American Tobacco (all NYSE). These issues, over a period of years, should turn your prize money into a fine cushion for retirement.

Q) "What do you think of Vendo as a safe growth investment?"

S. K. A) Vendo's earnings have fallen heavily this year and the shares are now selling nearly 40 per cent below their 1961 highs. I think it's going to take quite a while for Vendo to regain its former market standing. At this juncture, I regard the shares as pretty speculative. There's growth here, but it's highly priced in relation to earnings prospects immediately ahead.

Fallout Shelters Meeting Monday

Arrangements for the informative meeting on Fallout Shelters for schools, which will be held at Ontario Central School Monday, December 11 at 8 p. m., have been completed. A large attendance of parents and taxpayers from the Ontario Central School District is expected. Officials of other school districts wishing to hear the Civil Defense Commission speakers will be welcomed at the meeting.

Speakers assigned by the New York State Civil Defense Commission are Florence Louth, chairman women's activities; Fred Strabbert, area representative for Ulster County, and John Sayers, shelters architect for schools. Civil defense locally will be represented by Major Edgar Timmerman and Deputy Charles Arnold.

Responsible authorities in the State Civil Defense Commission continually accent the fact that any shelter program must have local voter approval before it can be begun. There is no compromise in the bill passed by the Legislature which appropriated $107 million for aid to schools in the building of shelters.

Interest locally in the school shelters subject has been heightened in recent days by announced federal plans to create other community shelters in all states. At the last session of the Congress $207 million was voted for the necessary survey and study of the national need. Survey teams are now starting the search for buildings suitable for adaptation and properly located.

The federal plan may include the use of school shelters, by the general public, in the event of nuclear attack during school hours.

Monday's meeting will develop State Civil Defense Commission shelter information pertinent to the Ontario Central District Schools, using the Central School as an example, and recognizing that each of the several schools is an individual problem for particular solution.

No decisions will be attempted at this meeting and the subject will not be debated. There will be a question and answer period at the conclusion of the speakers presentations.

Hobbyist Gives Tender Care To Her Violets

AP Newsfeatures

A gift African violet given to Mrs. H. Price Stephenson of Angolo, N. Y., 25 years ago started a hobby that has grown to 600 plants of 100 varieties. Mrs. Stephenson's enthusiasm included addition of extra windows in two upstairs rooms of her home to provide light for the plants.

Mrs. Stephenson keeps several young plants under fluorescent lights until they reach the size at which she would like them to blossom. Then she puts them in sunlight.

Twice a week, Mrs. Stephenson waters the plants. Four times a year she sterilizes the plant shelves and window sills with insecticides. She uses sterilized soil (she steams it) when replanting violets.

Her choice violet is a white one.

To point up her precautions, Mrs. Stephenson relates that in 1956, some African violets she bought while touring Ohio were diseased and affected about 100 of her plants. "I had to throw them out and bathe the others in 110-degree water to save them," she related.

Determines Valance

When cutting wood for a valance, remember that the size should be governed by the shape of the window and the weight of the material. A short wide window needs a narrow valance; a tall, deeper and wider valance. Use lightweight wood or plywood to avoid undue strain on the window frame or wall where the cornice is hung.

Allow for Waste

Are you allowing at least 6 per cent for waste when ordering wood for construction work? It's a good idea to do so, advise power tool experts. A power saw "kerf"—the width of its cut—is 3-16 inch. The more cutting you do, the more 3-16 inch waste results. The 6 per cent also covers waste ends and scrap and allows for some of your work habits in doing the job.

Veterans' Rights, Benefits Listed

Civil Service — Applications will be accepted up to Jan. 2, 1962 under New York State Civil Service for the position of Bank Examiner Aide I and for Case Worker and Junior Case Worker with various welfare departments. The competitive examination date for these titles is Feb. 3, 1962. The Case Worker title offers opportunities for college seniors and college graduates. There are 200 openings involved.

Education — Dependency and indemnity compensation may not be paid on the basis that a child is attending school if benefits are being paid to or for a child under the War Orphans Educational Assistance Act of 1956. In short, these two benefits may not be paid at the same time to a child on the basis of school attendance. A choice may be made, however, as to which of the two benefits a child will receive, for in some instances it may be to the advantage of a child who wins a New York State Regents College Scholarship to accept the DIC benefit. The amount of the NYS Regents College Scholarship plus the DIC benefit may be greater than the benefits paid under the War Orphans Educational Assistance Act. Under the current law, a NYS Regents College Scholarship may not be paid to a child receiving benefits under the War Orphans Educational Assistance Act.

New Laws — Two amendments to the NYS Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act were enacted during the recent special session of the NYS Legislature. One raises the amount of rental to $125 per month before dependents of servicemen are to be evicted. The former monthly rate was $80. Now the law reads that dependents are not to be evicted from their dwelling if rental is $125 per month or less except upon leave of court. The Legislature also raised to $10,000 the face value amount of life insurance to be protected against lapse or forfeiture of the insured who entered military or naval service. Formerly the maximum protection was $5,000. Now the law provides that servicemen with certain types of life insurance which are in effect at the time they entered active military or naval service are protected up to a face value of $10,000 against lapse or forfeiture for non-payment of premiums during the period of such service or within a year after the end of such service. Incidentally, the New York State Division of Veterans' Affairs has published a brochure entitled "New York State Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act," which contains in summary form the rights of servicemen under this law and which may be obtained free of charge from any NYS Division of Veterans' Affairs counseling office or Veterans' Service Agency.

Questions about the rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen or their dependents may be submitted for individual attention to Charles Culver, NYS Veteran Counselor, NYS Division of Veterans Affairs, or John B. Tyler, director, Ulster County Veterans' Service Agency at 32 Main Street, Kingston, N. Y. with branch offices in Saugerties, Highland, Ellenville and Kerhonkson.

Why not decorate an outdoor creche this Christmas? Most people shy away from lighting a manger outdoors because it seems like a big production. But it needn't be.

Old lumber or a large wooden crate may be utilized for building the creche, depending on how much time is available for the project. If the crate is used, remove one of the long panels and use it to create a shed-type roof. The standard lean-to design one would use for a tool shed is the easiest and makes a good looking homemade creche.

The creche may be any size. One that was four feet high, five feet wide and three feet deep seemed ideal when observed last Christmas. But smaller ones will be just as effective.

The hand-carved figures that one normally associates with the creche aren't necessary to the over-all effect. A small doll can serve as the Christ child, and he can be placed in a straw-filled or pine-filled doll's cradle or an orange crate.

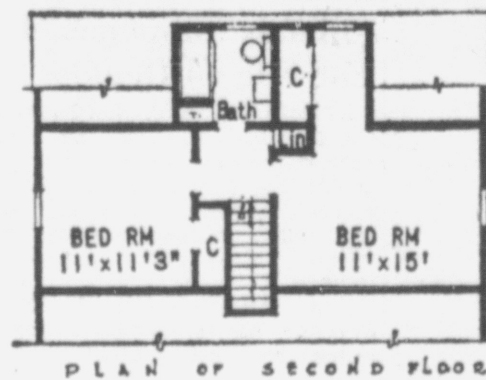

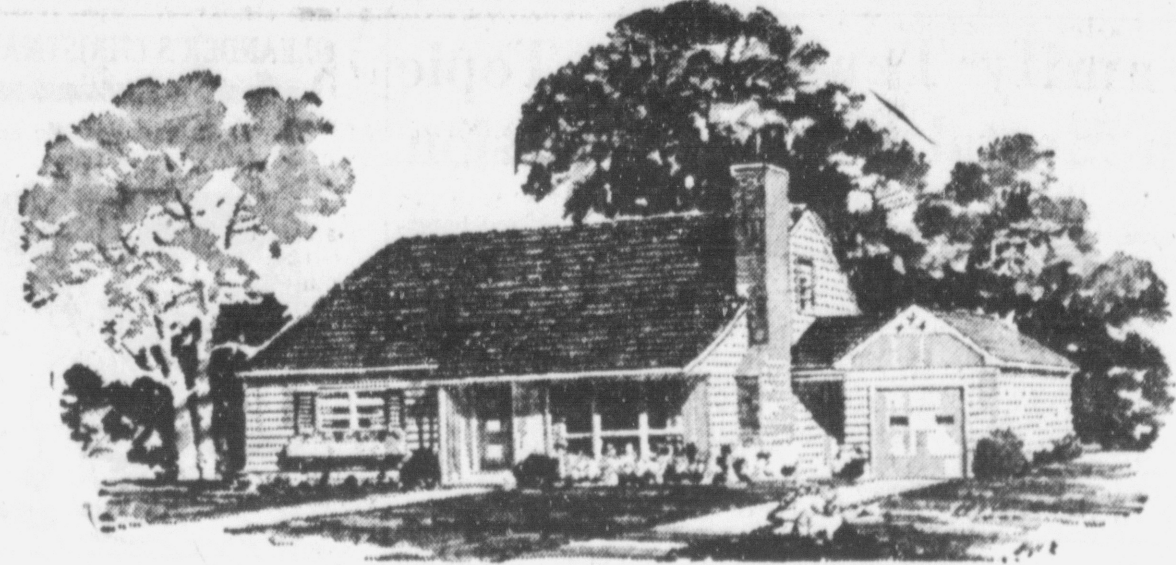

The outside of the crate may be decorated with hay, pine boughs or leaves to hide its identity.

A small star may be set on the shed's roof top.

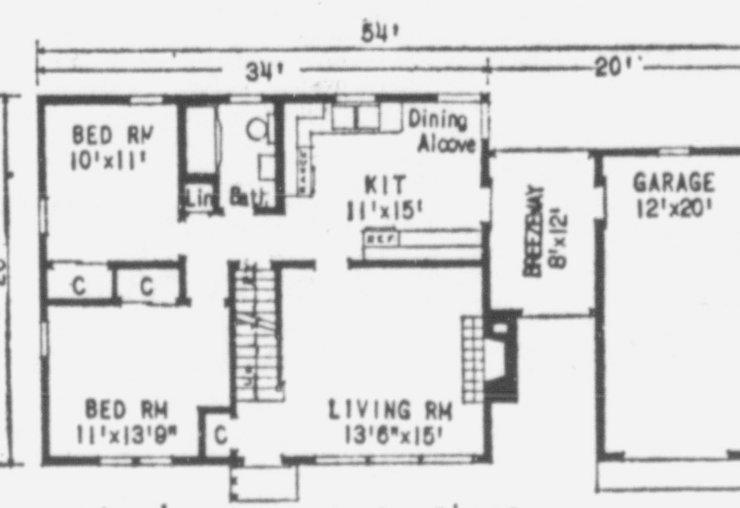

Cut the traditional star shape out of pine, paint it and tack lighting lights to it with large staples before placing it atop the shed.

Even though you will need no more than the doll and the crib for your manger, additions may be made to it by rummaging through attic and cellar for ceramic or metal figurines of birds, cats, dogs or other animals.

If you can't achieve electric lighting effects in the area where you will put the creche, plumb-er's candles can give you good, lasting light. Put a small bracket on the back wall of the lean-to. Nail a candle holder to it. Tack a reflector to the wall behind where the candle will be placed. Aluminum foil (which will not burn) can serve as a reflector.

PLAN OF SECOND FLOOR

PLAN OF FIRST FLOOR

Handsome, Modern Home Has 4 Bedrooms, 2 Baths

By JACK McLENEY

If you're one of the many persons who wants a modern home — nothing extreme — I think you'll take to the new Associated Architects house plan, "The Follett."

It draws its basic appeal from the tried-and-true Cape Cod design, which has been brought up to date with such features as a roof overhang to shade the living room; a picture window; breezeway, and garage.

Inside, the layout is completely modern, too, and incidentally, economical. For example, you enter through the living room, rather than through an expensive foyer and hall, yet the much-desired coat closet is retained. The kitchen is designed to accommodate dining quarters (with a handsome corner window).

There is considerable space upstairs. Two bedrooms and a bath, as a matter of fact, can be put upstairs, as the accompanying floor plan shows. By having the upstairs and downstairs baths over one another you will save a good bit on the cost of plumbing installation. And just one point more: The house stands by itself, if you wish to build breezeway and garage at some later date. Like the greatest number of two-story houses, "The Follett," is planned with basement only.

In all, this plan calls for four bedrooms with wardrobes or oversize closets. You'll find the sliding closet doors will let you do more with the wall space in these rooms. The central location of the baths is a convenience. Both have "custom" tub enclosures for more luxurious appearance. A total of three linen closets is another of the features that have been included for easier living.

Let me give you a little list of these features: Fireplace with handsome outside chimney; an attractive open stairway leading to the second floor; a big window over the kitchen sink; basement the full size of the house; sheltered passage from garage to the house proper; and so on.

You can see the entire list in the working drawings, and convince yourself. These drawings, by the way, will also enable you to obtain firm estimates of cost of building, and they may be used during actual construction.

The plans are inexpensive, and with your order (please use the accompanying coupon) you get two extras at no added cost: A complete list of building materials needed. And—if you prefer brick veneer or concrete block to the wood siding shown in the artist's sketch—the same Living space in "The Follett" comes to 1,300 square feet, plus another 360 square feet for breezeway and garage. Cubage, including basement, is 20,000 cubic feet.

Naturally, Associated Architects have designed the house to high standards. They meet property and building requirements of the Federal Housing Administration (FHA), and electrical wiring for fire safety, follows the National Electrical Code.

Memorial

In loving memory of our beloved wife and mother, Esther Finley, who passed away 5 years ago, December 10, 1956. God knows how much we miss her. Never shall her memory fade; Loving thoughts shall ever wander To the spot where she is laid.

HUSBAND & SONMemorial

In sad and loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Bertha Peck, whom God called home Dec. 10, 1957. When a mother breathes her last farewell, The stroke means more than tongue can tell; The world seems quite another place Without the smile on mother's face. And while she lies in peaceful sleep, Her memory we shall always keep.

New Poured Roof Of State's Fallout Shelter Caves In

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A wet section of the 1½-foot thick concrete roof of the state government fallout shelter being constructed on the city's outskirts fell in Friday.

As the freshly poured section began to sag, about 20 workmen scrambled to safety.

The Public Works Department said damage did not appear to be extensive.

The two-story underground structure is to serve as an emergency seat of government in the event of an enemy attack.

U.S. to Launch Most Advanced Submarine Today

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP)—The second of America's most advanced submarines, USS Tinosa, is being launched today, bow first because of her unusual hull shape.

Because the 4,300-ton ship goes into water bow first, the sponsor, Mrs. Samuel S. Stratton of Schenectady, N.Y., will smash the traditional christening bottle of champagne across the submarine's stern.

Mrs. Stratton is the wife of U.S. Rep. Stratton, D-N.Y.

Special buoyancy tanks have been attached temporarily outside the bow for the launching. The Navy said the tanks made it possible to advance work on the ship farther than is customary in launching of an empty hull. The ship is the second of her class, and like the USS Thresher, may be considered one of the world's fastest submarines, capable of diving deeper and running quieter at high speed than any other type.

dale the son of the late Frank M. and Mina Burger Slater, he attended Rosendale and New Paltz schools and was employed at the DeLaval Separator Co., Poughkeepsie, the last 18 years. He was one time commander of the Highland American Legion post and prior to working at the DeLaval plant he was riding master at Lake Mohonk and Lake Minnewaska. He was past master of Ardona Lodge F&AM, Highland and a Republican committeeman many years. He also judged at many horse shows. He was a veteran of World War I. He is survived by his wife Lena Hacksteiner Slater; a son, First Lieut. Frank Slater, stationed at Fort Allen, Puerto Rico; a sister, Mrs. Florence DuBois, Kingston; an aunt, Annie Auchmoedy, both of Rosendale. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. from the Sutton Funeral Home, Woodside Place, Highland, with the Rev. William Woolley, officiating. Burial will be in Rosendale Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home Sunday and Monday evenings.

Mrs. Hannah F. Swarthout

Mrs. Hannah F. Swarthout of 60 Brewster Street died early today following a lengthy illness. She was born at Rosendale, a daughter of the late Edward and Bridget Duffy Carroll. She had lived in Kingston for many years. She was a member of St. Mary's Church and the Rosary Society of that church. Her husband, the late Herbert J. Swarthout Sr., died in 1948. She was the mother of Herbert J. Swarthout Jr., who died in 1959. Surviving are two grandchildren, Miss Jean Marie Swarthout and Herbert J. Swarthout, both of Kingston, and two nephews, Eugene Henches, of New York City, and Joseph Clark of Fairlawn, N. J. Funeral will be held from the Jensen & Deegan Funeral Home, 15 Downs Street, Tuesday at 9 a. m., thence to St. Mary's Church where at 9:30 a. m. a high Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of her soul. Clifford Anderson

Clifford Anderson, 80, of 15 Harrison Avenue, died today. A resident of Kingston for more than 40 years, he was born in Shandaken, son of the late Marcellus and Emma Connelly Anderson. He was widely known throughout Kingston and Ulster County, having been associated with the automobile business many years. He was employed as a salesman by the Stuyvesant Garage for 25 years. Later he became associated with his sister, the late Mrs. Daisy Merritt, as a real estate broker. He was a great lover of horses and was a well known horseman, being associated with several local horsemen's associations. For many years he participated in parades and was known for his horsemanship. He was a member of the First Baptist Church, Kingston Lodge 10, F. & A. M. Besides his wife, Elizabeth M. Anderson, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Maude E. Corregan, of this city; a grandson, Robert A. Corregan, Pittsburgh, Pa., and three great-grandchildren. Friends may call at the W. N. Cut Off Student Group's Funds; Ignored Meetings

CORTLAND, N.Y. (AP)—The operating funds of a student organization at the State University College of Education here have been cut off because its representatives did not attend meetings of the student governing body.

A $46,000 budget of the men's athletic association was suspended by the executive council of the House of Delegates after that group failed to attend four consecutive meetings.

"We'd like to be known as more than just a college piggy bank," Carol Bailey, president of the 80-member House of Delegates said Friday.

All students pay fees into a fund appropriated by the house to various campus groups. The house can drop member groups after representatives miss three meetings a semester.

Miss Bailey said, however, that the house might rescind the action because the "prestige of the college is involved."

Staff Sgt. Charles F. Schmeltz, 34, of Cotterkill, died Friday at El Centro, Calif., following a heart seizure.

He was a 15-year veteran of service with the Air Force. He was attached to U.S. Naval Missile Center at El Centro and was assigned to Edwards Air Force Base. S/Sgt. Schmeltz had served 14 months in Korean during the Korean Conflict. During World War II, he served in Okinawa and Japan. He also served in Saudi Arabia for a year.

S/Sgt. Schmeltz was an electrician's mechanic. Born in College Point, L. I. on December 30, 1927, he was a son of Frank and Rose Beck Schmeltz. His wife is the former Caroline Countryman of High Falls.

Other survivors are two sons, Charles and David; two daughters, Patricia and Barbara, all at home; two brothers, George of Van Etten, N. Y. and Richard Schmeltz of Lynn, Mass.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by George J. Moylan Funeral Home, Main Street, Rosendale.

Developing Death Ray for Space

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—A death ray weapon for use in outer space is being developed at the Martin Co., rocket plant here, a company scientist said Friday.

Dr. Carl L. Kober, advance systems director, said the weapon would be ready for testing in 1963 and would have these characteristics:

It would produce a beam hotter than 100,000 degrees Fahrenheit that would evaporate anything it was focused on.

It would use nuclear power and a principle similar to "a burning glass, through which sunlight is concentrated on an object."

It would be about the size of a large searchlight, weigh 30,000 pounds and be uneconomical for use on earth.

Its range on earth would be less than a mile, but in outer space it would reach 50 to 200 miles.

Dr. Kober foresaw its use by the Air Force "to police and govern space near the earth."

Air Force officials in Washington had no comment.

Refuses to Resign

BOSTON (AP)—Massachusetts Gov. John A. Volpe has demanded the resignation of Boston Police Commissioner Leo J. Sullivan, and received a flat refusal in reply.

The governor asked Sullivan, both orally and in writing, to quit, and both times Sullivan said no, it was disclosed Friday night.

Deaths

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—The Most Rev. Francis Patrick Kough, 70, archbishop of the oldest Roman Catholic diocese in the United States, died Friday of effects of a stroke. He was born in New Britain, Conn., ordained a priest in 1916 and named archbishop of Baltimore in 1947. He was known unofficially as "archbishop of the poor" for his charity work.

Pearson-Gravitz Wedding Is Announced; Couple Plan to Reside in New York City

MR. AND MRS. DAVID H. GRAVITZ

Miss Donna C. Pearson, of New York City, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Pearson of Stone Ridge, exchanged nuptial vows with David H. Gravitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Gravitz of New York City on Sunday, Dec. 3 at 1 p. m. in a double ring ceremony held at the Governor Clinton Hotel here in Kingston. Officiating was Judge Roscoe Elsworth of Kingston.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white satin gown and headpiece of orange blossoms to which was gathered a silk veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis.

Miss Adrian Pearson of Stone Ridge, the bride's sister, served as maid of honor in a light blue satin dress. She carried stephanotis with pink roses and pink carnations.

Patricia Pilus, the bride's niece, served as flower girl in a dress of deep pink velvet with white lace.

Best man was Walter Cohan of New York City. Robert W. Pilus Jr., the bride's nephew was the ringbearer.

UNICEF Funds Not Going to Congo Says Spokesman

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. Children's Fund reported today that contributions from its Halloween trick-or-treat drive are coming in at a rate well ahead of last year despite charges that UNICEF funds are being used for the U.N. Congo operation.

So far $1,106,000 has been received from the Halloween collections by youngsters in several thousand American communities for UNICEF's health and welfare programs. UNICEF officials said that no trick-or-treat contributions have been diverted to the Congo.

A spokesman for the U.S. Committee for UNICEF, which runs the trick-or-treat program, said the amount is 12 per cent higher than received at this time last year. He said that if the money continues coming in at this rate trick-or-treat donations for 1961 should approach $2 million, or $250,000 more than last year's total.

UNICEF officials believe the charges on diverting contributions to the Congo operation stem from misunderstandings of a loan made to the U.N. Congo operation from the U.S. Treasury out of governmental donations earmarked for UNICEF. This money has no connection with the private donations through the trick-or-treat program.

Coburn Scholarship

STRATFORD, Ont. (AP)—A Shakespearean scholarship is being set up in memory of Charles Coburn by the Festival Theater here and the Avondale Playhouse, of Indianapolis, Ind. The veteran actor died last summer shortly after an engagement at Avondale. The announcement of the award cites Coburn's "exceptional influence on classic drama and unparalleled devotion to the theater."

Two apprentices at Avondale will be chosen each season for a two-week study course at the Shakespeare festival here.

Former Area Minister Writes Lenten Booklet

The Rev. Herbert W. Hahn, a retired minister of the New York Annual Conference of the Methodist Church, has written a booklet, "The Marks of A Christian," which has been accepted for publication by Tidings, in Nashville, Tenn. It will be out in time for the Lenten season.

Tidings is fast becoming a national agency for the distribution of evangelistic literature, on an inter-denominational basis. The Marks of A Christian is a companion piece to another booklet by the same author, Basic Beliefs of the Christian Faith, which was published a few years ago.

Benedictine Hospital Auxiliary Reports On Activities; Mrs. Cranston Re-Elected

On Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 6, the Benedictine Hospital Auxiliary held its annual meeting and Christmas tea in the auditorium of the nurses school and residence. Mrs. William Cranston welcomed the members and guests. Reports were made by the following officers and committee chairmen: Mrs. Robert Stenson, recording secretary; Mrs. Joseph Robertson, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Gardiner, cart volunteers; Mrs. Martin Golden, cart bookkeeper; Mrs. Andrew Daly, desk and escort service; Mrs. William Ryan, baby photo; Mrs. Nicholas Stock's report was given by Mrs. Robertson; Mrs. Edward Thomas, television service; Mrs. John McCordie, gift shop.

Mrs. John Sanglyn Jr., introduced the following new members: The Mmes. John Meara, Frank Prusack Jr., Bertha Healy, Joseph Hartfuer, William Adams and John Conway. Mrs. Sanglyn reporting for the membership chairman, Mrs. Fred Bruhn, announced that 58 new members joined the auxiliary in 1961.

Mrs. William Krum, publicity chairman, on behalf of the auxiliary, expressed her thanks to the Kingston Daily Freeman and to the personnel of the three radio stations for their coverage of auxiliary news.

President Mrs. Cranston welcomed all past presidents of the auxiliary. They are the Mmes. Joan Cordis, Grove Webster Jr., Joan Goldrick, Edward Kelly, Edward B. Loughran, James Higley, Charles O'Reilly, George Moore, John Oliver, Charles Davis, Allen Baker, George Einterz, John Cooke, Guy Valeo, Vincent Amatrano, Edward Dolan, John McCordie, each one of the past presidents was presented with a corsage. Honorary Life Membership in the auxiliary was presented to Mrs. John Cordis Sr. and Mrs. Grove Webster.

Sister Berenice, hospital administrator presented the following members with pins for completing 100 hours or more of volunteer service: The Mmes. William Adams, Maynard Burroughs, Theodore Chamberland, Andrew Cooke Jr., Andrew Daly, William Krum, Joseph Matey, Steven McGrath, Floyd Nehring, J. Edward Phelan, William Smith, J. Schuyler Schonger and the Mmes. Gertrude Birmingham and Mary Campbell.

Mrs. Leo Kileoyne, chairman of the nominating committee, presented the slate of officers for 1962. They were unanimously elected to serve the Auxiliary for the coming year. Re-elected as president, Mrs. William Cranston; first vice president, Mrs. Collins Troy; second vice president, Mrs. John Sanglyn Jr.; treasurer, Mrs. Ignazio Bosco; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Joseph Kearney; recording secretary, Mrs. Robert Stenson; executive board members, the Mmes. Donald Droulette, Alex Schoen and Edward J. Costello.

Mrs. Guy Valeo and Mrs. Francis Tucker, co-chairmen of the Christmas tea which was given after the meeting named the members of their committee who provided the Christmas setting in the auditorium for the event. They were assisted by Mrs. Robert Motrie, Mrs. Edward Flick, Mrs. Allen Baker, Mrs. William Krum and Mrs. James Sweeney.

Presiding at the tea tables were the Mmes. John Oliver, Frank Simpson, George Beichert, Andrew Daly, Joseph Kearney, Collins Troy, John McCordie, and Edward Costello.

The student nurses' choir entertained with Christmas carols accompanied at the piano by Miss Carol Bridi.

One of the highlights of the meeting was another payment of $1500 towards the auxiliary pledge of $30,000 towards the Nurses' School and Residence.

Sister Berenice Speaks
Following is the text of the speech given before the Auxiliary by Sister Berenice, hospital administrator:

"The reading of the outstanding reports that you have just heard from the past year's many noted activities recalls another remarkable period of social events planned and directed by the auxiliary members for the benefit of the Benedictine Hospital."

"Our capable and enthusiastic president Mrs. William J. Cranston, and her efficient officers and committee chairmen, as well as each and every member of the auxiliary, are to be congratulated today, for another year of outstanding achievements."

but helps considerably in lessening the tensions both before and after operations. It also relieves worry and excitement during the post operative care.

"We realize that the last three projects mentioned would require an added number of voluntary auxiliary members. The response was magnanimous, they were secured and with the entire auxiliary are responding wholeheartedly."

"The Gift Cart continues to be the favorite auxiliary project among the patients. It's functioning too, requires definite care and considerable desk work. As a result of the auxiliary's many activities during the past year they were able to pay $2,500 on their previous pledge of $30,000 toward the New Nurses School and Residence."

"The service of the Junior Auxiliary Group directed by Miss F. Stock is worthy of great praise. Service pins are to be awarded to several of the girls today. The Sisters of the Benedictine Hospital highly commend Mrs. William J. Cranston, her officers, chairmen and each member of the auxiliary for their generous contribution of time, energy and means each year for the hospital. We rejoice in the re-election of Mrs. Cranston for our president for the year 1962. The splendid response and fine service of our constantly growing auxiliary is most encouraging, with its continued interests we need not hesitate when the time comes to plan for the further development and expansion of our hospital."

"Ladies Auxiliary Members: May God bless you and your families, not only at Christmas but every day of the New Year."

Bolz Makes Address
An address was also given by Edwin Bolz, assistant hospital administrator. Its text is as follows:

"I bring greetings to you from the patients and staff of the Benedictine Hospital."

"These greetings would not be complete without a word of thanks for the Women's Auxiliary interest and projects for the patients of the Benedictine Hospital. We at the hospital have long been aware of the dynamic patient therapy performed by your Sales Cart, Flower and Mail distribution projects. These are projects which render that 'something extra' for the patient's comfort that cannot be easily forgotten. It is our hope that you continue to support these projects with increased interest and zeal."

"You are also to be congratulated on your newest ventures for the hospital. The Baby Photo, TV and Gift Shop projects are indeed another indication of your dedication to the Benedictine Hospital and its patients. These services, along with the Desk and Sales Cart completely furnish the patients and their families with the 'something extra' needed in today's hospitalization."

"As the scope and activities of the Women's Auxiliary has and will expand, so has the hospital. This past year our new Post-Operative Recovery Room was opened. Within the next three months the hospital will completely centralize its patient food service, thus allowing the hospital to expand its bed capacity by nine beds by converting the present floor pantries to patient use."

"At present we are modernizing patient room equipment in the North Wing areas as well as the physical building itself. In 1962 we are looking forward to expanding our Emergency Room service."

The year 1962 will also see the start of the formal planning for the complete renovation and rebuilding of the Center Wing to better accommodate our future community health needs."

It is evident then that the Hospital and Women's Auxiliary are working toward one goal—that is the betterment of patient care for our area. We at the Benedictine Hospital are indeed proud to have you on our team."

I know I speak for the patients and staff of the Benedictine Hospital when I wish you a very Merry Christmas and a Happy and Blessed New Year."

'Dark Horse'
Racing gave political parlance the term 'dark horse.' In England, generations ago, there was a sneaky practice of dyeing the mane of a well-known horse black and entering him in a race under a false name. It thus became customary to apply the term 'dark horse' to any unknown horse that won a big race.

Rattler May Not Rattle
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Contrary to popular belief, the eastern Diamondback rattlesnake, largest and most poisonous viper native to North America, doesn't always sound a warning before he strikes. Another belief—that he has to be coiled to strike—also is not true. The rattler usually buzzes the horny rattles at the end of his tail before striking, but he sometimes neglects to do so. And he can launch his incredibly fast lunge from any position.

Recent Bride Is Guest at Shower

Mrs. Richard Teetsel was guest of honor at a surprise bridal shower held recently at the SRS Home, Cottekill, by members of the office staff, diet kitchen and cafeteria at Kingston Hospital.

Mrs. Teetsel is the former Miss Aileen Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jackson of Newton Stewart, Scotland. She was married to Richard Teetsel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Teetsel of Tannersville, at the Tannersville Methodist Church, Aug. 27. The Rev. T. F. Reid, uncle of the bride, officiated. The couple recently returned from a wedding trip to Scotland.

White and silver streamers and bells decorated the main dining room of the SRS Home for the shower. Those attending were:

The Mmes. Mary Fisher, Barbara Terpening, Gertrude Schick, Edna Storms, Vera Miller, Hazel Meyer, Elizabeth Quick, Lillian Decker, Mildred Smith, Brigitte SanJose, Doris Strubber, Una Schaffer, Beatrice Jaensch, Marsha Petro, Carmella Fallon, Russell Fallon, John Kerns, Jean Hummel, Oscar Youngberg, Mack-Short.

Also the Misses Jean Harvey, Beverly McPherson, Patricia Szmela, Carol Dewitt, Florence Rysley, Patricia Hasenflue and Mrs. Mayme Kumpule.

POLLY'S QUIZ

By POLLY CRAMER

Keep Traditional Motif In Christmas Decorations

Decorating for the Christmas season has become nearly as important as year-around decorating. But far too many holiday decorations have gone far afield in past years. Some are all flamboyant color and glitter and have little about them to reflect the Christmas spirit.

Be wary of large investments in exotic decoration and don't attempt "high style" decorations unless yours is a high style house.

Some decorations will always reflect the holiday spirit: holly wreaths, red satin bows, pine cones and pine trees. One designer of unusually beautiful decorations uses much gold with deep green velvet ribbons and greens for a rich effect.

Remember Christmas decorations should look like Christmas and be compatible with the style and colors of the room in which they are used.

Dear Polly: Our home will be Early American and I plan to paint the hall and living-dining room walls driftwood white. With a soft beige wall-to-wall carpet, what shall I use for draperies and furniture? Would a deacon's bench be pretty in the hall? Should we paint the doors and windows or leave them natural?—S. J.

Dear S. J.: A deacon's bench is a nice choice for a hall. To emphasize the Early American feeling in your home, paint the woodwork (including doors and windows) a grayed olive-green.

This will be most effective with off-white walls.

Draperies and the slip cover for a wing chair could be made of a documentary print in blue, olive, beige or golden brown on a white ground. Cover the sofa with an olive-green linen or linenlike weave.

A pair of easy chairs could repeat the pale beige of the carpet color in a self-toned stripe of the plaid.

Dear Polly: The bathroom in our new home has pale pink walls, white ceiling, pink fixtures, gray ceramic tile on lower walls and floor. Birch built-in vanity has a white top flecked with gold. What color rug and towels should I get?—Mrs. A. L.

Dear Mrs. A. L.: That birch cabinet must stick out like sore thumb. Gray paint would have been my choice for it, particularly in a small room.

The shops are full of towels that add interest and could combine the room colors in a delightful pattern. One of the new pouff rugs, in pink, would be pretty on the floor.

Dear Reader: A heavy volume of mail doesn't permit Mrs. Cramer to answer her letters and post cards individually. But she will comment in her column on decorating problems of general interest. She cannot undertake to return floor plans or fabric swatches which are enclosed with letters.

ASK THE DESIGNER by gaile Jugas

Dear Gaile: Would you please tell me what kind of dress to wear at an afternoon wedding reception, 1 to 5 p. m.? Should it be fancy, basic or what? Should I wear a hat? If so, what size hat and bag? Also, please tell me how to dress for a banquet at 6:30 p. m. Should I wear a hat? And should it be bulky jewelry or a fine necklace? Also the proper way to dress for a church supper to be held at 6 p. m. Also the use of gloves for such affairs. — Mrs. J. M.

Dear Mrs. J. M.: Fashion advice on your first question comes from Sylvia Kaplan of Nat Kaplan. Mrs. Kaplan does beautiful, soft clothes of the kind eminently suitable for just such a wedding reception. She says:

"I like the costume look for a wedding reception. A dress with jacket is exactly right. The trim should be confined to the top part of the dress and may be embroidery which will show up prettily if you put the jacket over your shoulders. But it should not be overly fussy. Keep the hat small and light; it might be done in ribbon and trimmed with a cloud of veiling. Match your bag to your dress and keep it small. It should be just large enough to hold the essentials."

Now, as to your other questions. The little black crepe dress, which may be worn with a small hat, is always "in" for dinner wear. Your choice of jewelry depends much on your own personal taste but it should be in keeping with the dress. Some dresses call for large, stunning pieces; others do not. Short white kid gloves and a small black bag.

For the church supper, why not a brown crepe worn with garnet or garnet-colored jewelry? The combination is both beautiful and unusual. White kid gloves again.

Dear Gaile: I wish you would give me some help on the kind of hat I should wear. My face is long and rather angular and I have difficulty in finding hats that look well. I do try to keep my hair styled and currently am wearing it back, with fullness at the crown and the flip at either side. Any help you can give me will be appreciated. — E. K.

Dear E. K.: Expert advice on this one comes from Vincent

Harmik of Nolly. This New York designer says:

"The asymmetric line does much to minimize those angular lines. Draping or any soft trim placed to one side of the face is invariably flattering. Deep, eye-shading brims lend an air of enchantment. Saucer brims or Bretons are especially becoming since they give both lift and width to the face. But be sure to avoid high or pointed crowns, stiff brims worn severely at eye level, and back-sliding hats such as Flemish or Rembrandt berets."

Please send your fashion problems to Gaile Jugas in care of this paper. While she cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

FATHER AND STEPMOTHER GIVE WEDDING

Q: My mother is not living. About two years ago my father remarried. This marriage has never seemed to cause any complications until this moment of my planning for my wedding. Suddenly my mother's people feel that the invitations should not include my stepmother's name. I thought if your own mother was not living it was all right. Please give me your opinion.

A: Your mother's family are quite wrong. In fact, it would be very cruel to your stepmother to omit her name. The wording would be "his daughter" instead of "their daughter."

Golden Anniversary "Shower of Cards"

Q: My mother and father-in-law will soon celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary. However, as both are in poor health it would be nice if all their friends remembered them on this day by sending greeting cards, which I am sure will please them very much. In other words, have a "shower of cards." Is such an idea possible, and if so, how can I go about suggesting it?

A: Your idea is excellent and the best way to suggest it would be to telephone your plan to their friends whom you know best, and ask them to spread the idea to others.

Sharing Restaurant Table With Stranger

Q: When lunching in a crowded restaurant where you are forced to share a table with a complete stranger, is it necessary to start a conversation, and also when leaving to say goodbye or just get up and leave? This is always a very awkward situation to me and I would appreciate any advice you may give me.

A: As a rule you say nothing. If you do happen to enter into a conversation, you would naturally say "good-bye" as you get up to leave.

High School Cagers Defeat Liberty Central, 51-47

Saugerties Scores, 71-26; Rondout Wallops Onteora

Late Burst Earns Maroon Players DUSO Victory

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Scoring 13 straight points in the closing moments of the third period and the first few seconds of the fourth stanza, Kingston High opened defense of its DUSO title with a 51-47 cliffhanger over Liberty before more than 1,000 last night at the Kate Walton Field House.

Though the scoreboard showed the locals had captured their opener, they were far from impressive. Poor ball handling, inconsistent shooting and some general all-around lapses, combined with the tenacity of the visitors kept the score close throughout.

Liberty had a 36-32 margin with 3:30 remaining in the third quarter when the Maroon five started its scoring binge. Paul Natale, a standout in his first varsity game, started the rally with a layup. John Falvey canned a free throw to slice the margin to a point, 36-35. Natale put KHS ahead for good with a score from underneath. Then Falvey connected from the corner, center John Duffner tapped in a rebound and Ronnie Thomas, another first-year varsity performer, hit from close range to give the locals a 43-36 edge at the end of the period.

Natale began the final session with a basket, making it 13 straight points for Kingston. Center Mary Miller ended the famine by caging a foul for the Indians, putting the margin at eight points, 45-37.

Maintain Lead
Coach John Gilligan's charges managed to hold the lead the rest of the way, but the Indians came close. A basket by Jeff Smith cut it to a point, 48-47, with 1:30 remaining. Liberty didn't score in those final seconds while the locals held the decision as Mike Ferraro made a free throw and Falvey converted a pair of them.

Ferraro led the Kingston scoring with 17 points, but he had a poor game. His passing wasn't up to par. Duffner added 11 markers, most of them coming from underneath. Natale chipped in with 10 points and had good poise. He was the best player for the winners.

Billy Blume, Charley Bruns and Smith were all in double figures for the hustling Indians, who combined a good defense with a lot of speed. They ran all night.

CAGE JOTTINGS, Mike Debrosky, custodian of the Kate Walton Field House for many seasons, is a patient at Veterans Hospital in Albany, where he's recovering from major surgery. Those who want to send a card can mail it to Room 515. The "football" legs of the Kingston team were still in evidence. There's reason to believe the potential is there but it's going to take a lot of hard work for the Maroon players to start clicking. Jack Lewis, who played part of the second period and didn't do anything noteworthy, quit the KHS team after the game. He expected to see a lot of action and was perturbed at the turn of events. It seems just a waste of space to have folding chairs under both baskets when there is a lot of comfortable space in the bleachers. Those sitting behind the end lines are going to catch a player sitting on their laps more than once, after a hard drive from the other end of the court.

Natale, Duffner Top Shooters In Win Over Liberty

Paul Natale and John Duffner were the leading shooters for Kingston High school in the 51-47 win over Liberty last night.

Natale made five baskets in only six attempts for an 83% average. Duffner took seven shots and made five of them for a 71% mark. The others didn't do as well. Mike Ferraro was 7-20 for 35%, John Falvey 1-6 for 17% and Ronnie Thomas 3-13 for 23%.

Duffner was the rebound leader with 17. Natale had 14, Falvey 13 and Thomas got a pair. Ferraro was credited with four assists and Falvey with three.

Middletown Nips Monties, 60-59

Three football stars turned their talents to the hardwood and led Middletown to a 60-59 DUSO League victory over Monticello last night at the winner's court.

Ronnie Smith, Billy Kindberg, and Bill Gray were in double figures for the Middies. Ty Harden was the best for Monticello. The clubs were tied, 30-30, at halftime but the home side was slightly ahead most of the second half.

Coaches Select DUSO All-Star Grid Team

Sports writers and coaches in the DUSO League see almost eye-to-eye on the All-DUSO football teams. The writers made known their selections last week. The coaches have just made known their first and second team and they are almost identical. The only exceptions are that Bill Kindberg of Middletown was awarded a quarterback spot and Bob Ruckdeschel of Newburgh made the first team at end. Kindberg replaces Leroy Johnson of Port Jervis while Ruckdeschel takes the place of Gibby Romaine of the same club.

The writers pick four backs, regardless of position. The coaches select a quarterback and tabbed Kindberg as the best.

Coaches were not permitted to vote for their boys when making their selections.

Sawyers Defeat Cardinal Farley In DCSL Debut

Reserves saw most of the action last night at the Saugerties High court as the point-happy Sawyers romped over Cardinal Farley Military Academy, 71-26, in a DCSL contest.

The visitors were in contention for a half, trailing only 29-18 at the intermission. However, they were whitewashed in the third period and managed only eight points in the final quarter.

Al Hrdlicka was high for Bud Smith's quintet with 17 points and Andy Jacobs added 12. Reserves played most of the second half and all of them dented the scoring column.

The Sawyers jayvees nipped the visitors, 33-30, in the jayvee contest.

Saugerties will play at Beacon next Thursday in an afternoon circuit contest. The Bulldogs opened with a win over Wappingers Falls.

Ray Robinson Kayos Greaves

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Triumphant in his latest comeback effort with a knockout of Walf Greaves, Sugar Ray Robinson hopes for a similar outcome in a rematch with Denny Moyer in New York on Jan. 6 — and then a chance at winning his sixth middleweight boxing title.

Robinson, who won a split decision over Greaves last Sept. 25, knocked down the Canadian middleweight champion in the eighth round Friday night for a nine-count and then put him away at the 43-second mark.

The 40-year-old Robinson earned a close decision over Moyer in their first bout. He asked for a rematch, though, because he'd "like to feel it's a decisive win." That also was his reason for requesting a rematch with Greaves.

Robinson's manager, George Gannford, credited Greaves with spurring the 22-year fight veteran to his 143rd victory in 155 fights.

"Greaves made him fight," Gannford said after the bout. "Robinson couldn't loaf. He had to fight or get out of the ring."

Folley Is Rated Month's Top Boxer
PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — The National Boxing Association has voted heavyweight Zora Folley the boxer-of-the-month for an upset victory which may rank as the ring's biggest of the year.

Folley, of Chandler, Ariz., knocked out British titlist Henry Cooper in the second round last Tuesday night — and right out a possible shot at champion Floyd Patterson.

Runnerup for the monthly award announced Friday by Tony Petronella, chairman of the NBA's rating committee, was featherweight champion Davey Moore of Springfield, Ohio. Moore made a successful title defense against Kazuo Takayama of Japan in Tokyo three weeks ago.

In the heavyweight picture, Folley moved up from eighth to fifth among the challengers while Cooper fell from fourth to eighth.

By BOB MYERS
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Confusion in the middleweight boxing division may become even more muddled tonight when the title claimant, Gene Fullmer of Utah, and welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba collide in a 15-round match.

At stake in the nationally televised attraction—ARC 10 p.m., EST—is 30-year-old Fullmer's National Boxing Association version of the world championship.

Fullmer figured to weigh just under the 160-pound limit and Paret, ambitious king of the 147-pounders, about 155.

The 24-year-old Cuban seeks to become the first fighter to win and hold two titles simultaneously since Henry Armstrong ruled three divisions — featherweight, lightweight and welterweight — two decades ago.

England's Terry Downes is recognized as the world middleweight champion in Europe, New York and Massachusetts.

Fullmer, a veteran of 59 battles and knockout winner in 22, is a 3-1 favorite in this, the seventh defense of the crown he won from Carmen Basilio in 1959.

Paret, who often fights in flurries in contrast to Gene's crowd-pleasing, two-fisted clouting offense, has had 47 matches. He has lost 10 and stopped nine opponents. His welterweight title is not at issue.

Ganders Breeze To 57-24 Verdict Over Indian Five

This promises to be a long cage season for Onteora Central. The Indians from Boiceville were walloped, 57-24, at the Rondout Valley school gym last night in the UCAL opener for both clubs.

The home side took an early lead and was never in trouble as the visitors had trouble finding the basket. They managed only six field goals during the entire contest and Tim Timpson was the leader with a pair of them.

Jim Brush, the nifty backcourt ace for Chick Meehan's five, pumped in 18 points for Rondout and Bob Barnum added 11. The Indians didn't have a scorer in double figures.

Rondout also had an easy time in the jayvee contest, getting a 32-10 decision.

Manning Cup Play

Kingston Sport Club takes a respite from New York State Soccer Association competition this weekend to launch the Manning Cup play against the Milan Juventus team Sunday at Dietz Stadium at 2:30 p.m.

The Manning Cup competition is sponsored by the Southern New York State Soccer Federation. Beside Kingston, there are four other Central New York teams involved.

Albany Athletic Club, tied with Kingston for the CNYSSA lead, is scheduled to play the Gioia club in New York. Albany Sport Club meets Holland Sport Club and Troy Sport Club hosts Mount Kisco.

In regular league games, Poughkeepsie Blue and White meets Schenectady Football Club and Utica will be host to the Poughkeepsie Knights of Columbus.

The Dr. Manning Cup tournament is staged under rigid, single elimination competition. Teams are permitted only two substitutions, with no others or re-substitutions allowed.

The association race has developed into strictly a two-team affair between Kingston and Albany Athletic Club. Kingston dealt a severe blow to Troy Sport Club's chances of repeating last Sunday.

The Juventus squad due at Dietz Stadium Sunday is highly rated and a brisk contest is expected.

Kansas City Team Has Winning Streak

The Kansas City Steers are on a 5-game winning streak in the American Basketball League.

The latest conquest in the string for the Western Division leaders came Friday night, a 117-99 stampede of the Chicago Majors. In the other scheduled ABL game the San Francisco Saints whipped the Hawaii Chiefs 98-88.

Nick Mantis, with 26 points, sparked Kansas City as the Steers widened their lead over Los Angeles to four games.

Western Division cellar at the expense of the Chicago Majors. The Saints climbed out of the pen of Hawaii as they overcame a 19-15 first-quarter deficit.

30 Points for Dillman

Bob Dillman, a talented hot-shot, poured 30 points through the twine last night at the New Paltz High school court as the State College Hawks broke into the win column, 87-76, over Geneseo College.

With Dillman showing the way, the home side had a 46-39 lead at halftime and kept the margin during the second half, despite several attempts by the losers to narrow the gap.

Dillman rimmed 12 baskets and six free throws for his total. Bill King, Ed Szymanski and Mike Hazelton also hit in double figures for the winners, who played their best game of the young season.

New Paltz has a 1-2 mark and will play at Maritime College on Monday.

Beacon, Roosevelt Win DCSL Games

Beacon and Roosevelt earned DCSL victories this week to tie Saugerties for the top spot in the circuit.

The Bulldogs trimmed Wappingers Falls, 67-56, in a Thursday clash at the Southern Dutchess court. Mike McCray had 21 and Richie Lunsford 16 points for the winners. Ole Petersen led Wappingers with 21 markers.

Beacon used a big third period to turn the tide, after trailing, 34-33, at halftime.

Jim Jeffrey had 21 and Wes Bialosuknia 20 for the title favorites. Jo Horvath's 20 markers topped Arlington.

Recreation Cage Loop Set to Start Sunday

Action in the Kingston Recreation Department basketball league will begin Sunday, 7 p.m., with a doubleheader on tap. Carroll's Bait Box will tangle with Red Hook in the opener and at 8 p.m., Trailways Cafeteria will collide with Ray's Tackle Shop.

The league has five teams ready for action with only Byrne Chevrolet not seeing action opening night. Games will be played each Sunday at the Municipal Auditorium.

Ray's Tackle Shop is the pre-season choice to win honors. However, each of the clubs in the league is expected to have some outstanding names on the roster, assuring the fans of good action all season.

Glascow Gun Club Holds Meeting

The annual meeting of the Glascow Gun Club was held Thursday evening, December 7, at 8 o'clock at Rudy's White Bar, Glascow. Congratulations were extended to the new officers who will serve during the coming year. They are:

Michael Spada, president; Frank Naccarato, vice president; Theodore Kilburn, treasurer, and Fred Polizzi, secretary.

Plans of the gun club for 1962 include a heavy pheasant stocking program and an active trap-shooting committee. The club also plans several means of raising funds and will be host for the February meeting of the Ulster County Federation.

Rolling to a 45-14 margin at half time, Marlboro Central pinned the 41st straight loss on Highland, 74-41, last night at the losers' court. The home side has now been walloped in three straight games and it looks like another dreary season.

Eleven players saw action for Jack O'Donnell's club and all of them dented the scoring column. The Dukes simply overwhelmed the losers, who hit their high point total for the young season.

Giants, Eagles to Collide In Top NFL Contest Sunday

By ROBERT MOORE
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Giants, smarting from defeat, and the Philadelphia Eagles, fresh from two of their finest performances, square off Sunday in Philadelphia with the victor grabbing a one-game lead in the National Football League's Eastern Conference.

This will be the second meeting of the Giants and the defending champions, New York won the first clash 31-21 four weeks ago, but the Giants face a more potent Eagle offense in this return match.

which saw the Giants strike for two quick touchdowns and break ahead 14-0. The Eagles never recovered.

Jurgensen, however, has fully recovered from the sore foot. The former Duke ace has tossed seven touchdown passes in Philadelphia's last two games.

The two teams will enter the game with identical 9-3 records.

Play the Bears

The Cleveland Browns, only other club with a chance of winning the Eastern crown, visit the Bears in Chicago and must beat the Bruins to remain in the running. Cleveland is 5-4, trailing the dejected Giants and Eagles by one game. Chicago is 6-6.

It's already over except the shouting in the Western Conference. The Green Bay Packers wrapped up the title last Sunday by spanking the Giants 20-17 and can use Sunday's game at San Francisco (6-5-1) and their Dec. 17 tilt at Los Angeles to warm up for the NFL championship showdown at Green Bay Dec. 31. The Packers are 10-2.

With championship matters out of the way, interest in the West shifts to the runner-up team which will get a trip to Miami Jan. 6 to meet the East runner-up in the Runnerup Bowl. The Detroit Lions now in second place with a 7-4-1 record are host to Minnesota (5-9) Sunday. Third place Baltimore faced the Rams in Los Angeles today.

Other games Sunday send Dallas (4-7-1) to St. Louis (5-7) and Pittsburgh (5-7) to Washington (10-1-1).

Patriots Hoping For Houston Loss

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Boston's Patriots, aiming to hang in close so they might take over if Houston should falter, go to Oakland today for a game counting vitally in the Eastern Division of the American Football League.

The Patriots are in second place, one game back of Houston, and can figure in the title if the Oilers drop one.

Houston faces New York at New York Sunday and even if Boston should win the Oilers could clinch a first-place tie by knocking over the Titans. A loss would throw Houston into a tie for first place with Boston, each with a game to play.

Buffalo will be at San Diego in another Saturday afternoon game. It means nothing since Buffalo is in the Eastern Division and San Diego already is champion of the Western Division.

In the other game Sunday, Dallas and Denver get together at Dallas.

'Whitewash' Seen Of Carlino Probe

NEW YORK (AP) — Assemblyman Mark Lane says he sees "all the ingredients required for a white wash" in the promised probe of Assembly Speaker Joseph P. Carlino, whom Lane charges profited by school fallout shelter construction legislation.

Lane, D-Manhattan, has charged that Carlino, a Republican, profited personally from legislation, passed last month during a special legislative session.

Profit Is Denied

Carlino has denied any profit and has requested a hearing. In Albany Thursday, Donald R. Campbell, R-Amsterdam, chairman of an Assembly committee on ethics, promised prompt investigation of Lane's charge.

Lane said Friday the hearings should be open to the public, and added:

"I am aware of the fact that the chairman of the committee was appointed by Mr. Carlino, that the vice chairman was appointed by Mr. Carlino, that the funds with which the committee operates are appropriated each year by Mr. Carlino, and that the chairman of the committee has already stated—even prior to the first meeting of the committee—that he has read newspaper accounts and does not believe there is any conflict of interest at all."

Vows Public Hearings

"All the ingredients required for a whitewash seem to be present and I don't believe the people of New York State will be satisfied with anything less than a full airing of all the facts at a public hearing."

If the committee does not hold public hearings, Lane said, "then I will do so... as a citizen of the state."

Meanwhile, Lane said he would cooperate fully with the Assembly committee and submit all information the committee requests concerning his charge that Carlino "profited handsomely" by the fallout shelter legislation passed while Carlino was a director of Lancer Industries, Inc., a subsidiary of Lancer manufactures residential fallout shelters.

Carlino has replied that he did not own stock in the Lancer firm and that he resigned from its board of directors six days after passage of the legislation. He said he had been associated with Lancer through his law firm.

Kennedy to Meet Rusk and Bell On Fla. Return

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President Kennedy leaves balmy Palm Beach today for windblown Washington and a late afternoon conference on tight international situations with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Kennedy also asked Budget Director David E. Bell to meet him at the White House when he gets back to the capital.

The President, after mixing homework with relaxation for most of three days in Palm Beach, was scheduled to take off at 1:30 p.m. and land two hours later at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., near Washington.

He planned to shift immediately by helicopter to the White House for separate meetings with Rusk and Bell.

Exactly what Kennedy has in mind wasn't announced, but it seemed sure the talk with Rusk would touch on his trip to Venezuela where anti-U.S. demonstrations have flared this week.

The President and Mrs. Kennedy, demonstrations notwithstanding, expect to fly to Venezuela and Colombia on a goodwill venture next weekend.

The trip ties in with the U.S.-sponsored Alliance for Progress to benefit Latin-American nations, part of the foreign aid program in which the State Department is interested.

The meeting with Bell is another in a series to formulate the administration's 1962-63 budget proposals.

Britons Moving To Crush Acts On U.S. Bases

LONDON (AP) — The British mobilized forces today against anticommunist demonstrators threatening to storm U.S. air force bases.

A tight security zone was set up around the bases with posters warning: "Official Secrets Act. Prohibited entry. Penalty of two years imprisonment."

In an attempt to break the back of the march organized by Earl Bertrand Russell's anticommunist Committee of 100, police seized five leading members of the group Friday.

They were charged in court with inciting persons to violate the Official Secrets Act by entering a U.S. air base. The case was continued until Dec. 14. Released on bail of $500 each, all five said they intended to go through with their demonstration at Wethersfield and Brize Norton in Essex and Oxfordshire.

The intention of the demonstrators at Wethersfield is "to ground all aircraft" by sitting under them and by sitting down in maximum security areas where bombs and fuel are stored.

Demonstrations were also planned in the big cities of Bristol, Cardiff, York and Manchester as well as at U.S.A.F. headquarters at Ruislip in Middlesex.

Idea Backfires

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Joseph B. Rosario, 39, who booty-trapped his car to give gas thieves an electric shock, was killed by the device. His wife, Yvonne, 35 who tried to save him was hospitalized.

Rosario, a teacher, had led a 110-volt line from his house to the carport in hopes of shocking thieves siphoning the gas from his automobile. He was barefooted and standing on a wet surface when he turned on the current and touched the car.

Dismiss Charges In Turkey Case On Lake Hill Men

Charges of allegedly receiving stolen property brought against Thomas O'Brien and Louis Snider, both of Lake Hill, were dismissed Friday night by Woodstock Justice of Peace Rudolf C. Baumgarten at a preliminary hearing conducted in the Woodstock Firehouse.

O'Brien and Snider had been named by Edward Day of Woodstock as the alleged receivers of frozen turkeys which police said he had admitted taking from a food locker on the property of the Woodstock Dairy, for whom Day worked. The turkeys were the property of Woodstock Packing Co. Day is presently being held in Ulster County jail awaiting grand jury action on a charge of burglary, third degree, in connection with the turkey theft.

O'Brien and Snider were represented by Attorney John J. Schick of Kingston, while Assistant District Attorney Frank Vogt represented the prosecution.

Three witnesses were called for the prosecution: Day, Harry Cable and Nathan Parnett, proprietor of Woodstock Packing Co.

When Day, who was asked by Assistant District Attorney Vogt if O'Brien had been told by him that the turkeys had been stolen, replied in the negative, Attorney Schick asked the charges be dismissed and Justice Baumgarten concurred.

After cross examination of Snider and Attorney Schick asked that the charges against him also be dismissed since the only evidence against him was an alleged confession signed by Snider. He pointed out that under New York State law a self confession was not sufficient for conviction. It must have corroborating evidence. Following a brief recess, Justice Baumgarten dismissed the case.

Snider previously had been given a 30-day sentence and fined $50 on the charge. This also was dismissed.

Hearing Is Deferred

A 55-year-old Kingston man today received an adjournment until Tuesday at 9 a. m. for hearing in City Court on a charge of unlawful intrusion.

John Joseph Wilson, 55, of 24 Henry Street, was arrested Friday by Detective William Slover. Wilson is accused of entering the Sterling Studio, 20 Franklin Street through an unlocked door and sweeping items from a show case to the floor, damaging the merchandise according to police.

The top of the glass case also was damaged, authorities said. In lieu of $100 bail Wilson was confined in the County jail, police said.

Food for Thought---

What do you think of when you see these two Dutch children?

Two Young Girls Find The Inspiration to Write

Most of the time, stories and poems are written by older persons.

It always seems that older persons know a lot and like to write about what they know more than younger persons do.

Yet, this is not always the case. The American poet, William Cullen Bryant, wrote his famous poem Thanatopsis when he was only a teen-ager.

In fact, many famous poets and authors started writing when they were very young.

It may seem hard and dull to write, but, to some persons, it can be just as much fun as playing or watching television.

Here are two poem-like stories which were written by girls from North Andover, Mass. Joan is only 9, and Peggy is 11.

The poems show what can be done if you give it a try.

THE DUTCH BOY

By Joan Stephenson

I saw a little Dutch boy in a milk cart,
Delivering milk on his daily start.
I said to the Dutch boy, "Wouldn't it be nice
If you could deliver milk on ice?"
Then he replied, "Yes, but I would be flooded right out of my cart."

THE DUTCH GIRL

By Peggy Windle

I saw a little Dutch girl in a tulip bed,
Picking pretty tulips and placing them on her head.
I said, "My pretty one, but isn't it strange Putting tulips on your head at your age?"
Then she replied, "Really now,
Doesn't that catch your eye (anyhow)?"

Fishing Through Ice Is a Fun-Filled Sport

Fishing in January? Of course, say the experts. Mid-winter is the best time for fishing—ice fishing that is.

Ice fishing has become one of the nation's top winter sports. At one time, snow-clogged roads blocked all passage to the lakes in winter. Now with our modern snow plows almost any lake is as accessible in winter as it is in summer.

Ice fishing is not a sport for the timid. It is only for the bold, the brave, and the fearless. It isn't wild animals encountered on a frozen lake. It's a real foe—the weather.

Blinding snow, subzero temperatures and frost bitten toes and fingers are only a few of the hardships to be endured while ice fishing. But the thrill of catching a fish through a hole in the ice is well worth any icy blast.

Elaborate ice fishing equipment is available to those who can afford it in many sport stores. However none of that is really necessary. One will probably catch just as many fish with a simple hook and line.

The fish like to bite at certain times of the day and night and they will bite on anything. They apparently travel in schools, too.

Standard equipment consists of an ice chisel for chopping a hole, a hook, line and sinker and a short firm hand rod. Artificial bait is occasionally used but small minnows are best.

In some very popular fishing spots, ice shanty towns spring up. These little houses built on the lake are used by the fishermen who come regularly to the same spot to fish.

Most of the houses have gas heaters and lanterns and a few have small stools to sit on while fishing. The fishing holes are drilled right in the ice floor of the shanty.

There are many advantages in fishing from a shanty. It's much more comfortable. The heaters soon make the interior a cozy warm place. The thin film of ice that forms over the holes is easier to clear away than to try and dig a new hole in the thick ice each time. However if the fish don't happen to bite in that spot the fisherman is out of luck.

But fishermen are a friendly lot and one can always fish in his neighbor's shanty. If the fish are really popping, he won't be able to handle more than one line anyway.

Sleep

By

Frances Gorman Rissler

Each night I go to bed and sleep.

Each day I run and play, But plant folk seem to take their rest

In quite another way. They grow and bloom both day and night

And never sleep at all Until old Mother Nature says: "Now listen to my call—

"Cold Winter's coming. You must rest Until Spring rolls around!"

So all the plants tuck down their heads And sleep upon the ground Beneath the snow for months and months;

I'm glad I don't do this, Because think of the Winter fun

Prize-Winning Concert Artist Is Merely a Fifteen-Year-Old

Fifteen-year-old violinist Kenneth Yerke of Los Angeles is doing all right in the way of winning awards and prizes in music.

He won the O'Grady Memorial Award in 1958. That same year, Jascha Heifetz selected him as one of the performing students for the first Heifetz Master Class held at University of California at Los Angeles. In 1960 Kenneth received $3,000 and a gold medal in the California finals for the Kimber Award.

Both of Kenneth's parents are musicians. His mother is a piano concertist and accompanist. She said that his musical talent and special interest in the violin was revealed at age 3. Serious lessons started at five and a half with his present teacher, Sybil Maxwell.

Kenneth is one of six young musicians taking part in a project to develop gifted boys and girls. The program is sponsored by the Los Angeles Conservatory of Music and Buckley High School.

Kenneth and his fellows now attend morning classes in ordinary subjects at Buckley High School. This frees their afternoons for study at the conservatory in ensemble work, music theory, listing skills, history of music and harmony.

Kenneth's musical understanding has developed fast. He got his first public praise in the summer of 1956 when he played for an audience of 6,000 persons in the Redlands Bowl. He has been presented in concert many times since then.

Critic Albert Goldberg indicated the successful future ahead of him: "The lucky ones the gods have touched with a talent for playing the violin usually flower quite early, and young Mr. Yerke is no exception."

"He already has acquired an impressive mastery of his difficult instrument, and he has the flair, the urge and the address, as well as the attractive personality, that are essential to a successful performer."

—Weldon Woodson

The Lazy Susan mechanism can be used for games such as Scrabble, for it turns easily to each player's position. By turning the mechanism upside-down with the largest end up and placing the empty box on it, the board is firmly supported.

Trade Mark Reg. By Junius

A man insisted to his psychiatrist that he had swallowed a horse. None of the doctor's persuasive tactics could convince him to change his mind. In desperation, the psychiatrist agreed to "operate." The idea was simply to put the patient under and bring a horse into the operating room. When the patient came to, the doctor pointed to the horse and said: "Doctor—Well, that won't worry you any more."

Man—That's not the one I swallowed. That's a bay. My horse was white.

Jersey Woman Is Hurt in Friday Collision on 209

A Bergenfield, N. J., woman was hospitalized with chest and leg injuries as the result of a collision between her car and a tractor-trailer on Route 209 in Spring Glen Friday night.

State police of the Ellenville barracks reported that an automobile operated by Mona Morrison, 27, of Bergenfield, heading north on Route 209 at 9:30 p. m. failed to negotiate a right curve and ran into the left front door of a tractor-trailer operated by Raymond Mylet, 39, of Hazelton, Pa. The big vehicle jackknifed and went off the left side of the highway. The Morrison car spun around in the center of the highway, but remained on the road.

She was taken to Veterans Memorial Hospital in Ellenville suffering from injuries to her chest and lacerations of both legs. Her condition today was reported as good.

Snow Front Is

qua, Cattaraugus, Wyoming, Allegany, southern Erie, Onondaga, Oneida, Oswego, Jefferson and Lewis counties.

While some cities in the area escaped with only a trace of snow, Rome fought 11 inches, Syracuse 8 and Utica and Oneida 5. Hardest hit was the Ellipticville area of Cattaraugus County, in the southwest, where 24 inches or more fell.

The Weather Bureau predicted temperatures to be generally in the 20s and low 30s for most of the state Sunday.

Heavy Snow Piles Up Across Plains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy snow swirled out of the Rockies across the Plains into Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri today, piling up to depths of 5 to 6 inches.

Snow warnings were posted as far south as Ponca City, Okla., and east to St. Louis. The storm hit Wyoming, Montana, Colorado, Nebraska and the Dakotas Friday.

A band of sleet and freezing rain stretched from southeastern Kansas across Arkansas and Illinois into central Kentucky, making driving hazardous in spots.

Rain and drizzle soaked areas in the southern Plains and South Atlantic coast states. Heaviest rainfall reported was 1.03 inches at Harrison, Ark.

Light snow was reported during the night along the North Atlantic coast, north and east of a Great Lakes area crippled Friday by accumulations of up to two feet.

A mass of Canadian air pushed as far south as New Mexico, dropping temperatures sharply during the night in Montana and North Dakota. Havre, Mont., reported 18 below.

Temperatures were below freezing over a good portion of the nation during the night. Readings shortly after midnight ranged from 32 at Seattle to the 50s in California, stayed in the 20s and 40s across much of the South, and ranged as high as the 70s in southern Florida and Texas.

months extended tour of duty in Japan and China. He was one of three brothers who served in the armed forces during World War 2. While his brothers served in the U. S. Army, Joseph selected the Marine Corps after one brother serving in the Air Force, was reported missing in action.

After his discharge from service he entered the employ of The Kingston Freeman and shortly thereafter he became managing editor of The Catskill Daily Mail where he remained for six years until named Greene County undersheriff by Sheriff Bailey. He succeeded the late Clarence Palmer as undersheriff.

Pavlak attended the Cementon public schools and also studied at St. Francis Seminary, Lowell, Mass., and for three years studied philosophy and related subjects at St. Anthony's Seminary in Catskill. At the time he joined the Marine Corps he had completed two years of theology in Illinois and interrupted his studies in order to serve his country.

He presently resides at 44 Grandview Avenue, Catskill, with his wife and daughter.

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — President Kennedy appealed to business and labor during the week for support of what he called a "bold and new" foreign trade policy.

He spread his proposal for broad-tariff cutting powers before the National Association of Manufacturers in New York City and the AFL-CIO convention in Miami, Fla.

Not Much Enthusiasm
Neither of these groups in the past has expressed much enthusiasm for lower tariffs.

Kennedy based his pleas for support on the argument that improved international trade will be a means of providing prosperity and more jobs.

The President seeks congressional authority to bargain on tariff reductions with Western Europe in broad categories instead of item by item.

Most members of both organizations apparently were waiting for the President's program to be spelled out upon submission to Congress in January before committing themselves definitely about his desires.

Kennedy took the occasion of his appearance before the AFL-CIO to announce that the unemployment rate declined in November for the first time in a year. The rate dropped to 6.1 per cent of the work force from 6.8.

Job Total Is Record

The total employment of 67,349,000 in November was a record for the month.

Volume of trading on the New York Stock Exchange was 21,010,850 shares compared with 22,283,470 the preceding week. Bond sales totaled $3,899,000 par value during the week compared with $3,590,000 the previous week. An encouraging development.

Rains Slow

eral U Thant to justify its legal basis and aim.

At U.N. headquarters in New York Thant said the U.N. task force was acting in self-defense. He charged the wealthy Belgian-run Union Miniere Co., which mines and processes much of Katanga's copper and cobalt, had furnished bombs and armored cars used against the U.N. troops. At Leopoldville, the Congo central government said it would seek outside help to end the Katanga secession if the United Nations fails to restore the province to the legal Congolese government.

Bombs for Defense Only

In London, Britain announced it would supply 24 half-ton bombs to the U.N. force in Katanga, but only on the condition they be used strictly for defensive purposes. This was taken to include operations against planes and air strips maintained by the air arm of President Tshombe's forces, but not ground troops.

At Washington, Secretary of State Dean Rusk strongly supported the U.N. operation saying the United Nations is not trying to conquer Katanga but to secure the U.N. position against Katanga harassment.

Congolese Kill Kennedy

Increasing incidents involving bystanders caught in the middle of the fighting around Elisabethville led Tshombe to charge Friday that "cowardly and decadent" Americans were bombing churches, hospitals and schools and killing women and children. He attributed the deaths of seven civilians to American bombs. No American aircraft have been engaged in combat missions. At Leopoldville, however, some 200 Congolese students shouted "vive Kennedy" in a pro-American demonstration after they had showered bricks at the British, French and Portuguese embassies.

New Haven Road Given Additional Federal Subsidy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has agreed to guarantee another money transfusion for the financially ailing New Haven Railroad.

But the Interstate Commerce Commission, in approving the $7.5-million loan guarantee Friday, said any future requests must be accompanied by proof that attempts are being made to cut operating losses.

Trustees for the bankrupt line said in New York they "hope for a further cash improvement soon."

The trustees said the loan, although half of what they originally requested, "should provide operating funds for at least six months."

The ICC decision brings to $35.6 million the amount of loans which the federal government has guaranteed since 1958. Of that amount, New Haven defaulted on $14.7 million, which the government had to make good.

The line has been in financial deep water since 1956.

tives, from Minnesota, California, Washington, Florida, Utah, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Louisiana and Georgia will attend.

Next Wednesday Rockefeller will attend in Princeton, N. J., (9:30 a.m.) a meeting of the Delaware River Basin compact.

On Thursday, he will be in Albany to meet with Republican legislative leaders to discuss plans for the 1962 legislative session.

Press Secretary Robert McManus said the governor will spend most of the latter half of December in Albany.

Judiasm Class Set For Sunday at 11

The second session of the newly organized class, Backgrounds in Judiasm, will be held Sunday at 11 a. m. in the Talmud Torah Building, 167 Fair Street.

The series of lectures by Rabbi H. Z. Rappaport will discuss the history, literature, the prayers, the customs and ceremonies of the Jewish people.

Although, the Talmud Torah is presenting the course primarily for the high school students, others interested in the law and the lore of Judiasm are welcome to attend.

All former Talmud Torah students are urged to register. There is no tuition fee. Classes will be held on Sunday mornings from 11 to 12.

Thought Fire Proof

Rescuers evacuated all patients from the eighth floor up in the $10-million, 13-story hospital that was built 13 years ago and was regarded as almost fireproof.

Firemen tried to reach trapped patients on the ninth floor with extension ladders. But most of the ladders went only as high as the eighth floor.

Some patients were carried to safety while plasma bottles still were attached to their arms.

One of the hospital staff members, 32-year-old Dr. Norman Hedenstad, perished in the flames as he tried to close a door at the end of a corridor to prevent the spread of the fire.

Andrew Agogliati, 53, of Framingham, Mass., one of four patients in a ninth floor room, heard a shout: "Get the patients out!"

Tried Not to Panic

He got out of bed—"Although I'm not supposed to"—and saw flames and smoke. Visitors in the room used blankets and sheets to seal cracks around the door to keep smoke out.

"We all opened the windows and the smoke went out," he said. "So we just stayed there and tried not to panic."

Lois Daly was one of the nurses who closed doors and windows in patients' rooms. She eventually was forced into a room with 10 others, including nurses, patients, visitors and employees.

"By the time we closed the door," she said, "the room was filled with smoke. We had to open windows in order to get some air because it was just black in there. We put wet towels over our nose and mouth so we could filter the smoke and breathe. For a brief moment I thought this was curtains."

The hospital's executive director, T. Stewart Hamilton, said that "only time will reveal the many deeds of courageous actions on the part of patients and personnel."

The fire brought personal tragedy to Deputy State Fire Marshal Carroll E. Shaw as he directed the removal of bodies during the fire. The first body to be identified was that of his niece, 14-year-old Diane Pape.

The hospital's executive engineer, Stewart A. Sprague, raised the possibility that a combustible gas may have escaped and then ignited.

He said his theory was purely speculation, however, and that he did not know of any such gas kept on the ninth floor. But his theory, he said, would explain why the flames spread so quickly along the ceilings.

The only established fact, said Hartford Fire Chief Thomas Lee, was that the blaze started in the trash chute between the first and third floors.

Asked whether a cigarette might have started the fire, Lee said: "We think in terms of something like that."

Alarm One Hour Later
Lee said his department received the first alarm at 2:39 p.m. Witnesses at the hearing told of fire in the chute as early as 1:30 p.m.

"The fire was certainly fought by hospital personnel before an alarm was turned in," Lee said. "The question is, how long?"

The hospital discharged about 200 patients, including 100 women who recently gave birth. Other hospitals offered rooms to patients who might have been displaced by the fire. But Hamilton said all remaining patients have been transferred to other nursing units within Hartford Hospital.

The fire closed down eight units containing 216 beds, but the hospital expected many would be back in use within a few days. There was no estimate of monetary damage to the hospital, a gleaming white building just a few blocks from the state capitol.

Board to Discuss

with the data processing equipment the same chore could be accomplished in just two days.

Use Increases
He pointed to the increasing use of such equipment by the State Education Department and added that the Board of Co-operative Services in New Palis also has such a machine.

The Ontario Central School report cards are now processed by the Co-operative Services machine. Members of the finance committee who study the proposal include Chairman Kline, Mrs. Vincent G. Connelly and Andrew T. Gilday.

Assault Case Deferred

A 21-year-old laborer today received an adjournment until Monday at 9 a. m. for hearing in City Court on a third degree assault charge. Mozell Johnson, of 208 Broadway, was continued in bail of $25 pending disposition of the charge filed against him by Joseph Bowman, 54 East Strand, who accused the defendant of punching him in an apartment at 73 Hasbrouck Avenue, causing an injury which was treated at Kingston Hospital.

About the Folks

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley H. Dempsey of 29 Hudson Drive, Newburgh, formerly of East Chester Street, Kingston are the parents of their third daughter, Maureen Catherine, born at Cornwall Hospital, December 5.

Mrs. Dempsey is the former Jeanne Trombley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Trombley of Wilbur. The paternal grandmother is Mrs. Stanley Dempsey of 147 Albany Avenue.

Mrs. Herbert Van Wyck Darrow of High Falls is a patient at Benedictine Hospital. Mrs. Darrow entered the hospital Friday night for examination and tests.

FBI Chief Gets Criss Award for Safety Service

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, has been named recipient of the $10,000 Mutual of Omaha Criss Award. Dr. Charles W. Mayo, Mayo Clinic, chairman of the award's board of judges, made the presentation in Washington, D. C., Thursday night.

About 200 gathered at the presentation dinner at the Mayflower Hotel to honor Hoover.

Hoover received the award for "his outstanding contribution to the personal security and safety of the American public," said Dr. Mayo. Hoover has been director of the FBI since 1924 and has been associated with the Justice Department since 1917.

Dr. Mayo pointed out in making the presentation, "He has served through war and peace and in many different administrations and is, perhaps the highest ranking public official with such a long tenure of service. His work has been symbolic of the American way of life. He has upheld the principles on which this country was founded," said Dr. Mayo.

The award, consisting of $10,000 in free and a gold medal, was presented by Dr. Mayo. The award was established in 1950 by V. J. Skutt, chairman of the board and president of Mutual of Omaha, in honor of the founder of the company, Dr. C. C. Criss. It is presented for outstanding contributions in the field of health and/or safety. Past recipients include Dr. Jonas Salk, for his work with polio vaccine; Dr. Howard Rusk, world leader in rehabilitation; the late Dr. Thomas Dooley, jungle doctor of Laos; W. Earl Hall, safety crusader and editor and Dr. Philip Hench and Edward Kendall, for their work with cortisone.

Worker Is Hurt By Falling Limb

A 39-year-old Pennsylvania construction worker was injured at about 8:30 a. m. Friday when hit by the large limb of a tree he was removing off Freetown Road, Town of Plattekill.

Highland State Police Sgt. Robert Smith and Trooper Larry Grogan said Franklin Dippie, of 266 South Courtlandt Street, East Stroudsburg, Pa., was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, and treated for a dislocated right ankle and lacerations of the right leg.

Trooper Grogan said Dippie was working with other men employed by the Burnett Tree Service, East Stroudsburg, Pa., clearing trees along Freetown Highway. Town of Plattekill, when a large limb fell and hit him.

Holstein Group Accepts Plattekill Youth as Member

Eugene DuBois Jr., of Plattekill has been accepted as a junior member of The Holstein-Friesian Association of America, Brattleboro, Vt.

He qualified for the certificate of merit and junior membership pin through successful dairy project work with registered Holstein cattle.

Junior membership entitles 4-H members and Vo-Ag students to all of the privileges of the national Holstein organization with the exception of voting.

Under the plan, junior members register and transfer their animals at members' rates and receive regular reports of breed and Association progress.

More than 31,600 young Holstein breeders have participated in the program since its inauguration in 1923.

Rabbit Hunter Is Wounded Friday, Pellets Ricochet

A 66-year-old New Windsor man was wounded at about 8:30 a. m. Friday in a hunting accident near Plattekill, according to Highland troopers.

Trooper Larry Grogan, who investigated with Sgt. Robert Smith said Attilio Gandolfini, of Cross Street, New Windsor, was shot while hunting rabbits with John Rustico, 62, of 78 Church Street, Highland Falls.

According to Grogan, Gandolfini was standing on a stonewall driving rabbits when Rustico fired his shotgun and pellets hit the rocks and ricocheted and hit Gandolfini's legs and abdomen. Gandolfini was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, and admitted after treatment.

Others in the hunting party were identified as Joseph Bologna, Route 9W, Cornwall and Gregorio Galletti, the Bronx.

The condition of Wade Page, 28, of Mt. Marion, seriously injured in an auto accident on Glenrie Hill on the Glasco Turnpike, last Saturday, is reported as satisfactory today at Albany Medical Center. Page was pinned beneath his car for several hours after it went over an embankment on Glenrie Hill and according to state police received multiple bruises and abrasions and leg injuries. He was taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's ambulance following his discovery by a passing motorist and was transferred to Albany Medical Center Wednesday.

Fear 33 Dead As Ship Sinks

MANILA (AP)—A Panamanian freighter sank in a storm in the South China Sea Friday night and it was feared 33 on board may have perished.

The 1,722-ton freighter Combined One, en route to Hong Kong from Singapore with a cargo of logs, apparently went down just west of Ladd Reef, in the Spratly Island group about 650 miles southwest of Manila.

The U.S. Navy said five survivors had been rescued and two bodies recovered.

"No additional survivors have been sighted," said a spokesman at Sangley Point Naval Base.

The U.S. 7th Fleet landing ship, Epping Forest, reported rough seas and 35-knot winds were hampering rescue operations.

A fleet of 13 merchant ships in addition to the Epping Forest are scouring the choppy waters for survivors.
